WAY OPENED FOR CUTS IN WAR DEBTS

JAPAN EXTENDS LINES DESPITE LEAGUE ACTION

REPLY TO NATIONS SEEN AS REFUSAL

Statement Will Set Forth Fine Basic Principles for Settlement.

Tokyo, (Monday) Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Additional troops have been sent by Japanese authorities into Chinese territory in Manchuria to guard the Tsannan-Chenchaitun-Supingai Railway, which was reported to have been attacked by Chinese bandits.

The railway was built with money loaned by the South Manchurian Railway, a Japanese property.

A report by Gen. Jonjo, commanding the Japanese troops in Manchuria, said the bandits, many of whom are declared to be masquerading as Chinese troops, destroyed railway property at various points along the line. He said the bandits also attacked trains and stations.

"Therefore," the general said, "army authorities decided to dispatch a detachment of the Second Division from Changchun."

Protection Is Demanded.

Tokyo, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Japan has no idea of acceding to the League of Nations council's resolution calling upon her to withdraw troops from occupied Manchurian territory by November 16, government circles made clear today, unless China first offers guarantees of protection for Japanese lives and property.

The requested guarantee is one of five fundamental principles upon which Japan has said she would negotiate for a peaceable settlement of the Manchurian disturbance. The five principles were stated simultaneously with assurances that Tokyo would endeavor to persuade China to enter into direct conversations.

Direct negotiation, it was said, probably would in time lead to the beginning of troop withdrawals should local Chinese authorities be able to assume responsibility for proper policing of the districts.

Nonaggression Pledge Included.

Besides the demand that Japanese lives and property be protected in Manchuria before troops can be withdrawn, the other principles laid down by Japan are that the two countries mutually pledge nonaggression and guarantee each other's territorial integrity; China must abandon all forms of anti-Japanese propaganda, including the boycott; China must agree to eliminate competition with Manchurian railways, and China must recognize existing treaty rights, including the Korean and Japanese land leases.

It was further explained that while Tokyo is prepared to negotiate with responsible Chinese authorities, such a step is becoming increasingly difficult, due to the reorganization now under way in the Chinese government.

A draft of a statement which is designed to answer the league council's action will be submitted to the cabinet tomorrow for final approval and probably will be made public Monday evening.

Tokyo Blames Envoy.

Ambassador Yoshizawa, the Japanese representative at the league council, neglected to play one of Tokyo's trump cards last week when he was asked to define Japan's funda-

62-Foot Wall Blocks Rescue of Six Miners

Moconaqua, Pa., Oct. 25 (A.P.).—After more than 24 hours of ceaseless digging, members of a rescue party tonight still faced a 62-foot barrier between it and six miners trapped by an explosion in a mine of the West End Coal Co. here.

Mine officials estimated that the removal of the remaining debris would take another eight hours. They doubted that the six men were still alive. No signal had come from behind the barrier.

Hitlerites Win Seats In Germany's Elections

Dessau, Germany, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Adolf Hitler's National Socialist party scored heavily in the communal elections today in the State of Anhalt, where it captured only two seats in the 1927 elections.

The "Nazis" won twelve seats at Koethen, eleven at Kernburg, ten at Derbt, nine at Ballenstedt and fifteen in the City of Dessau. Several were injured in street fighting in connection with the elections.

New Credit Pool Plan Submitted by Bulkley

Glass Approves Proposal for $2,000,000,000 U. S. Fund, If Needed to Rediscount Real Estate and Other "Slow" Paper.

(Associated Press.)

Creation of a $2,000,000,000 Government pool for immediate rediscounting of frozen real estate security and other "slow" paper held by the Nation's banks was proposed yesterday by Senate Democratic finance leaders.

Senator Bulkley (Democrat), of Ohio, advanced the gigantic relief scheme as a corollary to President Hoover's emergency economic program. Senator Glass, of Virginia, the Democratic spokesman on banking legislation, promptly announced approval of it.

At the same time Senators Glass and Bulkley opposed any "tampering" with the Federal Reserve System in an effort to open the doors of that organization to the rediscounting of new paper for the purpose of meeting the emergency, as suggested in the Hoover private credit-pool plan.

Senator Glass is chairman of the banking subcommittee now engaged in drafting new legislation. Senator Bulkley is the other Democratic member of that committee. Their words will go a long way in the impending revision of the banking laws by Congress.

Meanwhile, the President conferred yesterday with bank leaders on the progress of the Emergency Credit Corporation.

George M. Reynolds, Chicago banker and chairman of the credit extension organization, was an overnight guest at the White House.

At breakfast, Mr. Hoover had also Mortimer N. Buckner, New York banker; Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles banker; Undersecretary Mills, of the Treasury; Gov. Meyer, of the Federal Reserve Board and George L. Harrison, governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

Senator Bulkley proposed that the tremendous relief program be carried

LEADER AT HAGUE EXPIRES IN CHURCH

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Roland W. Boyden, member of the permanent court of arbitration at The Hague, died suddenly today while attending services at the First Parish Unitarian Church of Beverly. He was 68 years old.

Mr. Boyden, who only last August was appointed American member of the arbitration tribunal under The Hague agreement of 1930, collapsed in his pew as services were beginning. He was removed to the vestibule, where he died, apparently the victim of a heart attack. He was pronounced dead when rushed to the Beverly Hospital.

With him as he died was Mrs. George Barton, a cousin. Mr. Boyden's death was wholly unexpected here, where it was generally believed his health was good.

Boyden served as head of the enforcement division in the Office of Food Administrator when President Hoover held that post during the war. Later he was unofficial American delegate to the reparations commission at the peace conference and more recently was appointed by President Hoover as umpire of the German-American Mixed Claims Commission.

Foreign governments, including France and Belgium, awarded him decorations. He was offered the post of comptroller in the financial rehabilitation of Austria, but declined it.

Until the World War, Mr. Boyden had been occupied with his affairs as a lawyer. Born in Beverly in 1863, he was educated at Harvard. Admitted to the Massachusetts bar, he rose steadily in legal and banking circles in New England until, in 1917, he was called to Washington. He distinguished himself so much during this period that President Wilson selected him to represent the United States on the original reparations commission.

Boyden attended the world finance conference in Brussels and subsequently, when the League of Nations considered restoring the financial status of Austria, he was offered the post of controller, he declined, however, and returned to his law practice. In 1924, Harvard University conferred on him the honorary degree of doctor

NEW BATTLES DEFY TROOPS IN CYPRUS

Mob of 6,000 Hurls Stones at Police; More Bombing Planes Arrive.

Nicosia, Island of Cyprus, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Despite the presence of military, naval and air reinforcements and the arrest of a number of ringleaders, the Island of Cyprus still was seething with revolt tonight and fresh outbreaks occurred during the day.

A crowd of 6,000 persons attending the funeral of a youth killed in the first day's rioting last week, attacked police here in the capital, hurling stones and shouting maledictions against their British rulers.

Bluejackets from the cruiser London, which arrived yesterday, were fired on at Larnaca by mobs agitating for union with Greece and the sailors retaliated with six shots, but inflicted no known fatalities. Several police and rioters were injured in other encounters there.

Greek manifestants assembled in large numbers in Larnaca last night and attacked British troops with stones, crying their defiance. The soldiers opened fire and forced the mob to disperse. The number of casualties was not known. A fresh movement started in Morphou on the north coast and lorries bearing troops were held up.

The second death from the revolution occurred in Limasol yesterday when police fired on a group which exhibited violence during the arrest of the Greek orthodox bishop of Larnaca and half a dozen others who were charged with leadership in the revolt. Four others were wounded.

Responding to an urgent request from Gov. Ronald Storrs, four bombing airplanes arrived here from Egypt, supplementing seven already on the scene, and will be used to combat recalcitrant Cypriotes in the event they begin guerilla warfare from the hills. Eight planes circled over Nicosia, Famagusta, Larnaca, Limasol and Paphos in a show of force.

Woman in Cabin Halts Pursuers With Rifle

Bayview, Idaho, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Sheriff's deputies crouched today around a cabin where Mrs. Floyd May, alleged demented woman, has taken refuge, seeking a chance to enter the building under the cover of a dense fog, but an ever-ready rifle kept them out of range.

Capone Turns Up His Nose At First Meal Behind Bars

Fallen Gang Chieftain Complains While Attorneys Seek Way to Delay Start of Prison Sentence; Charges Injustice Over Being Refused Bail.

Chicago, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Al Capone, fallen gang leader, sat in a county jail cell and complained about the food tonight while his attorneys studied desperately over ways and means to postpone his start on eleven years of penal servitude.

The attorneys were preparing a request to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for a supersedeas writ, which would enable Capone to live in his expensive hotel suite while his conviction for income tax violations is appealed to the higher courts.

The Government was prepared to hustle the millionaire gangster onto a train and away to the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kans. He was saved from an immediate trip yesterday by only a few hours.

Capone's immediate future probably will be decided upon after a petition for the supersedeas writ is received by the appeals court tomorrow. If the petition is granted, he will be released on bond; if denied, he goes to prison.

Although he did not admit in so many words, Capone's financial troubles were believed to be almost as worrisome to him as his projected prison terms. It was estimated the income tax trial and conviction would cost him approximately $1,000,000.

In addition to the 11-year sentence, Capone was fined $50,000 and ordered to pay the court costs, estimated at $100,000. And as he left Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's courtroom after hearing that news, he was presented by an internal revenue agent with attachments on

HOOVER MAKES STRONG ATTACK ON ARMAMENTS

Declares Fear of War Affects Economic Conditions.

METHODIST SESSION ADDRESSED BY RADIO

President Asserts That 'New Mind' Must Be Created in and Among Nations.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover struck anew yesterday at increasing armament among nations, declaring such material manifestations of a fear of war adversely affected economic conditions.

"The nations groan under taxation," he said. "People in all lands suffer daily from economic depression, governments are preplexed—and yet we go on using incalculable sums in evident dread of those that may come upon us."

The President's words were addressed directly to Methodists in the closing session of a world meeting at Atlanta, Ga.

Into microphones set up in the Cabinet room of the White House, carrying his statement Nation-wide, the Chief Executive called for the creation of a new mind in the world, set against war and dedicated to human brotherhood within nations and between nations.

All Nations Feel Slump.

"It seems strange and incredible," he said, "that after all the centuries of man's experience with war we still have to discuss it and argue against it. It seems even more strange that, with all the crushing burdens resting upon every nation because of wars, we still make progress against them at snail's pace."

The President's address follows:

"I am very happy to speak briefly to the representatives of world Methodism assembled in Atlanta. I sincerely regret that public duties make it impossible for me to accept your invitation to address you in person.

"Your conference meets at a time of universal but temporary difficulties. No country represented in your body is exempt from conditions that are trying and difficult. Unemployment walks before you as something much more real than a specter. It presents not simply an economic difficulty but an acute problem for human beings.

Governments Are Limited.

"Crime and lawlessness undoubtedly will engage your serious attention not simply as problems of law but as problems of life. I am sure you have been sobered by the state of the world. I am equally sure you will not yield to despair or let your courage and faith fail.

"Governments have their normal limitations. They must depend largely upon churches and schools to create, preserve, and increase the spiritual and moral basis essential to the life of the States themselves. They must have the cooperation of bodies like yours, of all religious faiths alike, working in their proper sphere, in the making of necessary attitudes and the creation of essential human tempers, such as a keen, quick consciousness of human needs and a high sense of human values.

"With you lies a great responsibility in negation of that spiritual laissez faire—that I am not my brother's keeper. Governments are tested at last by their attitudes to the welfare of men and women. No

Treasury Department Offers 60-Million Issue

(Associated Press.)

The Treasury Department is offering $60,000,000 of Treasury 91-day bills, to be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidders.

The bills, dated November 2, 1931, and maturing on February. 1, 1932, are being sold to provide payment for $59,850,000 in Treasury bills which mature November 2.

Soviet Sub Crew Is Saved in Crash

German ShipThat Rammed Vessel Reaches Port in Safety.

Helsingfors, Finland, Oct. 25 (A.P.). The Finnish radio station at Viipuri reported today that the entire crew of an unidentified Russian submarine which was reported in collision yesterday with a German freighter in the Gulf of Finland had been rescued.

The station made repeated, but futile, efforts to reestablish communication with the freighter Gratia. It was understood, however, that the Gratia was at Kronstadt, with its bow dented and the forepart of the ship filled with water.

Text of Statement By Hoover and Laval

October 25, 1931.

A joint statement by the President of the United States and the president of the Council of Ministers of France:

"The traditional friendship between the United States and France, the absence of all controversy between our two governments, a record of many events in collaboration toward peace of the world, embracing among its recent phases the adoption of the Kellogg-Briand pact, render it possible and opportune for the representatives of our government to explore every aspect of the many problems in which we are mutually interested.

"Indeed the duty of statesmen is not to overlook any means of practical cooperation for the common good. This is particularly true at a time when the world looks for leadership in relief from a depression which reaches into countless homes in every land. Relations of mutual confidence between governments have the most important bearing upon speeding the recovery which we seek. We have engaged upon that mission with entire frankness. We have made real progress.

"We canvassed the economic situation in the world, the trends in international relations bearing upon it; the problems of the forthcoming conference for limitation and reduction of armaments; the effect of the depression on payments under intergovernmental debts; the stabilization of international exchanges and other financial and economic subjects.

"An informal and cordial discussion has served to outline with greater precision the nature of the problems. It has not been the purpose of either of us to engage in commitments binding our governments, but rather, through development of fact, to enable each country to act more effectively in its own field.

It is our joint purpose that the conference for limitation of armaments will not fail to take advantage of the great opportunity which presents itself and that it will be capable of meeting what is in reality its true mission, that is the organization on a firm foundation of permanent peace.

"Insofar as intergovernmental obligations are concerned we recognize that prior to the expiration of the

LAVAL ASKS BORAH TO BE PARIS GUEST

(Associated Press.)

Premier Laval and Senator Borah may get another chance—this one in France—to talk about their differences over international questions.

At the French Embassy last night they bid one another good-bye in friendly fashion. Their parting was so cordial, in fact, that the premier asked the chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee to visit him in Paris.

"I have done all the talking here," M. Laval said. "If you come to France I'll let you do all the talking."

Borah has never been abroad, and told the premier he would like to accept the invitation except for elections next year. Then he added he would at least give it "serious consideration."

Their last meeting at the reception was at best an anticlimax to their open exchanges on European relations.

President Hoover communicated to Senator Borah, the chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, the text of the declaration of understanding issued yesterday by himself and Premier Laval. The senator offered no comment.

The declaration contained no reference to revision of the Versailles treaty with Germany which Borah told French newspapermen was vital to world peace and which M. Laval told newspapermen he did not come here to discuss.

The senator repeated last night the statement he made upon leaving a lengthy conference with Laval Saturday night that he and the premier were far apart in their views, although they had exchanged them under the most pleasant circumstances.

The result of the frank exchanges between Borah and Laval on such vital topics as the Versailles Treaty, disarmament, a security pact and related subjects led to considerable pessimism in some circles here over prospects for early disarmament steps in Europe.

Before the Laval visit, Senator Borah gave his views to President Hoover. There is no indication that they conferred during the visit, but there is considerable interest here to find the reaction of Borah and the President on the results of the Laval conference.

Meanwhile, editorials followed up the newspaper displays of Senator Borah's declaration yesterday, and some of the Eastern papers took him to task for speaking out at this time.

In Borah's behalf, it is pointed out by his friends that he spoke only at the request of the French correspondents accompanying M. Laval in an interview arranged by them. He agreed to speak frankly and said in conclusion he had perhaps not been diplomatic.

Five Persons Die In Airplane Crash

Witnesses Say Nebraska Ship Stunting Before Accident.

Alliance, Nebr., Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Five persons were plunged 500 feet to their death here early tonight when the airplane in which they were flying lost a wing and crashed.

The dead are William Dovell, Alliance, pilot; William E. Perly, Alliance, Dawes Hollbaugh, Chadron, Nebr.; Henry Reem, Ashby, Nebr., and W. W. Tibbetts, Alliance.

Only two persons saw the crash, Pilot Art Peterson and Mayor Marle Mallory of Alliance, who were flying in another plane. Both declared that Dovell had been stunting.

There was no fire after the crash. All five were killed instantly.

MUSSOLINI ATTACKS VERSAILLES TREATY

Million Hear Fascist Chief Urge Modification and Debt Revision.

Naples, Italy, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Premier Mussolini told the Italian people today that the world must disarm, nations must be "just" and "the tragic bookkeeping" of debts and reparations must end if the world is to recover from its economic plight.

He spoke directly to half a million people gathered in the great 20-acre Piazza del Plebiscito here and to another half million in adjoining streets and nearby squares who were served by amplifiers.

From a balcony 50 feet up on the government palace he addressed the solid mass of Fascist "blackshirts," militiamen and colorfully garbed Neapolitans, whose ranks reached out as far as the eye could see.

"Something is jammed, perhaps broken," in world economics, Il Duce said, and he asked how there could be European reconstruction unless there was a modification of "some clauses of some peace treaties that have pushed whole peoples to the brink of material disaster and moral desperation."

He linked international affairs with Fascism by saying "our ship would be in port" if two years ago a "world storm" had not forced slow-going.

The premier had celebrated yesterday and last night the anniversary of his mobilization order for the march on Rome, at which moment the Fascisti made him their "duce."

He told the assembled throng today what Facism had done and is doing.

"There are not a few nations in the world today that view the problems of European reconstruction from our point of view," he said "Nine years have passed since Fascist Italy at London presented the problem of reparations and debts in a manner that now is the order of the day.

"But we ask ourselves, should there really pass 60 long years before there is written the word 'finis' to the tragic bookkeeping of debit and credit based on the blood of millions of youths who never will see the sun again. And can it be said there is legal equality among nations when on one side they are armed to the

Paraguay's Chief to Retire And Face Inquiry in Rioting

President Guggiari Will Delegate Powers to Avoid Civil Strife, as New Disorders Threaten Country in Dispute Over Gran Chaco Border.

Asuncion, Paraguay, Oct. 25 (U.P.). President Jose Guggiari decided tonight to delegate his powers to Vice President Ganzalez Navero as soon as practical and to submit himself to Congress for judgment in connection with the recent disorders in Paraguay. Renewal of disorders was threatened again tonight, despite heavy armed patrols. The present situation developed through opposition to the government's policy in the Gran Chaco boundary dispute with Bolivia.

The president, whose offer to resign was rejected yesterday by government leaders, issued a manifesto to army and navy officers charging that the present unrest in Paraguay was caused by a "systematic campaign" inaugurated by a group of citizens hostile to his regime.

He charged that they openly incited the people to rebellion and he urged the army and navy to maintain order. The nation already is under martial law as a result of riots in which five persons were killed.

Buenos Aires, Oct. 25 (U.P.).—President Jose P. Guggiari, of Paraguay, explained reasons for his retirement in the following exclusive message to the United Press here tonight:

"The motives for my retirement were explained in my message to Parliament. I am unwilling to be the cause of civil war, or that recent lamentable episodes should serve as a standard for rebellion. I desire peace for my country above all things. Educated in the school of democracy, I know that individual sacrifice for the common good is a virtue public men should possess. I trust my conduct will be understood and appreciated by my countrymen, and bring about the tranquillity so necessary at this moment."

HOOVER AND LAVAL RECOGNIZE BERLIN MUST BE GRANTED NEW CASH RELIEF

Premier Promises His Influence With France to Win Sanction if Experts Find That Reparations Should Be Scaled Down.

PRESIDENT WOULD ASK U. S. TO REDUCE SUMS OWED HERE

'Entente' Reached After Four-Day Conference Revealed in Joint Communique Which Also Says Maintenance of Gold Standard Necessary to Restore Normal Times.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

President Hoover and Premier Laval of France have paved the way for a reduction of both German reparations and allied war debts.

Neither man has committed his government to a binding agreement, but each recognizes that Germany must get further financial relief, lest she collapse and injure the economic structure of the world. In effect, President Hoover and Premier Laval have entered into a two-man entente to insure such relief.

Under the program approved by the American and French leaders, Germany will have to take the initiative. She will have to come out openly and admit that she is not able to meet her reparations payments to the European allies which defeated her in the World War.

She would do this by invoking a clause in the Young reparations plan which enables a debtor nation, finding its burden intolerable, to ask the appointment of experts to determine her capacity to pay.

Laval Help Promised.

Premier Laval agrees that if these experts recommend a scaling down of the reparations sum Germany is required to pay, he will urge his parliament to approve such recommendations.

President Hoover, for his part, agrees that if the European allies forgive Germany part of her debt to them, then he will urge Congress to forgive the allies part of their debt to the United States.

However—and this is a vitally important point with President Hoover—any new arrangement with regard to reparations and debts must be based on "capacity to pay."

If Germany's reparations payments are to be based on her financial capacity, so, too, must the war debt payments of the allies to the United States be based on financial capacity.

France Now Wealthiest.

France is wealthy, the wealthiest nation in Europe today. Great Britain is poor, the most heavily taxed nation in the world. President Hoover does not think that wealthy France should get the same proportionate reduction in its war debt as would be conceded to poverty-stricken Britain.

This "entente" between President Hoover and Premier Laval with regard to reparations and debts was the highlight of their four-day conference here.

In addition, the American and French leaders, whose countries between them hold more than half of the gold reserve of the world, agreed that the maintenance of the gold standard would be a major factor in restoring normal business conditions.

Matters Passed Over.

With regard to the world disarmament convention that is scheduled to be held in Geneva, Switzerland, next February, the two men expressed the hope that it would result in a "firm foundation of permanent peace."

As was forecast, the question of a "security pact" under which the United States would pledge itself to aid France in the event of attack was passed over. So were all other matters of a European political nature.

Premier Laval came here Thursday. That evening he met President Hoover and talked to him for a few minutes. The next day he went to the White House to spend the night. In the Abraham Lincoln study on the second floor, the President and the premier talked most of the afternoon and far into the night. At the end of that talk, they understood each other, knew where each other stood.

Then came the task of drawing up a joint statement, or, as the French style it, a communique. This was extremely difficult. The task began Saturday morning, and it was not until late yesterday that the business of erasing and inserting was completed. Premier Laval, so it was said, was responsible for the long delay.

Statement Is Veiled.

Yesterday afternoon Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills hurried to the White House to tell President Hoover that Premier Laval had finally given his approval to the joint statement. A few minutes later the mimeograph machines in the White House executive office were whirring and the statement was being distributed to newspaper men by Theodore Joslyn, the President's secretary.

The statement was so vague, or perhaps it would be better to say it was so veiled, that newspaper men, in dictating stories to their offices, missed entirely the big story with regard to reparations and debts.

Later on, the facts behind the statement were elaborated upon in an informal way in a most authoritative quarter. This exposition stripped the formal statement of the vagueness that lay behind its careful phraseology, phraseology used to avoid as far as possible domestic political complications in the two countries.

Because of its import, the eyes of the world will now turn again to Germany, where, as the German viewpoint was reflected here last

LAVAL THANKS U. S. FOR HIS RECEPTION

(Associated Press.)

Premier Laval of France, in a farewell public statement before leaving Washington, said he was convinced his conversations with President Hoover would renew the bonds of friendship between the United States and France.

The statement was made from the balcony of the lounge room of the National Press Club at the conclusion of a reception by the Overseas Writers Club.

"I have been touched by the reception which I have received in the United States," the premier said. "I take away with me a happy memory of the hospitality of the American people. I wish to say that my conversations with President Hoover have convinced me that they will renew the bonds of friendship between the United States and France, and that the result will be good for the world."

Talks Briefly on Radio.

A short while before the premier made a brief unscheduled radio address through a National Broadcasting Co. microphone. He spoke in French and his remarks were translated immediately for his hearers.

He said:

"The president of the French Council of Ministers thanks the American people for the friendly reception which they have made to the representative of the French people. My conversations with President Hoover have renewed the relation of friendship between our two great democracies. From all sides I have received evidence of the sympathy and understanding which have united our two great republics."

Later he met about 40 newspaper men in the Press Club's library.

Refuses to Amplify.

In response to a question on his feelings toward his talks with President Hoover and other officials, he replied in French:

"I am deeply pleased with the conversations and the cordial atmosphere that obtained among all officials."

He turned aside all questions concerning details of the joint communique with the reply "the text is sufficiently clear."

After numerous other questions, M. Laval said:

"I would simply remark that they have signally strengthened the bonds of friendship between the United States and France and will constitute an important step in international collaboration, more necessary than ever before."

Army Riders Ordered To Californian Fort

(Associated Press.)

The cream of crack Army riders—18 officers of the mounted branches—were ordered yesterday to Fort Rosecrans, Calif., for their final drills before the tenth Olympiad at Los Angeles.

Selection of the team from a group in training at Fort Riley, Kans., was made by Maj. Gen. Guy V. Henry, chief of cavalry, Col. Pierre Lorillard and other members of the 1932 Olympic games equestrian committee.

Hoover-Laval Announcement

Hoover year of postponement, some agreement regarding them may be necessary covering the period of business depression, as to the terms and conditions of which the two governments make all reservations. The initiative in this matter should be taken at an early date by the European powers principally concerned within the framework of the agreements existing prior to July 1, 1931.

"Our especial emphasis has been upon the more important means through which the efforts of our governments could be exerted toward restoration of economic stability and confidence. Particularly we are convinced of the importance of monetary stability as an essential factor in the restoration of normal economic life in the world in which the maintenance of the gold standard in France and the United States will serve as a major influence.

"It is our intent to continue to study methods for the maintenance of stability in international exchanges.

"While in the short time at our disposal it has not been possible to formulate definite programs, we find that we view the nature of these financial and economic problems in the same light and that this understanding on our part should serve to pave the way for helpful action by our respective governments."

Separately from the above joint text, the White House at the same time issued the following statement:

"A press statement that the President has proposed any revision of the Polish corridor is absolutely without foundation. The President has made no suggestions of any such character."

Doolittle Stunts for Mexicans.

night, the Hitler opposition group will make the utmost use of it to try to oust the Bruening government. It was partly to avert a political overturn in Germany, with its consequent economic reverberations, that President Hoover on July 20 proposed the one year debt moratorium. That expedient spared Germany the necessity of invoking the Young plan with respect to a moratorium, this matter having been made a violent issue between the Bruening government and the Hitlerites. Now the initiative again is thrust upon Bruening.

Apart from unconditional reparations, Germany is now under obligation to pay in all around $250,000,000 in reparations to France and its other former enemies. The United States, which turned down both reparations and territory after the war, would have collected around $260,000,000 from the allied countries this year but for the Hoover moratorium. The Young plan machinery provides for suspension of payments under certain conditions when its powers are invoked. Thus a step in the direction of meeting the situation that will exist July 1 has been taken.

In fact, as many interpret yesterday's understanding, the road toward ultimate wiping out of the intergovernmental obligations has been entered by the two governments, despite the qualifications made in official utterances.

Moratorium Insufficient.

That Germany will ask for a reduction in her reparations payments is a foregone conclusion. Though the Hoover one-year moratorium tided her over a crisis, it has not been sufficient to rehabilitate her in a permanent way.

Once Germany asks for a reopening of the reparations question, the Bank of International Settlements will appoint a committee of experts to determine Germany's capacity to pay.

When the United States readjusted European war debts to this country, it did it through a commission created by Congress. It is expected that another such commission will be appointed in this case.

When the final reckoning of the Hoover-Laval conversations is made, partisans for both sides will claim the credit. Friends of President Hoover will say that the victory was his. Others, equally sincere, will claim that the United States abandoned its international superiority to give the advantage to France and to Premier Laval.

Advantages Laval Won.

Following the issuance of the communique the following advantages were seen to accrue to Premier Laval:

First, the United States promised to consult France in anticipation for any international step, such as the Hoover moratorium well in advance of its announcement.

Second, the disavowal by President Hoover of any conversations about the Polish corridor between himself and Premier Laval.

Third, France was able to maintain her stand with respect to land armaments.

These points will be conceded as advantageous to the French. However, the United States, through President Hoover, also succeeded with regard to these points:

What President Won.

First, France got no security pact, which was the initial suggestion and predominating hope of Premier Laval before he arrived in Washington.

Second, gold withdrawals from the Federal Reserve Bank in New York will be regulated by an agreement with the Banque de France.

Third, the gold standard will be maintained by both countries.

Fourth — Reparations adjustments promised by France to Germany will secure for American bankers their four billion dollars' worth of holdings in industrial Germany, which would have most certainly disappeared in any further default by Germany.

These last points are perhaps favorable to the United States more clearly than they are to France, although such agreements as the gold standard are bound to work out to the satisfaction of both countries.

Both President Hoover and Premier Laval, however, will have to depend on the votes of their respective parliaments for the answer to the problem as to which statesman was the winner. Such a stir was precipitated when President Hoover told congressional leaders on the night of October 8 that he proposed to talk about debts and reparations with M. Laval that the Executive's prepared statement had to be revised.

Both Face Opposition.

Representative John N. Garner, of Texas, the Democratic leader of the House, told the President that he would refuse to underwrite in advance any action on debts and reparations. Thus far, the Texan has not even approved the President's one-year moratorium plan.

If President Hoover is destined to meet opposition in Congress, then so, too, is Premier Laval certain to encounter a fight in the French Chamber of Deputies.

The exact terms of the joint statement issued by President Hoover and Premier Laval were only arrived at after arduous consultation and comparison between the two leaders. Premier Laval went to the White House yesterday morning at 10:30. At that time he had in his pocket the French version of the Hoover-Laval communique. He had slept at the home of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and was ready for the final revision of the statement.

Hours wore on and the conflicting interpretations to which the same word can give in English and French caused the President, the premier and their interpreters to examine and weigh carefully every word.

The White House doors opened at 1:30 in the afternoon and the premier left to go to Washington Navy Yard, but the text of the joint statement was not yet ready for distribution.

At the navy yard he received a nineteen-gun salute and immediately after boarded a Department of Commerce yacht to have luncheon with Secretary Lamont.

A trip to Mount Vernon originally had been planned but the premier was forced to abbreviate his plans in order to hurry back to the home of Ambassador Edge and go over the final draft of the communique.

Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills had been summoned to the temporary home of the president of the council and he reviewed with the premier on his reurn the completed text.

Mr. Mills left the Edge home at 4:30. He smiled at newspapermen waiting outside and said, pointing to his inside pocket:

French Version Given Out.

"Here's the baby. I am going to the White House and this will be mimeographed and ready for you in about 45 minutes."

"Are you satisfied with the baby?" he was asked.

"Sure thing," he replied.

Shortly after 5 o'clock the text of the joint communique was given to the press. French newspapermen were, however, waiting anxiously for their French version, hoping to find in it more specific points than had appeared in the English text.

The premier soon afterwards went to the National Press Club, where he was received by Eugene S. Leggett, president, and Paul Wooten, of the Overseas Writers Club.

The famous Laval smile was never more in evidence. The president of the council shook hundreds of hands, greeted the members of the club and their guests, made a radio speech and gave his final interview with the press before dashing off with his motorcycle escort to the Edge home to dress for dinner, his last one in Washington. Ambassador and Madame Paul Claudel were the hosts to the premier and Mademoiselle Laval last evening. Senator William E. Borah dropped in at the embassy also for a final chat with his French adversary and they parted the best of friends. The Laval party left soon after midnight on a special train that took it to New York.

Begins to Show Fatigue.

The premier first showed signs at the Press Club of the fatigue caused by the long and arduous program he has been subjected to these last four days. He sank into a chair just before his conference with the journalists, but bounced out again when he saw himself surrounded by threescore of them.

He was his usual smiling self. His swarthy face lit up with an engaging smile when his most formidable interlocutor boomed forth the opening gun in the barrage of questions. The final conference of the premier with the press was almost affectionate. Compliments were given and exchanged.

At the end of the interview, which was perhaps the least animated of the three he had accorded the press, the premier's bete noir bloomed forth his apologies and added:

"It's too bad we haven't got more politicians like you in this country, Mr. President."

Laval seemed to be touched at the warmth of the journalists' farewell. He said:

"I wish to thank you all for your courtesy, your restraint and your kindness in dealing with me. I shall carry back to France with me the remembrance for a long time of your warm friendliness and cordiality."

The premier announced he had several appointments in New York to address the Foreign Policy Association, of which James G. MacDonald is the president. MacDonald is the man generally regarded as responsible for bringing Laval to this country.

"However," the premier added through his faithful mouthpiece, Robert T. Pell:

"I also hope to find time to visit one or two of those high buildings I saw in New York before coming down here to Washington."

One correspondent queried:

"Will the building be Al Smith's?"

The president of the council replied:

Retains Sense of Humor.

The president of the council has not lost his sense of humor, however, despite his weariness.

Some one asked him:

"After your four days' stay in the United States have you gotten to like ice water?"

M. Laval paused a moment and said emphatically:

"That's a question." He stopped for a moment and then finished his thought:

"When I am in America, I adore water; when I am in France, I prefer wine."

The premier's final words were:

"I must tell you of the very agreeable impressions I am taking back from your country. The reception I had from your authorities, the reception I had from the people and from the journalists was so sympathetic and cordial that I could not express it by any banal form.

"I always knew but now I relaize more completely that in America there is a warm and flourishing cult of remembrance of the past.

"I believe that the conversations I have had with President Hoover will constitute an important step in international collaboration today more important than ever."

Betrothal of Otto And Maria Held Up

Expected Announcement Withheld by Italian Royal Family.

San Rossore, Italy, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—The expected betrothal of Princess Maria, 16-year-old daughter of the Italian King and Queen, to Archduke Otto, pretender to the vacant throne of Hungary, failed to materialize today.

It was said yesterday by persons close to the royal household that the engagement would be announced today on the first wedding anniversary of King Boris of Bulgaria and Queen Giovanna, sister of Princess Maria.

Archduke Otto was understood to have arrived at Viareggio, where it was said he was staying incognito at the villa of friends.

Graf Near Canary Islands.

Hamburg, Germany, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin reported today it had passed a point about 100 miles southwest of the Canary Islands on its return trip to Friedrichshafen from Pernambuco, Brazil.

BORAH IS CRITICIZED BY POLISH SOCIETIES

German Convention Cheers Senator's Name for His Statement.

Berlin, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—A telegraphen Union Dispatch from Warsaw quoted foreign Minister Zaleski as saying the Polish government did not intend to take official notice of Senator Borah's statement to the press.

On the other hand, the dispatch reported him as saying, "the whole Polish Nation refuses to admit now and forever any discussion regarding its frontiers."

Warsaw, Poland, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Twenty-four Polish political, scientific and literary organizations today cabled to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson a protest against Senator William E. Borah's statement concerning the Polish corridor.

His sentiments were criticized as "offending the feelings of justice, detrimental to the good relations of European nations, undermining the confidence indispensable to economic recovery, weakening respect for international obligations on which peace depends, fostering conflict and hampering disarmament."

Poland was essentially pacific, the message said, but would never agree to a curtailment of its sacred rights or the partition of its territory.

"We are convinced that Poland can fully count in her defense of justice," he said, "on the universally known fairness of the great, noble American nation, of which she has had so many proofs in the past."

Indignation over United States Senator Borah's statement on the Versailles Treaty continued at a high pitch today and the press resumed its criticism.

The Gazeta Warszawska, opposition paper, warned that the Anglo-Saxon world would soon be eclipsed by France, which, it was said, would continue to defend Poland's rights in the corridor.

The Gazeta Polska praised President Hoover in an editorial today in which it expressed the hope that he would "bring his share in the perfection of a peace technique still awaiting its Edison."

Against the slogan "America First," the newspaper said, President Hoover put the slogan "Energy First."

"Thanks to his broad views," the newspaper added, "the United States has cooperated more intensively to overcome the world crisis in disarmament problems and in economic and financial matters."

Berlin, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Senator William E. Borah's name was cheered vigorously today at a patriotic gathering of East and West Prussians commemorating the 700th anniversary of the conquering of the land between the Vistula and the Memel rivers by Teutonic knights.

Speakers said his statement advocating revision of the Versailles Treaty showed the world was awakening to the fact no peace was possible until the question of the Polish Corridor was settled. President von Hindenburg as a West Prussian and Prussian Premier Braun as an East Prussian sent sympathetic messages.

Smith to Show Laval Empire State Building

Premier Laval has accepted an invitation from former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York, to go to the top of the Empire State Building today after his arrival in New York.

MacKenzie Elected As Glasgow Rector

Glasgow, Scotland, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Compton Mackenzie, Scottish nationalist candidate and novelist, was elected lord rector of Glasgow University today.

The results of the polling were: Compton Mackenzie, 849; Sir Robert Horne, Conservative, 762; Prof. Gilbert Murray, Liberal, 581; Tom Johnson, former labor keeper of the privy seal, 110, and Sir Oswald Mosley, leader of the new party, 21.

It was the first time a Scottish nationalist had ever been elected to the office.

Premier Laval Thanks U. S. in Our Tongue

(Associated Press.)

Premier Laval spent a half hour of his limited time in Washington yesterday learning to speak an American phrase.

With a short broadcast scheduled the premier asked his interpreter, Robert Pell, to teach him a phrase thanking the American people.

Under the tuteiage of Pell, the premier said over and over again, "I thank the American people."

When he stepped before the microphone to utter his English phrase, he did it perfectly except the "thank" sounded a bit like "think."

GRANDI, IN GERMANY PLEDGES ITALY'S AID

Starts Conference Series With Berlin Officials; Is Guest at Dinner.

Berlin, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy, arriving here as the emissary of Premier Mussolini, began a series of conferences with German officials today and pledged Italy's hand in "bringing about justice and equality for all."

At a dinner in the chancellery tonight he replied to an address by Chancellor Bruening by recalling the cordiality of the Italo-German meeting in Rome last summer.

"Be assured that we Italians admire the readiness with which the German people suffer sacrifices," he said, "and the manly virtues with which they are addressing themselves to the task of overcoming their present difficulties.

"Italy has always fully appreciated the part Germany has played in the history of the world and knows she is an essential factor in our culture. Italy is free from prejudice, she offers her hand to all willing cooperators in bringing about justice and equality for all."

"The German nation feels a bond of sympathy with all who are willing to bury the past," Herr Bruening said. "We admire the Italian nation, with its youthful energy which is developing its rich resources. We discern the same indomitable will to live as we have here.

"That emboldens us to hope to find across the Alps a full understanding for our struggle against economic stress and our fight for freedom and equality."

The foreign minister told the Italian press at a tea in the Italian embassy that Italy was pursuing a policy of world peace and that he was glad to come into closer touch with German statesmen to further objects within the scope of the larger conferences taking place in Washington between President Hoover and Premier Laval.

Shortly after his arrival he paid a courtesy call upon Chancellor Bruening which extended for almost an hour and during which both exchanged views on political questions affecting the two countries.

Signor Grandi was warmly welcomed by Herr Bruening, representatives of the foreign office and the Italian Ambassador when he arrived at the station.

Bruening Takes Bouquet To Wife of Duce's Envoy

Berlin, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, the fatherland's No. 1 bachelor, was seen for the first known time today with a bouquet of flowers for a member of the fair sex.

He bore in his arms a great bunch of red roses to the station and presented them to Signora Dino Grandi, wife of the Italian foreign minister. She accepted the offering with thanks and a smile.

Josette Laval, Tears Gone, Inspects Naval Academy

(Associated Press.)

A tea-time tete-a-tete between Josette Laval and a handsome Navy football star yesterday redeemed the disappointment that made her week Saturday at the White House.

Lou Bryan, regimental commander and tackle of the Naval Academy team, was the escort of the premier's daughter at an inspection trip through the grounds at Annapolis.

Bryan distinguished himself Saturday in Navy's victory over Princeton. Josette had looked forward keenly to seeing the game and was bitterly disappointed when she found it impossible. The necessity of making newsreel pictures at the White House kept her from going to Princeton.

But yesterday she motored over the winding road to Annapolis for a visit to the academy before making her farewells to the Capital. She was accompanied by her friends from Paris, Mlle. Jacqueline Guimier and the mother of Robert T. Pell of the American Embassy in Paris.

Capt. H. D. Cooke, the commandant, and his wife received the girls and took them to famous old Bancroft Hall, the midshipmen's home. There Bryan and seven other midshipmen were presented. After a stroll about the academy grounds all went to tea together in the commandant's quarters.

Dressed in a close fitting brown and white frock, the 19-year-old Josette wore a brown beret with a red feather cockade. She was the same laughing, vivacious girl who captured the public with her merriment on her arrival. A very different Josette from the downcast one who went to a movie Saturday.

Mlle. Guimier, who arrived Saturday from New York, was bubbling with delight, too. This blonde demoiselle wore a pink satin dress with tan wrap and hat.

When Capt. Cooke escorted Joselle into the big Graystone Bancroft Hall, she met a simultaneous salute by the eight midshipmen, lined up in V formation just inside the door. Bryan walked beside Josette. They went through the big rotunda to the mess hall, then through the memorial hall, and back.

In the course of her short visit, the dark, and vivid Josette saw about 150 of the midshipmen—for word had spread, and the midshipmen obviously wanted to see her.

When Capt. Cooke informed her that she would meet a football player, she grinned happily. When she left she radiantly expressed her delight.

Josette's triumph with all she met in Washington may be measured by the comment of the chauffeur which the State Department provided for her.

"I have been driving a mighty lot of famous people around here," the driver said while he waited for her, "but I never had any so nice before. She always knows her mind; she always can tell me, and does, where to be and when."

Escort of Mlle. Laval Spilled but Apologizes

Mlle. Josette Laval, daughter of the French premier, can say from experience that American police when assigned to the task of escorting a dignitary on a motor trip are out to do so with a maximum of courtesy and efficiency.

On the return trip from Annapolis, which was made in 40 minutes, a car shot out from a side road into the main highway near Cottage City and Private Charles H. Miller, of the Traffic Bureau, escorting the car bearing Mlle. Laval, put on his brakes hard.

Miller's motorcycle skidded and lurched, throwing him to the roadway and dragging him for nearly 40 feet. The limousine pulled up quickly and the young Frenchwoman hurried to the injured escort. Miller, however, though bruised and shaken up, was on his feet in a flash, grinning, and extending his and his Government's apologies for the delay in the trip.

PARIS SEES FRENCH VIEWS ESTABLISHED

Laval Visit Is Held to Have Brought Understanding to Two Countries.

Paris, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Premier Laval's visit to Washington was regarded by the French press today as having brought about an understanding between France and the United States concerning their respective positions on world problems. The comment was published prior to the issuance of the joint statement of President Hoover and Premier Laval at Washington.

The French viewpoint on the question of disarmament and security especially was looked upon as having been clearly established, and it was remarked with satisfaction that the two countries apparently had got together on economic and financial problems.

Senator Borah's statement advocating revision of the Versailles treaty was criticized by several newspapers as "tactless." But conservative journals, like Petit Parisien, said the senator had done France a service by admitting that her armaments and national security were matters for France to settle alone and that France had a right to reparations for war damages.

German Nationalists Strengthened.

Echo de Paris said, however, that Senator Borah's suggestion that boundaries in the Polish corridor be revised only strengthened the hand of the German Nationalists at a moment when the French and German governments were trying to arrange a "political truce" and concentrate on economic collaboration.

Failure of the League of Nations council thus far to settle the difficulty between China and Japan was regarded by the press as an additional reason why France should maintain a sufficient armament to guarantee her own security, pending an organization for peace which would guarantee France against invasion.

French journalists expressed pride in the premier for having, they said, frankly and loyally represented French opinion at Washington.

Paris, Oct. 25 (U.P.).—A definite note of disappointment underlay French press comment today on the conversations of Premier Pierre Laval in Washington.

Although the long articles carried by Paris newspapers in connection with the Washington conferences contained many words of optimism, the underlying tenor of comment was that hope for some response to the French suggestions for a security pact in return for French concessions on disarmament and readjustment of debts was doomed.

Hoover Visit Suggested.

Competent sources attached importance to the failure of Senator Borah and Laval to progress toward an agreement in their conversation, and suggested that the only course left open for Laval was to invite President Hoover to return his visit by making a trip to Paris.

It was realized, in making such a suggestion, that there was only the remotest prospect that it would be considered seriously. Nevertheless, responsible persons insisted that a European trip by Mr. Hoover would be the most beneficial move at the present time in efforts to solve financial problems.

The apparent refusal of Washington to respond to French suggestions for a consultative pact by which France might feel she would have at least the consultative and moral support of other nations against any possible aggressor nation in the future, disappointed French observers, who had hoped for advancement of disarmament negotiations by that method.

Ather comment in Paris papers yesterday regarding the Hoover-Laval conversations follows:

Quotidien: "The real conversations are finished. There only remains ministerial touring. What has been the result of this great trip? The official White House communique contains four negations on five essential points. This speaks for itself. In other words, nothing constructive, nothing positive, has been accomplished. It is to be wondered if the trip actually was worth the trouble.

"Apparently the bankers of Wall street registered one serious gain, namely, French gold will remain in the strongholds of the Federal Reserve Bank. This, for them, is of the greatest importance."

Le Matin's correspondent, Stephane Lauzanne, wires: "The fact is, we crossed the Atlantic not to cure all ills from which humanity suffers today, but, rather, we crossed for the purpose of expounding the attitude of France toward these ills. At least on one capital point France succeeded in getting America to conform to our attitude. It is much to have won one point. This permits us to hope regarding other points. France frequently has complained her true attitude was not understood in America. M. Laval explained the French attitude with force, clarity, even ruggedness, so that nobody today on this side of the Atlantic can misunderstand what we think, wish and have to offer."

No Political Accord.

Ami du Peuple: "What are the results of Laval's voyage to Washington? It may be said no accord has been attained, even on principle, on the major political questions, therefore results are negative. Borah's emergence reminded Hoover * * * it must not be forgotten that the United States, more than ever, does not wish to be immersed in European affairs. American statesmen are considering the American economic crisis entirely due to interior causes. Those who held high hopes have been deceived. Nothing is changed from before.

Figaro: These gentlemen occupied themselves with monetary stability. They recognized that maintenance of the gold standard is necessary. That is all; that is very little.

The heads of the governments envisaged possible remedies, adjourning until later. * * * No accord, nothing but words; this system of adjournments is dear to our parliamentarians. In other times France had ambassadors, had diplomacy, had a minister of foreign affairs. The head of the government has not been compelled to tour the capitals of Europe and cross the ocean in order to inform himself of the possibilities of future collaboration. Diplomats were there for the purpose of attending to financial and commercial affairs. Likewise to prepare modifications of treaties.

The Communique on the Hoover-Laval conversations finally has been issued. This communique said exactly nothing.

FASCIST NEWSPAPER ATTACKS M'ARTHUR

Scores Alleged Statement on Jugoslav Army Maneuvers.

Rome, Oct. 25 (U.P.).—A speech attributed to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the United States Army, during his visit to Jugoslavia, has been bitterly attacked by the Fascist press in connection with comment on the Jugoslav army maneuvers.

The newspaper Tevere took the lead in commenting on the speech in which MacArthur was quoted as saying a "liaison of sentiment and spiritual friendship" united the American army with that of Jugoslavia, which Italy regards as a none too friendly neighbor.

The Tevere said that perhaps the excellence of the Jugoslav maneuvers or the sparkling quality of the banquet wine made "Gen. MacArthur abandon himself to political oratory."

The paper pointed out that MacArthur was the only foreign military expert invited to witness the Jugoslav maneuvers, and then quoted another passage from the speech, which said:

"Our desires, our sentiments, our characters are fundamentally the same. In the great moral principles of right to liberty and peace, the armies of Jugoslavia and America will march parallel in full accord, not disturbing one another, since in all fundamental things Jugoslavia and America are in perfect accord."

Although to American observers the words seemed quite harmless, they appeared to have offended the sensitive feelings of various Italians.

Hoover Wreath to Rest Upon Roosevelt's Grave

New York, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Brig. Gen. Lucius R. Holbrook, commander of the First Division, U. S. Army, will go to Sagamore Hill, Oyster Bay, N. Y., on Tuesday with a commemorative wreath from President Hoover for the grave of the late President Theodore Roosevelt.

Pistol Shots Fired At Peruvian Chief

Home of Sanchez Cerro Is Attacked From Autos; Arrests Made.

Lima, Peru, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Lieut. Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, who is believed to have been elected president of Peru on the basis of unofficial returns, was the object of a pistol attack today by political enemies.

A band of men in three motor cars fired on his house as they passed and the residents returned the fire. One of the cars stopped and its occupants engaged in a fist fight with Sanchez Cerro's bodyguard, being badly battered. They were handed over to police and a guard was thrown around the house.

Virtually complete returns gave Sanchez Cerro 113,249 votes to 83,538 for his nearest opponent, or more than the necessary plurality.

NEW AMBASSADOR OF MEXICO ARRIVES

Dr. Puig Casaurano Says He Will Work to Extend Friendly Relations.

(Associated Press.)

Newly-appointed Ambassador Puig Cassaurano, of Mexico, arrived last night from New York, where he spent several days en route from Mexico City.

The envoy, who will succeed former Ambassador Manuel C. Tellez, now secretary of interior and head of the Mexican cabinet, said his plan was to work for continued friendly relations between the United States and Mexico.

Although he met newspaper men courteously, Dr. Puig put off definite questions of policy and relations. He said his stay in New York was by way of rest rather than for any financial business. He did not comment on other issues.

The new envoy was greeted by members of the embassy's staff, Director General Rowe of the Pan-American Union and by several personal friends. His manner was cordial. It was a chill evening and, noticing newspaper men standing bareheaded to interview him, he put on his black sombrero and invited his new acquaintances to wear their hats.

Dr. Puig said he brought his credentials with him and would present them to President Hoover as soon as the arrangements could be made.

Unemployed Aid Held Not Charity

Smith and Butler Speak for Relief Campaigns on Radio Hook-Up.

New York, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—The American spirit of neighborliness and commodity cooperation was appealed to tonight by former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University, to aid the unemployed.

Dr. Butler and Mr. Smith spoke in support of local relief campaigns over a Nation-wide radio hook-up arranged by President Hoover's organization on unemployment.

"It must be strictly borne in mind that these efforts to relieve distress," Mr. Smith said, "are not in their nature the extension of charity. They are rather the expression of neighborly or community feeling."

U. S. RUM CONTROL IS LAID TO CAPONE

Chicago Detectives Are Told to Scatter Remainder of "Gang."

Chicago, Oct. 25 (U.P.).—The Chicago Herald and Examiner says that the Alphonse Capone "syndicate" controls bootlegging throughout the United States, "with almost unbelievable millionns in annual profits."

"Revelation of the vast scope of the syndicate * * *" the article continues, "emphasized the huge task still confronting the Government to stamp out the liquor traffic.

"No independent bootlegger can now exist in any city in the country without capitulating and dealing with Capone's syndicate.

Controls "Dealers."

"Bottles, labels and all other bootlegging paraphernalia must be purchased by the individuals from the syndicate and when the "dealer" buys bottles and labels he also must buy a stipulated amount of alcohol and uncut bourbon or Scotch whisky. The latter becomes the base for the 'Scotch' or 'bourbon' the dealers sell.

"Bootleggers in such widely scattered cities as Detroit, Kansas City, Denver, Tulsa, New Orleans and Houston, Tex., all now get their supplies direct from the Capone syndicate.

"In the East and on the West Coast, where liquor running and distribution are controlled by other major groups these organizations have working agreements with Capone.

Holdings in Oklahoma.

"A group of Tulsa (Okla.) bootleggers was told to 'deal with the Demayo outfit in Kansas City from now on.' Demayo is Capone's Kansas City agent.

"New Orleans and Houston 'dealers' were made to send to the syndicate in Chicago for their supplies.

"Gross revenue from the liquor traffic has been estimated in Chicago alone at between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 a week. Federal agents, asked concerning the nation-wide profits, said the total was 'breath-taking.' They would not even attempt to estimate the staggering figure."

Capone sat in Cook County's "crackproof" jail tonight while Detective Chief John Shoemaker ordered his men to go out and scatter the fallen gang leader's powerful band of beer runners, racketeers and gamblers.

Raids on the Lexington Hotel and other haunts of the Capone organization will be started at once, Shoemaker said, unless the gang shows signs of breaking up of its own accord, now that its leader has been sentenced to prison for eleven years and fined $50,000 and court costs on charges of evading his income tax during the most prosperous years of his criminal career.

S.S. George Washington Ordered Decommission

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 25 (A.P.).—The George Washington, which next to the leviathan, is the largest American vessel engaged in transatlantic passenger and freight service, is to join the idle fleet in the James River, according to advices received here from Washington.

She is now on her last voyage from Hamburg, Southhampton and Cherbourg, bound for New York. When she arrives at the latter place, she will have ended her transatlantic service, for the time being at least. It is stated, as a unit of the fleet operated by the United States Lines which also operates the Leviathan.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 86

WHAT'S wrong with this orchestra? This question would have been considered insulting in 1906, when the musical coterie pictured was in its heydey, but any modern music fan would answer right away: "It hasn't any saxaphones."

Back in those days the saxaphone hadn't been born. And music lovers didn't seem to object to its absence, judging by the popularity enjoyed by this orchestra. These musicians had enough instruments to make good music. Count the violins. Trombones, French horns, cornets, clarinets and cellos can also be seen.

This was known as the Rebew Orchestra. It was directed by H. W. Weber. It had 38 members. Folks weren't able to stay at home and listen to an orchestra, as they can now, but they didn't object to traveling to a concert hall to hear this one. Well, remember there weren't any movies.

out through an established government agency, such as the Federal Land Banks, rather than a new one. Here is the nub of his plan:

"To amend the farm loan act so as to permit the Federal Land Banks to purchase or rediscount loans made on real estate security, either agricultural or urban, or even permit them to purchase or rediscount loans based on stocks and bonds, is no serious departure from principle in the character of their holdings.

"Whether we wish to make these broadened powers available only for the present emergency, or whether it would be better to make them wholly or partially permanent, may well be matter for further thought and discussion.

"I expect that this proposal would involve a very large investment by the Government in Federal Land Bank stock. I have not at present any adequate data to justify a fair estimate of the amount, but if it should prove to be $2,000,000,000, or even more, I see no reason for hesitating."

Suggests Bond Flotation.

He proposed that the Government float bonds to raise the fund and suggested such an issue would go far in drawing currency out of hoarding.

Senator Glass, to whom Senator Bulkley advanced his plan, made the following comment:

"I am disposed to concur with Senator Bulkley's view that effective remedies could more promptly be applied through some established agency of the Government, such as the Federal Land Banks, rather than through a corporation akin in its purposes and activities to the old War Finance Corporation.

"Whether the amount required would be greater or less than that suggested by Senator Bulkley, and whether the proposed relief should be confined to real estate securities, would be details for careful consideration by the banking and currency committees of Congress. I am assuming Senator Bulkley's proposal is to meet a temporary emergency, which undoubtedly exists, and is not intended to put the Government permanently in the business of dealing in real estate securities."

Forecasters or No, Winter Will Be Just What It Is

By JOHN J. DALY

AMATEUR and professional weather forecasters are at odds. The "pros" say it is going to be a long, hard winter. The amateurs aver, to a man, that winter will be over long before spring is due; in which case, of course, there will have to be a substitute season pressed into service.

There are signs:

In Canada, the bees are storing honey higher than usual, which means a long winter. The beavers are already building new bridges to cross in anticipation of ice packs. The bears are laying in huge supplies of provisions. Beagle hounds are bellowing, in the back country, at the moon; a token of cold nights.

In Chicago parks, fur on the squirrels is so thick this year it is possible to see through the bush on their tails. It means a warm November, little frost and no skating or tobogganing.

Denver, with snow falling two weeks earlier than in other years, sees traffic tie-ups and lays in enough supplies for the hardest winter of all times.

* * * *

SAN ANTONIO, getting ready to open the new West Point of the Air, nature's own flying field, is experiencing balmy summer weather, the men going round in Palm Beach suits and the ladies in flimsiest chiffon.

It is cold in Florida and warm in Maine, hot in Washington State and frigid down on the Mexican border.

Meterological experts have never known such strange changes in the atmosphere. This is the reason, naturally, why one man's guess is as good as another—and why the amateur weather forecasters say one thing and the professionals issue contradictory statements.

* * * *

NO END of confusion, there is a movement on foot to standardize weather predictions. At present there are entirely too many rules in the game. One man studies the animals, watches their antics. Another judges the weather by sunsets and sunrises. Still a third counts on the condition of his corns. So it goes, until Uncle Sam's official forecaster arises in his wrath and states: "The country is full of amateur predicters. No one in the world's history has ever accurately forecast a season's weather—unless he made a lucky guess."

In keeping with this, it is going to be a short, snappy winter with a sprightly spring. You can tell it by the turning of the leaves and by the thick fur on the tongues of politicians.

PRESIDENT MAKES ATTACK ON INCREASING ARMAMENT

thoughtful person in a place of high trust can forget the dramatic picture, drawn by the Great Teacher, of nations being sent away into torment because they had neglected the sick, the naked, the hungry and the unfortunate. Hardly anything in modern civil life is more encouraging than the new human feeling, the deep human interest now so widespread among governments.

Leadership of Churches.

"In this devotion to human life they gladly recognize the real assistance and leadership of the churches, which constantly hold before their governments the ideals of courage and charity, sympathy, honor, gentleness, goodness and faith. The governments know that the life of the world can not be saved if the soul of the world is allowed to be lost.

"The age in which we live has seen marvelous material achievements, and we can not tell what new victories and discoveries lie just ahead of us. But all this brings to human life a problem of its own—the problem of keeping our physical achievements from mastering us and our material possessions from controlling us. And we must depend upon the churches to help men and women everywhere to see that life does not consist in the abundance of things, that along with devotion to men's physical well-being must run the eternal purpose to keep the soul of the world alive and regnant.

"And I am sure you will let me say that the churches in every land must never fail to help the governments to establish and maintain plain, simple righteousness.

World Needs New Mind.

"The kinds of evil now rampant in all lands are not alone a menace to government. They are destructive to all that human life for which governments and churches alike exist. All crimes are crimes against human interest and welfare. The centuries have taught no lesson more plainly than that righteousness exalts nations and evil breaks them down.

"May I close this brief message with a word upon a theme very close to my heart and I believe equally close to yours? I refer to peace among all men that dwell on the earth, to a future free from horrors, and the result of wars between nations. It seems strange and incredible that after all the centuries of man's experience with war we still have to discuss and to argue against it.

"It seems even more strange that with all the crushing burdens resting upon every nation because of wars we still make progress against them at snail's pace. The nations groan under taxation, people in all lands suffer daily from economic depression, governments are perplexed—and yet we go on using incalculable sums in evident dread of those that may come upon us.

"A new mind must be made in the world on this subject; a new spirit must be created within the nations and between the nations. And I appeal to you as representatives of Methodists everywhere to unite with all other lovers of good will and followers of the Prince of Peace for the making of human brotherhood, in which the peace of God shall prevail in the lives of men.

"I sincerely thank you for this privilege of speaking to you and wish you all the richest blessings of earth and heaven."

New York Flier Killed Stunting for Charity

Jersey City, N. J., Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Harry E. R. Hall, New York broker, was killed today when his monoplane fell 1,500 feet while he was stunting at a charity air meet here. Thousands of spectators saw the plane fall.

It struck the roof of a house, glanced off, hit the porch of another house, and then crashed in the back yard. Hall apparently had shut off the motor to prevent setting fire to the houses.

Two Killed in Biplane Crash.

Calexico, Calif., Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Harold Nichols, 38, Long Beach, and Clarence Pritchard, 27, Calexico, were killed today when the biplane they were flying dived to the earth from an altitude of 800 feet.

RETURN TO RELIGION IS URGED BY CURTIS

Then Will Universal Peace Be Attained, Speaker Tells Ecumenical Session.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Attainment of universal peace through a return by the nations of the earth to fundamental religious concepts was visualized today by Vice President Charles Curtis in an address before the Sixth Ecumenical Conference of Methodism.

Mr. Curtis said there was a "desperate urge and need for the nations to get back humbly" to the spirit of "Love thy neighbor as thyself," and to create a sentiment of good will and forbearance leading to a fixed policy of arbitration of international differences.

"I take it the only way to greatly desired universal peace can be had is by man's cultivating good will toward his fellow man," Mr. Curtis continued, "by refraining to exercise brute force with which to impose the will of one man or of one nation on another, and by submitting differences of opinion to impartial tribunals for arbitration."

Accept Arbitration.

The Vice President said the people generally accept arbitration in principle and that if questions involved in the World War had been arbitrated "they could have been settled without the resort to war with its cruelties and barbarities."

He recalled that the ecumenical conference of 40 years ago heard President Benjamin Harrison express himself for universal peace and that it was the sentiments of the people of that time as well as of the present.

"Even during the war," the Vice President said, "it was our sentiment; we were warring that the world might have peace. Except perhaps for a few horribly selfish and cruel people it must be the sentiment of the world. Otherwise what lesson have we gained by the frightful carnage our generation has witnessed?

"It would be wonderful if the strong nations of the world would agree upon a plan of disarmament which would reduce their armies and navies to the minimum strength needed for national defense.

"The keynote of promoting world peace is that each citizen of each country have due regard and reapect for the rights of his fellows, for the laws and courts of his country and for its government and constitution. It is basically a matter of morals, of religion, and of the church."

Calls Hoover Peaceful.

Mr. Hoover, he said, is a peace-loving President, and told of his efforts to bring about understanding and accord.

Mr. Curtis said the peoples of the world, regardless of race or color, had begun to realize the need for restored confidence, and that in this and other countries "there is a loyalty to the common good which will come forth and rout the existing economic peril."

Mr. Curtis said the "vast majority of our people are opposed to that spirit which disregards law and order and the Constitution. As a whole we are peace-loving and law-abiding. We will for the public good restrain those who are otherwise.

"With conditions as they are today, we need a reawakened sense of social and religious obligation, of loyalty to the common good and obedience to the common law."

He advised the conference to study "false doctrines spread by those engaged in the antireligious movement," and suggested that believers in "the old-time religion" join in a study of the best methods of combating the "evils around us."

Seek Disarmament.

A few moments before the Vice President spoke, the Rev. Ivan Lee Holt, of St. Louis, read the pronouncements of the conference, asserting that the immediate task of all churches "is to assure the nations' representatives at the Geneva conference in February that the peoples of this world will back them in their every effort and plan for disarmament," and peace.

Methodism's pronouncements also contained the declaration that in order to provide the proper environment for wholesome living the church must resist the liquor traffic, gambling, racial discriminations and unfairness, economic injustices arising from putting profits above human values, amusements that debase, ideas of sex and marriage which do not arise from respect for personality and war with its destruction and antagonism to human happiness and brotherhood.

Concluding the ten-day, once-a-decade session of the world conclave, the delegates will go to Savannah tomorrow to visit the scenes where John Wesley first brought Methodism to the new world.

RASKOB AND SHOUSE 'WET' VIEWS SCORED

Dry Democrats Should Not Back Rum Propaganda Bureau, Board Says.

(Associated Press.)

Marshalling of 50 "minute men" to lift financial worries from the 1932 Democratic presidential campaign met yesterday an open suggestion from organized prohibition forces that "dry Democrats" should not support a wet propaganda bureau.

Simultaneous with the announcement of new details of the Democratic victory campaign to raise $1,500,000, the national prohibition board of strategy publicity pointed to the "wet views" of John J. Raskob, national committee chairman, and Jouett Shouse, executive director.

Board Has no Concern.

The board said it "has no concern" with the campaign fund drive "to pay off a debt of about $750,000 owed so, or largely if not wholly underwritten by John J. Raskob * * * and to provide a campaign fund for 1932 * * * except in this particular:

"Dry Democrats should specify that no part of their contributions shall be used to make of or maintain as a wet propaganda bureau the headquarters of the national Democratic committee in Washington or elsewhere.

"Though having disclaimed any intention to write the next Democratic party platform, or to dictate to its nominees of 1932, Mr. Raskob, in recent months, echoed by his subordinate, Jouett Shouse, has thrown off the mask so that Mr. Shouse goes about the country advocating modification of the eighteenth ammendment in line with wet hopes, and Mr. Raskob loses no opportunity to voice his wet views.

$1,000,000 Investment.

"The fact that Mr. Raskob, in addition to financing the Democratic national committee, has given probably much more than $100,000 to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, shows a total investment or underwriting approaching $1,000,000, the intention of which has been mainly to undermine prohibition.

"Dry Democrats should earmark their gifts to the party with the stipulation that their money shall not pay Mr. Shouse's salary either as a wet speech-maker, or a wet statement issuer, or to pay for any other wet propaganda activities by him, by the national Democratic committee, by its chairman or any of its paid or volunteer workers."

The Democratic campaign statement was issued by John W. Davis, general chairman and former presidential nominee. It said the inner army of 500 will cooperate with 48 State victory fund committees, "both joined by State 'armies' of Democratic women."

CAPONE COMPLAINS ABOUT FOOD IN JAIL

his $40,000 Florida home and his Chicago safety deposit vaults.

The attachments are an attempt by the Government to collect $215,000 in overdue income taxes on which he was convicted. Penalties and taxes on additional income revealed during his trial are expected to increase the amount to $500,000 or more.

This is the first time in his twelve-year residence in Chicago that Capone has visited the Cook County Jail for any protracted stay, despite the fact that his name has been connected with many murders and numerous other crimes.

As for the jail itself, he doesn't like it. He turned up his nose at the first meal served him, corned beef and cabbage, drank two cups of coffee, and dabbled with his rice pudding dessert.

Then he talked with the two other inmates in his cell, one of them a Negro charged with petty thievery. Finally he decided to pay a $100 disorderly fine for the second prisoner, an unshaven, shifty-eye man, and thus obtain his release.

"My sentence is twice as severe as anybody else ever got for an income tax case," he complained to newspaper reporters. "Jack Guzik (business manager of the Capone liquor, gambling and vice syndicate) only got five years. And they let him out on bail during his appeal, too. That's justice for you."

Capital Has $47,000,000 In Research Foundations

New York, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Development of strong minds in healthy bodies, keynote of the Grecian philosophy, seemed also to be the principal interest of American philanthropic agencies during the past fiscal year.

A survey made public today by the Twentieth Century fund shows that more than two-thirds of the $52,500,000 disbursed by 122 leading American foundations was used to foster educational activities, medicine and public health.

The fields of government, economics and politics were relatively neglected, only $794,000, or 1.5 per cent of the total being given for study along these lines.

In all $26,800,000 was given for the advancement of education. Medicine and allied activities received $18,600,000.

The balance was contributed toward research work in social and physical sciences.

The Rockefeller Foundation, with capital of $147,300,000, topped all others with grants totaling $18,100,000.

An analysis of the geographical distribution of foundations, the report shows, establishes New York as the center of philanthrophy with 82 foundations centered here.

Washington is second with five foundations controlling $47,000,000 or 5 per cent of the total capital.

LAST APPEALS MADE IN BRITISH ELECTION

MacDonald to Spend Today in Whirlwind Tour of Constituency.

London, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Last appeals were addressed by British political leaders to the electorate tonight before the nation goes to the polls Tuesday either to continue the MacDonald coalition—the so-called national government—in power, or thrust it out and put another in its stead.

"Labor's return would be an irreparable disaster," said Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, in a statement which emphasized the topsy-turvy nature of the campaign in which former Labor leaders have been fighting their own party.

"The fate of the country is in the hands of the Liberals," said David Lloyd George, repeating his adjuration that the Liberals vote for free trade candidates for the House of Commons, preferably Liberals, but Labor nominees rather than Tories.

MacDonald Makes Final Tour.

Arthur Henderson, former member of the late Labor government, said it was difficult to forecast the results, since the campaign had been unique, but he declared there had been a strong leaning toward Labor in the last few days.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald rested today in Easington in his own constituency. Tomorrow he will make a personal whirlwind tour of the constituency.

The general election, all its split parties and confused issues affecting Great Britain's international relations, is simplicity itself in the mere mechanics of voting.

Parties Not Shown on Ballot.

The event is comparable to a presidential election in the United States. But the 29,955,131 men and women voters—the latest figures are 1,000,000 more than in the 1929 general election—will not have to wrestle with large blanket ballots, such as those required in many American States where national, State and local offices are filled the same day.

When the British voter goes to the polls Tuesday, he will identify himself, his name and address will be checked by officials and he will receive a ballot about 8 inches square. On it, printed in alphabetical order, will be the names of candidates for the House of Commons from his constituency—nothing more.

The voter will have to know the politics of his man, for there will not even be a party identification after the candidate's name.

Burnley, England, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary in the late Labor government, was taken ill here tonight and was forbidden by his physician to leave his hotel.

Mr. Henderson was suffering from a chill early this evening, but continued with work of the Labor party of which he became leader, succeeding Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald after the formation of the National government.

Later he said he was suffering from pains in his stomach and was shivering and upon Mrs. Henderson's advice, he went to bed. The pain became worse and his wife and son, William, sent for a doctor.

Owen D. Young Opens Birmingham Chest Drive

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Owen D. Young, in an address opening the Community Chest campaign here today, directed attention to the needs of idle persons willing to work as the greatest among the three general classes of unemployed throughout the Nation.

Mr. Young, chairman of the committee on mobilization of relief resources of President Hoover's unemployment commission, listed the three classes as those conscientious and able to work when there is work to do, those who because of physical and mental limitations are practically unemployable and those who refuse to work and neglect to save "for a rainy day."

Mary Garden's Concert In Washington Canceled

The New York booking for Mary Garden's concert appearance here at Constitution Hall next Friday has been canceled and the Floreine Hurley Foundation Concert Course has therefore been withdrawn. The individual artists included in the course are scheduled to be brought in later in the season.

Subscriptions for course tickets have been refunded by the treasurer, Miss Bertha Martin, and single tickets for Mary Garden may be redeemed at the Willard Ticket Bureau.

teeth and on the other they are condemned to be unarmed?"

This reference to Germany and her allies was followed by another, touching the Versailles Treaty.

"And how can one talk of European reconstruction unless there are modified some clauses of some peace treaties that have pushed whole peoples to the brink of material disaster and moral desperation?" he asked. "And how much more time must pass before we realize that in the economic apparatus of the present world there is something that is jammed and perhaps broken?"

These were the ideas, he said, which concern "true peace which can not be disassociated from justice."

"Otherwise," he added, "it would be based on vengeance, rancor and fear."

Then he told the people of Italy that their political progress must be "toward the people," putting into concrete form "our economic civilization, which is as far from the monopolistic aberration of bolshevism" as it is from the overdocumented insufficiency of liberalism.

"The world crisis no longer is solely economic, but above all is spiritual and moral," he said. "We must not wait inactive and inert. The greater the obstacles the straighter and stronger should be our unconquerable will."

Trunk Killing Details Bared In Note Laid to Ruth Judd

Newspaper Publishes Letter Confessing to Double Phoenix Slaying, But Claiming Self-Defense and Clearing Merchant of Being Accomplice.

Los Angeles, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—The Times in a copyrighted story today said Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, in a signed, detailed statement, had confessed she shot and killed Hedvig Samuelson and Mrs. Agnes Anne Le Roi at Phoenix, October 17, and sent their bodies, one dismembered, to Los Angeles in two trunks and a suit case.

The statement, a consecutive, narrative given to her husband, Dr. W. C. Judd, pleaded self-defense after a quarrel between the three women because Mrs. Judd had introduced J. H. Halloran, wealthy Phoenix lumberman, to a girl of whom Miss Samuelson and Mrs. Le Roi disapproved.

Alone in Crime.

It denied Mrs. Judd was aided by any one, and it offered the first description of her movements after the bodies were found at a baggage station last Monday until she was arrested here Friday night, suffering from a bullet wound in the hand.

The statement said she spent Monday night concealed by curtains in the drapery department of a downtown department store. It tells of suburban wanderings in her stockings, because her shoes went to pieces, of hiding in a vacant cottage at a Pasadena sanitarium, of writing a letter there to her husband, which she later tried to destroy; of her purchase of a newspaper in which she read that Dr. Judd had engaged counsel for her and was pleading that she surrender, and of telephone calls which finally led to her delivery to the authorities.

The letter to Dr. Judd was found torn and watersoaked, in the drains of the women's rest room of the department store yesterday after an attendant noticed a stray fragment on the floor and called the police.

"It has been charged that I had an accomplice, either before, during or after the actual tragedy," the account began. "This is not true.

Cites Self-Defense.

"I alone shot and killed both these women, who were once my friends. I did it in self-defense, to save my own life, and for no other reason.

"I alone disposed of the bodies. I had no help of any kind from anyone.

"I caused the receptacles containing them to be shipped from Phoenix to Los Angeles, expecting in some fashion to dispose of them here."

The statement said Mrs. Judd realized she may have weakened her self-defense plea by attempts at concealment, but, "in my dazed fright it seemed to me the only thing to do was to hide—hide everything and myself. I was mistaken, but that is what I did."

The statement said Mrs. Judd spent the night of Friday, October 16, at the Samuelson-LeRoi apartment.

"We had breakfast in our pajamas," it related. "Anne and I were preparing to go to our positions at the Louis Grunow Memorial Clinic. It was about 8:30. Sammy was standing in front of her dresser, combing out her hair.

"We had been chatting about trivialities. Then the conversation turned to Jack Halloran.

Asked Introduction.

"Some days before Jack had dropped in at the clinic and asked me to introduce him to a new nurse whom he had wished to meet. What her name is doesn't matter. So I shall call her Miss X. I was sure the acquaintance never would develop to a stage of intimacy. Jack Halloran was only a good, true friend to us all, including Anne.

"But, although Anne was not, nor had been, in love with Jack, nor he with her, she was extremely jealous.

"But, as we talked, last Saturday morning, about Jack and Miss X, Anne suddenly reached the breaking point." She declared Mrs. Le Roi threatened to tell Halloran a "professional secret" concerning "Miss X." Mrs. Judd threatened professional reprisals against Mrs. Le Roi.

The statement went on:

"Sammy, as I have said, was standing at her dresser. She stopped combing her hair and turned around to face me.

"'Ruth, she said, 'if you ever say anything about Anne and cause her to lose her job, I'll shoot you as sure as your name is Ruth Judd.'"

Mrs. Judd declared she then recalled that her .25 caliber pistol was in a drawer of the bureau.

Had Gun in Hand.

"There," the recountal pursued, "was that gun, loaded, where Sammy could grab it up in a flash if she chose, and there was the memory of her temper. So I walked away and went to the kitchen.

"Only a few seconds later I turned and saw Sammy standing in the doorway between the kitchen and the dining room. She was aiming the pistol at me.

"I made a lunge for her. With one blow I tried to strike the pistol from her hand, but she fired and the bullet hit my finger. I struck again and this time the gun clattered to the floor.

"We struggled. It was terrific. We swayed, then both fell to the floor, both clutching at the pistol. Anne came screaming into the kitchen. She seized an ironing board that had been standing against the wall, and as she did so, I grasped the gun.

"From my half-prone position on the floor I fired. The bullet struck Sammy in the head—I may have fired another—I am not sure.

Falls to Floor, Shot.

"I got to my feet, as Anne came at me with the ironing board I fired at her. I fired again—I don't know how many times.

"Anne dropped, not far from Sammy.

"Then everything went blank. The place was deathly still as I recovered and slowly realized the enormity of what had taken place. It broke upon me like a thunderclap."

Mrs. Judd said that "with trembling hands" she placed the bodies on beds and washed away the blood stains from the floor. Then she went to the clinic, and, she declared, did her typing with her right hand. In midafternoon, it is stated, she returned to the house, dragged Mrs. LeRoi's large trunk from the garage and placed the two bodies into it.

"I spent the rest of the day," she said, "tidying up the place as best I could."

When an expressman told her the trunk was too heavy to be sent as baggage, Mrs. Judd said she had it sent to her own home, and "I did nothing more that night."

"Sunday morning," the statement continues, "when I lifted Sammy from the trunk I tried to place her in my own little metal locker trunk, but that was too small. So I dragged her to the bathroom and in the bathtub I severed her body with a butcher knife. The upper part I put in the locker trunk. Then I divided the lower part, removing the legs at the knees. There was room for them, too, in the little locker trunk. The rest I placed in my suit case."

Dissected in Bathtub.

The trunks and suit case finally checked to Los Angeles, Mrs. Judd said she telegraphed her brother, Burton McKinnell, to meet her here. Suspicious, but unaware of what had happened, he accompanied her to the baggage room, where officials refused to surrender the trunks until they had been opened. She left McKinnell's car after he had given her $5, at a corner in the central business district.

She wandered aimlessly until late afternoon, she said, when she entered the department store and concealed herself behind hanging drapes. No one detected her, and Tuesday morning she purchased a package of dye and changed the color of her dress in the store's restroom.

"I went to a theater," she said. "I don't remember what the picture was about. It was just a blurred mass to me."

At dark she started to walk. The soles of her shoes wore out and she threw them away, going on in her stocking feet.

DOAK TALK TO OPEN INDUSTRIAL DISPLAY

Cabinet Members and Labor Groups Are Invited to Show Tonight.

Cabinet officers and other officials have been invited to the opening of the seventh annual industrial exposition of the Chamber of Commerce tonight in Washington Auditorium. The week-long exhibit will be launched with a radio address by Secretary of Labor Doak, who will speak from the auditorium over radio station WMAL, at 8:45 o'clock.

Officers and members of 140 labor organizations have been asked to visit the auditorium to hear the Labor Secretary's speech. A group of civic leaders, including Commissioners Reichelderfer and Crosby, will act as a reception committee.

Nineteenth street entrance to the Auditorium will present an imposing sight for visitors to the exposition. A gateway of stone from the Bucolston quarries, near Cabin John, has been erected and has been landscaped by architects from the Hyattsville Nurseries.

Visitors will pass through this entryway to the industrial museum, feature of the exposition, in which will be displayed representative articles and products from every field of manufacturing and processing in the Capital.

War Veteran Kills Self Rather Than Leave Wife

Boston, Oct. 25 (U.P.).—Preferring death to a life of separation from his wife, Charles E. Corey celebrated his third wedding anniversary with a party that lasted until early morning today, and a few hours later committed suicide by shooting himself.

Corey, a World War veteran and a victim of tuberculosis, caused by mustard gas, had been ordered to a life of celibacy by his physician.

His wife, thinking he had overslept after the party, went to waken him. She found him dead with the revolver in his hand.

Reputed Rumrunner Slain in Border Fight

Alpine, Tex., Oct. 25 (A.P.).—A reputed Mexican rumrunner was slain and an American immigration officer and another smuggler wounded in an exchange of shots last night on the Rio Grande, near Presidio, Tex.

Ware Hord, Marfa, Tex., the immigration official, was wounded in the abdomen and was taken to a Marfa hospital. The wounded rumrunner toppled into the river and could not be located afterward.

8 Americans Ordained At 3 Catholic Colleges

Vatican City, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Eight Americans were among a group of young priests from many parts of the world who were ordained today at three Catholic colleges.

There also were 25 Mexicans, 6 Brazilians, 2 Chileans, 1 Peruvian, 1 Nicaraguan, 1 Costa Rican and 1 Filipino.

GUNBOAT TO RESCUE 3 CAUGHT ON COCOS

Sacramento Will Search for Trio Said to Be Castaways There.

Balboa, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—The American gunboat Sacramento was steaming toward Cocos Island tonight to aid in the search for three Americans who are believed to have been cast away when their yawl was wrecked last spring.

Julius Fleischman, former Mayor of Cincinnati, Ohio, who previously reported discovery of traces of the men on the island, radioed that he had encircled Cocos and had not sighted the refugees. The Sacramento expects to arrive early Tuesday.

The castaways, Paul Stachwick, of Huron, S. Dak.; Gordon Brawner, of Springfield, Ill., and Earl Palliser, of San Diego, Calif., were said to have left a note indicating they had struck inland to look for food.

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—The attempt to rescue three men believed to have been stranded many months ago by the wreck of their yawl, the West Wind, on Cocos Island, may be unnecessary, George A. Palliser, brother of one of those believed marooned, said here today. He said they had expected to wait out the rainy season there on their way to Easter Island.

Palliser said Elmer J. Palliser, who with Paul Stachwick, of Huron, S. Dak., and Gordon Brawner, of Springfield, Ill., set out from here four days before last Christmas for Easter Island, expected to wait out the rainy season on tropical Cocos Island.

Let's talk Straight from the Shoulder

WHAT'S the net of this cigarette question? Let's lay the facts face up.

What you want in a cigarette is taste. You want mildness . . . smoothness . . . and pleasure when you smoke.

You rule out harshness, bitterness and bite.

All right then . . . get this straight.

IT'S no secret that Chesterfield pays top prices . . . yes, and a premium for the ripest, mellowest, sweetest-tasting leaf that grows.

But it makes Chesterfields taste better and smoke smoother . . . and that to us is a justifiable extravagance.

The men who do the curing and conditioning are specialists, too . . . carefully trained in handling these fine tobaccos.

IN BLENDING, Chesterfields are also different.

Instead of merely mixing the tobaccos together . . . we cross-blend them. It's like making a new and better-tasting kind of tobacco—a tobacco with greater smoothness, more mildness, and a more pleasing aroma. That's how we get that Chesterfield flavor. Milder . . . riper . . . mellower.

What about cigarette paper? . . . That's part of the story, too. Only the best that's made—the purest and finest—is good enough for Chesterfield.

Pick up a package. Note its clean appearance . . . free from heavy inks. And it's moisture-proof.

And three big factories at Richmond, Durham and San Francisco—operating under the strictest sanitary standards—rush them fresh to you.

Good . . . they've got to be good. Because they're made that way.

And most important of all . . . you can taste this goodness in the cigarette. You can tell it in the smoke.

Light up, Mister! Try Chesterfield.

Let the cigarette do its own talking. You'll get the whole thrilling story, in just two words . . . "They Satisfy"!

"Yes Sir—Mild yet they Satisfy"

RECORD CLAIMED BY RUTH NICHOLS

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Driven off her course by strong wind and with her gasoline tank almost empty, Ruth Nichols, Rye (N. Y.) aviatrix, landed her Lockheed-Vega monoplane at Bowman Feld here today at 9:40 a. m., central standard time. Apparently the older of a new nonstop distance record for women, her course took her over approximately 2,000 miles, according to airport attendants here. The record of 1,810 miles is held by Maryse Bastie, French woman.

Although she will not know for several days whether she set a new record—the sealed barograph of her plane must be sent to the Bureau of Aeronautics at Washington for inspection—the society flier expressed confidence she had bettered the French woman's mark, made in a flight from Paris into Russia.

"I had a fine trip all the way to Chicago," the famous aviatrix said. "From there on the ceiling was a little low and the wind blew me off my course. Wandering about used up lots of gasoline and I decided to land here and refuel."

After resting up from her long journey from Oakland, Calif., from where she took off at 8:17:30 p. m. (E. S. T.) Saturday, the aviatrix made a radio address here.

She expressed determination to continue her flight to New York tomorrow morning, leaving here at 9 o'clock.

"I am endeavoring to make a record from here to New York," she said.

As her plane neared Louisville, the flier evidently was unable to ascertain her exact location. She circled over the city and surrounding country for about an hour before bringing the plane to a perfect landing. She appeared tired and weary as she was assisted from the cockpit, but greeted airport attendants in a cheery manner.

Telephoned to Mother.

She was the guest of a member of the Louisville and Jefferson County air board during the afternoon and refused to talk about her flight until she had been refreshed by a rest.

As soon as she had left the plane, she telephoned to her mother at Floyd Bennett Field in New York and expressed belief she had broken the French flier's record.

The plane carried 550 gallons of gasoline at the take-off. The air distance from Oakland to Louisville was estimated by local aviators at 2,000 miles. They said they believed she had flown farther than that on account of her plane being blown off its course.

The barograph was removed from the plane and immediately prepared for shipment to Washington.

New York, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Breaking aviation records is nothing new to Ruth Nichols. She already has established women's records for a one-stop transcontinental flight, altitude and speed.

She set the transcontinental mark in a flight from Los Angeles to New York, December 10, 1930, with a stop at Wichita, Kans. Her time for the 2,300-mile coast-to-coast flight was 13 hours 21 minutes and 43 seconds.

Set Altitude Record.

Her plane was credited with flying to a height of 28,743 feet last March 6 at Jersey City to create a women's altitude record. Her altimeter showed a height of 30,064 feet, but the National Aeronautic Association, in approving the new mark, fixed the height at the lower figure.

The following month—April 13—she flew more than 210 miles an hour at Detroit for a new women's speed record.

Miss Nichols was severely injured June 22 when she damaged her plane in landing at St. Johns, N. B., preliminary to an intended transatlantic flight. She had flown from Floyd Bennett Field in Brooklyn and while trying to land in the face of the sun, misjudged her distance.

She was taken home a week later by airplane, the pilot being Clarence Chamberlin, transatlantic flier, who has been Miss Nichols' adviser in her aviation activities.

Her managers announced last month that she had definitely postponed another attempt at spanning the ocean this year because of unfavorable weather conditions. She took her first long flight since her accident October 7, hopping off for Charlotte, N. C.

Girl Killed, Man Hurt in Crackup.

Painesville, Ohio, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—When their plane crashed on a farm four miles north of here late today, Miss Mary Dorr, 20, East Cleveland, was killed and Raymond L. Manson, Cleveland, was critically injured. Investigators said the plane was making a forced landing.

SHOUSE CLAIMS TWO G.O.P. HOUSE SEATS

Ohio and Michigan Districts Normally Republican Are Named in Forecast.

(Associated Press.)

Capture by Democrats of two normally Republican districts in special elections a week from tomorrow was forecast yesterday by Chairman Jouett Shouse of the Democratic national executive committee.

In a statement from his party's headquarters, Shouse said revolt against the Hoover administration and discontent of the people prompted impartial observers to concede Democratic condidates had a good chance of winning in the First Ohio and Eighth Michigan districts.

"The fact that the Republicans are very uneasy as to the outcome is shown by the sending of prominent speakers into each district," Shouse added. The Republican speakers, he asserted, had been "attempting to defend the Smoot-Hawley bill" and the Farm Board.

Democrat Lead Now One.

Shouse suggested the Republican spokesmen do "some missionary work" in their own party after quoting Col. William Cooper Procter, soap manufacturer and a Republican, as saying "a downward revision of our tariff laws" was needed for the return of prosperity.

Already holding a majority of one in the House line-up, the Democrats would be in a better position to organize the House if they took the two traditionally Republican districts besides the Twentieth Ohio and the Seventh New York, usually Democratic. Shouse said the Second Pennsylvania, also to be filed November 3, "seems safely Republican."

Definite plans on how to fill the vacancies in the fifth New Jersey and the First New Hampshire districts, created by the deaths of Representatives Ackerman and Hale, respectively, last week, are to be made this week. Both are traditionally Republican strongholds.

Jersey Legislature Meets.

The New Jersey Legislature will meet today to undertake a change in the election laws. Gov. Winant of New Hampshire is expected to announce what course will be taken to fill the vacancy there.

Former Gov. John H. Bartlett and Mrs. Hale already have been mentioned here as possible candidates. Bartlett is a close friend of the Hale family. He also is chairman of the International Joint Commission and a former Assistant Postmaster General.

While the outcome of the special elections is awaited by party leaders in Congress before predicting as to which will organize, the annual influx of House members in preparation for the convening of Congress December 7 has begun.

Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the Republican leader, is to arrive tomorrow. Tilson and Representative Snell, of New York, chairman of the last rules committee, are outstanding Republican candidates for the Speakership nomination. Snell will return after the elections.

Representative Christgau, independent Republican, Minnesota, declared Saturday neither Snell nor Tilson was satisfactory to independents.

MRS. STEVENS DIES; WASHINGTON SCION

Was Descendant of First President's Adopted Daughter.

Special to The Washington Post.

Berryville, Va., Oct. 25.—Word has just reached here of the death of Mrs. Emily Contee Stevens, who died from heart disease early this morning at her home in Bedminster, N. J.

Mrs. Stevens was the widow of Col. Edwin A. Stevens, of Castle Point, Hoboken, N. J., and the daughter of the late Col. and Mrs. George Washington Lewis, of Monterey, Clarke County; the granddaughter of the late eminent barrister, the Rev. D. Y. Johnson, of Baltimore, and a great-granddaughter of Nellie Custis Lewis, the adopted daughter of Gen. George Washington.

She is survived by one daughter, Miss Emily C. Stevens, of Bedminster, and five sons, John Stevens, of Bedminster; Edwin A. Stevens, of Hoboken; Lewis Stevens, of California; Basil Stevens, of Montclair, N. J., and Lawrence Stevens, of Philadelphia, and six grandchildren, John Stevens, who is a sophomore at Princeton; Bayard Stevens, a member of the student body of Kent, Conn., and their young sister, Nancy Gray Stevens, children of the late Bayard Stevens, of Short Hill, N. J.; Edwin and Miss Emily Stevens, of Montclair, and Lawrence Stevens, jr., of Philadelphia. She is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Elia White, of New York, and one brother, Robert E. Lee Lewis, of Avon by the Sea.

Mrs. Stevens was a lifelong member of the Episcopal Church and had done a great deal of good with the fortune left her by her husband. Only recently at the centennial anniversary of Grace Episcopal Church, Berryville, she wiped out the entire indebtedness of that church.

No arrangements as yet have been made for the funeral.

Pope Pius Prays For World Relief

Also Asks Divine Help for Distressed Catholics of Spain.

Vatican City, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Pope Pius XI offered a public prayer in St. Peter's Cathedral today invoking divine relief for the world's troubles and for the future of the Catholic Church in Spain.

He celebrated mass in the presence of thousands, including numerous Spaniards, blessing the worshippers as he was carried up the aisle to the altar where all the cardinals in Rome and hundreds of prelates awaited him. Among the ecclesiasts present were Bishop Thomas O'Reilly, of Scranton, Pa.; Father Joseph Rhode, of Santa Barbara, Calif., and Archbishop J. T. MacNally, of Hamilton, Ontario.

The mass was in fulfillment of the Pope's pledge to the Spanish people ten days ago, encouraging them to work for the church and asking them to join in prayers for religious peace.

Devoting himself to business and to civic life in his native State, Boyden became president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. He already had held the presidency of the Beverly Savings Bank and a director of the First National Bank of Boston.

His name was again identified with international affairs in 1929 when he served as an American delegate to the Institute of Pacific Relations in Kioto, Japan.

Early in 1930, he was appointed by President Hoover to be umpire of the German-American mixed claims commission, succeeding Judge Edwin Parker, who had died.

BRIGHTER OUTLOOK FOR STEEL IS SEEN

Expanding Demand for Rails Is Most Encouraging of Current Features.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Indications of improvement in basic conditions in the steel market are appearing in isolated spots sufficient to brighten the outlook, says the magazine Steel in its weekly review.

The tendency has not yet been translated into better rolling operations, however, steelmaking being fractionally lower than 28 per cent. The same as last week.

Most encouraging of current market features, the magazine says, is the expanding demand for rails. Santa Fe has closed for 43,000 tons and 14,000 tons of track fastenings with three mills; Atlantic Coast Line for 15,000 of rails and Boston & Maine for 10,000. Illinois Central may be in the market soon for 20,000 to 30,000 and Eastern roads are expected to close in the next ten days for 35,000 to 45,000.

Railroad shop orders show more volume at Chicago, and a larger flow to the automotive industry is regarded as inevitable late this month or early next. Practically all Detroit manufacturers are preparing for new models. Chevrolet has scheduled 80,000 units for November and Hudson-Essex already has begun production.

Moderate gain for the week is shown in structural shape awards, 15,581 tons for the week, compared with 15,137 previous.

It is estimated that freight rate increases will mean a total addition of 60 to 70 cents a ton on finished steel; on iron ore, coal, coke and scrap the advance will be $3 a car; and on slag, pig iron and billets $6.

Price readjustments are restricted to pig iron. Reduction in practically all grades in the valleys drop the composite for iron and steel 8 cents to $30.68.

Farmer Slays 6 of Family; Flees With Small Daughter

Wagener, S. C., Oct. 25 (A.P.).—George Jackson, about 35, Aiken County farmer, today shot and killed six members of his family. Jackson, a resident of the Bethcar section, about 6 miles from here, then fled, accompanied by a small daughter.

Sheriff J. P. Howard and two deputies attempted to trace the slayer by the barefoot tracks of the little girl in the soft ground near the scene of the killings. At nightfall Jackson had not been apprehended.

Armed with a shotgun and a pistol, Jackson, described as "an eccentric character," first went to the home of Darl Jackson and slew two uncles, an aunt and two cousins. He then proceeded to the home of Herman Jackson, a cousin, and shot him to death. No other member of Herman Jackson's immediately family was injured.

The dead: Hamp and Hayes Jackson, uncles of the slayer; Mrs. Darl Jackson, an aunt; Melvin and Bill Jackson, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Darl Jackson; Herman Jackson, a cousin of George Jackson.

Darl Jackson was the only person at his home to escape the butchery of the slayer. He said George Jackson came to the home about 1 p. m. and talked for several minutes in a friendly fashion. Without warning, Darl Jackson said, his nephew exclaimed:

"I am of a good mind to kill every one of you!"

With that statement, he said, Jackson jumped up and began shooting.

Hamp and Hayes Jackson were shot down first. Then one of the cousins fell fatally wounded. One of the younger men fled across a nearby field. George Jackson followed and shot him down.

The slayer returned to find Mrs. Darl Jackson seeking to aid her fatally wounded son. She was slain as she was giving her son a drink of water.

Hamp Jackson, seriously wounded, meanwhile had dragged himself to the edge of the porch at the house. The wounded man was shot again and killed.

From the Darl Jackson home, the slayer went to Herman Jackson's house and shot and killed him.

County officers said George Jackson ten years ago shot and wounded his uncle, Hamp Jackson, and a short time ago shot and wounded his wife. He and his wife separated some time ago.

EACH BY ITSELF.

France and the United States have exchanged opinions as to how the major economic problems of the world can be met, but each intends to pursue its own course of action. That fact stands out in bold relief from the statement issued by President Hoover and Premier Laval at the end of their conferences. A part of one sentence sums up the results of their discussion: "We find that we view the nature of these financial and economic problems in the same light and that this understanding on our part should serve to pave the way for helpful action by our respective governments."

Unquestionably the most important decision arrived at by the American President and the French premier is that there will be no world economic conference. Ever since the London conference which put the Hoover moratorium into effect European statesmen have been clamoring for a meeting of world powers to deal with war debts, reparations and other economic problems growing out of the depression. President Hoover would not commit the United States to such an undertaking. Premier Laval agrees with the President that each government should act in its respective field in dealing with depression problems.

Those who expected France and the United States to join hands in a campaign to rid the world of its ills are disappointed. M. Laval and Mr. Hoover engaged in extensive friendly conversations, covering the economic situation of the entire world. Each has a better understanding of what the other is able and willing to do to promote stabilization. But they agreed to no program. It was not their purpose "to engage in commitments" binding their governments, but "through development of fact, to enable each country to act more effectively in its own field."

Both the President and the premier agree that some further action may be necessary to relieve Germany of reparations payments and other European powers of war debt installments during the period of the depression. But action must be taken under the Young plan and upon the initiation of the debtor nations. In other words, the whole responsibility of any further suspension of payments is thrown upon Germany, Great Britain, Italy and Belgium. The United States will not take the lead in any movement to upset the Young plan under which German reparations are paid. France and the United States have not agreed upon terms or conditions under which the moratorium might be extended. If Europe needs more time in which to catch its breath before resuming payments on the war debts, the nations can make their situations known. If the former allies relieve Germany they may expect further temporary relief from the United States.

On the whole the American people will be pleased at the outcome of the conferences. The discussion was confined to economic problems. Apparently Premier Laval did not broach the question of a security pact. Monetary stability was discussed at length and laid aside for further study. Presumably no tangible conclusions were arrived at from the discussion of armaments.

A full appraisal of the conference can not be made immediately. But it is certain that the United States will make no essential change in its policy as a result of Premier Laval's visit. The background of mutual understanding that has been built up through these informal conversations will doubtless prove to be their most important result.

BACKFIRE ON THE HILL.

Representative Wood, prospective chairman of the House appropriations committee, has acquired a mania for salary slashing. At the last session of Congress he blocked the routine increases of Federal salaries. Now he is reported to have launched a movement to reduce the salaries of all Government workers who draw more than $1,200 per year.

Absurd as it may seem, Representative Wood is reported to have included the President, the Vice President, justices of the Supreme Court and Federal judges in his salary-cutting scheme. He must be aware of the fact that the salary of the President and the judiciary can not be diminished during their term of office—which, in the case of judges, is for life—without an amendment to the Constitution. To assume that Mr. Wood intends to seek a constitutional amendment for that purpose is too severe a strain upon the imagination. Undoubtedly there has been a mistake in the information that has gone out to the public.

There seems to be no question, however, that Representative Wood is determined to bring about a reduction of congressional salaries and to cut the Federal pay roll wherever possible. In advocating such a program he is running counter to the administration's policy of maintaining wages to mitigate the effects of the depression. President Hoover can not be expected to sign legislation that is so diametrically opposed to his policy.

Wages have been reduced in some industries because of economic necessity. But the majority of employers in the United States have made a sincere effort to maintain wage scales at the highest point consistent with business conditions. Promises given to President Hoover at the beginning of the depression are largely responsible for this attitude. Should the Government now reverse its policy and begin cutting salaries it would be the signal for wholesale wage slashing throughout the country.

Representative Wood does the country no service when he pretends that the Government is in such desperate straits that all Federal salaries must be cut. Everywhere there are signs of the depression beginning to lift. Confidence is reasserting itself, and money is beginning to come out of hiding. But there is grave danger that such unwarranted pessimism as springs from Mr. Wood's drastic plan will send timid capital scurrying to cover again. Mr. Wood can not afford to represent the Government as being face to face with calamity. If his intimations that Uncle Sam is so near to bankruptcy that his wage policy must be reversed are emphasized before Congress and the country they may do more harm than could be remedied by all the savings from lower Government salaries.

TAXICAB REGULATION.

Hearings on the taxicab situation in Washington before the Public Utilities Commission have brought out an abundance of detailed information and conflicting opinions that are rather confusing to the public. The street car and bus companies demand that the number of taxicabs operating on the streets be reduced and that their fares be increased to make competition with these established carriers less formidable. Opinion is still divided as to the merits of the meter and zone systems. Some taxi operators seem to be satisfied with the present fares and others demand higher rates.

The Public Utilities Commission will doubtless find it impossible to reconcile all of these conflicting interests. But if the commission gives adequate attention to the interests of the public, it should not be so difficult to work out a regulatory program. In the first place, taxicabs must be considered as common carriers and should be required to assume the responsibilities of such. Individuals riding in cabs ought to have the same protection as is afforded by other common carriers. The authority of the commission to require all cab operators to carry liability insurance has been questioned, but Congress will be asked to change the law at the coming session. This is one of the first steps that should be taken in putting the taxicab business on a sound footing.

The problem of competition between taxicabs and street cars is not easily disposed of. Byers McK. Bachman, accountant for the commission, estimates that passengers carried by cabs have increased from 3,816,000 in 1928 to 26,600,000 per year at present. Most of this increased business means a direct loss of traffic on street car and bus lines. Cheap taxi service has been popular with the public. Yet existing fares do not allow for insurance against accident or for replacement costs. Mr. Bachman estimates that the average taxi is operated at a loss of nearly $100 per month, when interest on the investment, depreciation of the vehicle, adequate wages, &c., are taken into account.

Obviously this state of affairs can not continue without bringing both responsible taxicab companies and the street car companies into bankruptcy. The public can not profit by the demoralization of its transportation agencies. The street car and bus are the backbone of Washington's transportation system. If they should be put out of business and taxicabs should not be regulated, a taxicab monopoly would soon begin to cinch the public.

A CRISIS IN THE SOVIET.

Reports that the Soviet government is nearly at the end of its rope financially have been circulating in Europe for some time. During the last week one of Germany's strongest newspapers published facts indicating that "the Soviet Union, whose finances never have been on a sound basis in the sense of Western budgets, finds itself in the midst of an acute financial crisis of unparalleled degree." This situation doubtless accounts for much that has been taking place in Russia in recent months.

The Soviet has spent enormous sums for equipment and machinery in an effort to industrialize Russia. Untrained peasants have ruined much of this machinery and the Soviet has met with untold difficulty trying to put its factories on a production basis. In the meantime markets which the Soviet hoped to capture by underselling capitalist industries have curtailed their demands. Many countries have taken steps to protect themselves against Soviet dumping. Furthermore, since the bottom dropped out of commodity prices, the crude exports on which the Soviet depends for money to carry on its five-year plan have brought small returns.

The position of the Soviet is especially precarious because it has been expanding on borrowed money. Soviet obligations to Germany payable in the near future amount to $119,000,000. Nearly half that amount is owed to firms in the United States. The Moscow government has obtained credit wherever it was available, and now that foreign capitalists are unable to support the Communist experiment any longer, there is danger of a "moratorium" or a complete collapse of Soviet finances.

Communist agents in the United States have made desperate efforts to convince American business that it is losing a valuable market by not extending further credit to the Soviet. Germany was taken in by this propaganda, and the government guaranteed payment of the Soviet's obligations up to a certain percentage. As a result the Reichstag may find it necessary to make good Soviet debts to German firms at a time when the Reich is in financial distress.

Agents of the Soviet are instructed to secure extension of credits in every country. Meanwhile the Soviet dictatorship has issued orders for the seizure of all goods that are available for export. The Russian people are to be despoiled again to pay for the blunders of the dictators. While the Red leaders regale the peasants with tales of unemployment in "capitalist nations," plans are going forward to inflict further starvation upon the Russian people.

This situation doubtless accounts for the fact that the Bolshevist regime has been soft-pedaling that grand objective—the world revolution. At the beginning of the depression the Soviet regarded the distress of capitalist nations as an excellent opportunity to spread the revolutionary idea. But in recent months little has been heard of the Red campaign. Before destroying the capitalist nations the Moscow regime finds it necessary to call upon them for credit to save Communism from inevitable collapse. It is time for Senator Borah to step forward and secure a moratorium for the Reds before they are compelled to sacrifice their plans to overturn the world.

EXCESSIVE TAXATION

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The cost of government in the United States, Federal, State, county and city, has mounted to about $13,000,000,000 a year.

The Federal Government is now spending taxpayers' money at the rate of about $5,000,000,000 annually.

The 48 States now require about $2,000,000,000 every twelve months to carry on their acitivities.

The expenditures of villages, counties, townships and cities total about $6,000,000,000 yearly, and the rate of expenditure has been rising for a generation. As an instance, New York City has recently been reminded that its governmental costs have risen 287 per cent since 1910, the per capita cost having increased from $26.88 to $89.04 annually.

The American public is supporting a grand army of tax-eaters. About one person in every twelve in these United States is on the public pay roll.

The national income is now estimated at about $80,000,000,000. It used to be more, and apparently something near one-sixth of this income is now being taken in taxes and is being spent faster than it can be collected.

The whole taxation and spending picture has become fantastic. While much of the money expended has gone into permanent and valuable improvements, the rate of expenditures must be swiftly and determinedly checked. If not, our rapidly growing list of bankrupt communities will lengthen enormously.

The taxation battleground of the coming winter will be in Washington. The country has, in other years, seen Capitol Hill overrun with appropriation seekers. But it has never seen anything approaching what it will see during the first session of the Seventy-second Congress. Nor has it ever known taxation programs so sweeping and so drastic as it will know before the session ends.

The world depression with its unemployment and its demands for relief makes it extremely difficult to check at this time the steady rise of taxation. States and municipalities, already overburdened, must assume new burdens. The Federal Government can not hope to bring its costs below those of recent years.

Yet it should be possible for Congress to approach this taxation crisis with a scientific plan of tax-raising. And it should be possible for States and municipalities to deal with the situation as an emergency and at the same time check their own tendencies toward long-term and riotous spending.

In the long view the issue is in the hands of the rank and file of American citizens. If they are in deadly earnest about checking the rise of taxation, they can check it. First, by lessening their own perennial and exorbitant demands upon the States and the Nation and local governments, and second, by enforcing their wishes for reduction upon their representatives. It is time for the individual taxpayer to stop moaning to his neighbor about his tax troubles and make his voice heard in city council chambers, in State capitols and in the halls of Congress.

AUDUBON'S HOUSE.

Bird lovers, acquainted with the pioneer work in ornithology performed a century ago by John James Audubon, will regret to learn that all efforts to save his old house on Riverside Drive, New York, have failed and that the crowbar will soon be wrenching its venerable timbers apart to make way for an apartment house. The pity of the situation is that the old mansard-roofed structure is admirably located for preservation in a park in a section of the metropolis lacking in parks, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. The Walker administration refused the site in favor of another without historical interest. Not only did Audubon paint his bright-feathered friends as they flew about the door of the old house, but there Samuel F. B. Morse conducted much of his experimental work on the telegraph. Furthermore, it was the birthplace of the Audubon Societies of America, a far-reaching organization, responsible for the Federal system of bird reservations and for the designation of numerous islands as refuges for sea fowls.

Small Ailment May Be Fatal If Frightened Physician Begins to Experiment

By ROBERT QUILLEN

SOME years ago a physician in the State of Washington developed some malady that puzzled his fellow practitioners. They called to see him, two at a time, cooperating generously as the rules of their county organization required.

The sick man's symptoms were obscure and the first six men to attend him were unable to agree on a diagnosis. They tried various remedies suggested by desperation and were on the point of surrendering the case to a surgeon when the seventh man was called in.

He was a newcomer from Georgia—a soft-spoken, unhurried man, not easily excited. "Calomel," said he; "five grains." And the mysterious malady was cured.

In times like these the wisest of men seem to lose their common sense. Endless discussion of economic conditions affects their imaginations. They see mysterious and unprecedented evils destroying civilization and find no hope except in new and desperate remedies. In plain words, they go off half-cocked.

The truth of the matter is, the country needs nothing more than a return to normal life.

As health is the normal state of men, so prosperity is the normal state of any free and industrious people blessed with great natural resources.

The present abnormal depression is not a mysterious malady requiring desperate cures. It is made chronic by abnormal "thrift," and nothing else. Precisely the same condition could be brought about in the midst of any boom period if the people could be persuaded to quit buying. And normal prosperity will return when the people resume buying.

Wage and salary earners are now being paid more than thirty billion dollars a year. While they continue to hoard their money, the depression will continue despite every desperate measure devised by economic Messiahs. When they recover their courage and spend their earnings, normal prosperity will return without artificial aids.

All of this wild talk about new kinds of money, new economic systems and new laws to make the land prosperous is the work of people who have lost their heads.

This is the same country it was before an orgy of drunken gambling stripped a few million of their savings, and it needs no remedy more drastic than a common determination to shut up and saw wood.

Borah at His Worst.

Baltimore Sun.

What a blessing it would be if Senator Borah had some sense of proportion! No one asks that he suppress his opinions. Many will agree with one or another of his opinions—many here and, we doubt not, many in France and the other nations of Europe.

But when Mr. Hoover and M. Laval are seated in the White House, trying to see what may be done about grave issues that lie immediately ahead, why does the senator from Idaho deliver broad, sweeping and emphatic generalizations on questions that may take five, ten or a score of years to settle?

The senator's statement yesterday undoubtedly disturbed the Franco-American conversations, and they contributed nothing whatsoever to the settlement of the issues on which he delivered himself. They may, indeed, have retarded the patient, careful approach to them which is the only approach that will ever accomplish anything permanent.

Smith, Roosevelt, Tammany.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The great enthusiasm for former Gov. Alfred E. Smith at the Tammany ratification was an indication of the very small liking Tammany Hall has for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for President. The Wigwam demanded Smith as the 1932 candidate, which bodes no good for Roosevelt's candidacy unless he wins easily on an early ballot.

Sales Tax on Luxuries.

New York Herald-Tribune.

The news that President Hoover is giving serious consideration to the proposal for a selective sales tax is welcome. Experience has shown that a large number of articles in commerce can support a moderate sales tax without pain to the business or the consumer. Automobiles, radios and matches have been mentioned in this class, also theater tickets. A levy of the sort carefully limited to luxuries and semiluxuries would yield a revenue of substantial proportions contributed by the population as a whole and, besides reducing the deficit, serve as a wholesome reminder to the citizen that he has an obligation in the premises, however, light its weight.

No Class Bonuses.

Los Angeles Times.

The naive proposal of the American Federation of Labor that Congress should make a large appropriation for the benefit of the needy unemployed, with the hint that it could well be distributed through the federation, is not apt to get very far in Washington. How the federation reconciles this with its declaration against the dole, for which it is receiving general commendation, it is difficult to see.

Congress will make no appropriations for the benefit of any particular class, whatever else it does. The administration is set against, and rightly, any attempt to make charitable appropriations from the Federal Treasury, considering that this is a matter for local treasuries and private purses as it always has been.

Citizen Takes Issue With "Limitation" of Navy Day Addresses; If Navy Is Unprepared People Should Know It

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Many people are now wondering what it is that naval officers are not permitted to tell about our lack of preparedness. If it is not important why suppress it?

The order of the Secretary of the Navy stating that Navy day addresses should be confined to such things as "Traditions of the Navy" sounds strange in this connection, as the conspicuous tradition of the Navy is embodied in the admonition of George Washington—"In times of peace, prepare for war."

From the day midshipmen are enrolled at the Naval Academy they are sworn to the defense of the Nation, the Navy being our first line of defense. From naval officers, as trained experts, we have become accustomed to expect advice on all naval matters. Our naval establishment is supported by taxation, and it seems reasonable that the people at large should be informed if, as a matter of fact, the Navy is unprepared to function efficiently in the event of an emergency.

Naval battles are not won by valor alone. Flowery oratory and the waving of flags are not conclusive in a naval conflict. Clashes on the high seas spell victory to superior armament and preparedness of every kind.

Naval men who are educated and trained to defend the country are our chief source of advice, and yet we find Representative Will R. Wood, of Indiana, accusing these men of "cowardice and insidious propaganda" when they seek to deliver their message and he wishes to have them put out of the service for performing their duty. If they "whisper" it is because they are denied free speech.

With naval strength our "influence" with other nations would be strengthened. Our diplomatic nagotiations would have a better background if Europe knew we were a strong naval power. Foreign diplomats are not yet mentally adapted to understand or respect our attitude toward the world. They do respect a real navy.

Whatever secrets about naval deficiency we may maintain among ourselves, foreign governments have efficient methods for keeping fully informed. We ought to know what the naval officers think about the Navy.

Funds for Unemployed Might Be Raised by Setting Aside a Portion of Money Taken In at Games.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: May I bespeak the inclusion in your columns of a suggestion which has frequently been brought to me, and which I believe to have great potentialities, if launched under the proper auspices.

Many schemes for raising funds for the unemployed have been advanced in all communities, but the following is a plan which merits consideration, because of its simplicity and its far-reaching possibilities.

Namely—the making of a Nation-wide appeal to every one interested in games—whether it be out-door sports, or cards, backgammon, or anything in which stakes are involved, to contribute a percentage of the winnings to some fund-raising organization for the unemployed, either in their locality or wherever there is a demonstrated need. Such a plan could readily assume large proportions, with no personal sacrifice, and great resultant benefit to the distressed and suffering.

I am hoping that this scheme will meet the indorsement it merits, and with the universal response essential to its success. MADELINE BORG.

WISE FISHERMEN.

The day the fish were biting
Fortune smiled upon us all.
The chap who'd never fished before
Caught all that he could eat and more,
And scorned to take 'em small.
As long as luck filled up the pan
He thought he was a fisherman.

When anywhere you cast a line
A bass would take the bait,
There was no need to learn the stream,
To row the boat and plan and scheme,
Or patient, sit and wait.
When fortune's sun is shining high
Who stops to think of how and why?

But when the wind was from the East
And luck no more would do,
Some wise old-timer, shrewd and gray,
Who knew the game and knew the way,
Would always catch a few.
Where others couldn't get a bite
Somehow he'd land his meal by night.

The easy fishing days are gone,
When fortune smiled on all.
One must be patient, wise and strong,
Try here and there and move along
Till shades of evening fall.
Wise fishermen, when out of luck,
Fall back on knowledge, patience, pluck.

LEAGUE FACES TEST OF POWER ON NOV. 16

Doubt Expressed if Troops Will Be Back in Railway Zone by Then.

Geneva, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—The League of Nation's greatest task in arbitrating the Sino-Japanese conflict still lies in the future and the test will come on November 16, international opinion agreed tonight in reviewing the events of the past eleven days.

Operating solely under article 11 of the League covenant, the council was adjudged to have done its duty to date by calling for the evacuation of Japanese troops.

But the resolution adopted last night has only moral force, for Japan's veto destroyed its unanimity and its legal value.

Friends of the league said, however, the council debate and 13 to 1 vote constituted a "striking moral condemnation of Japan" and placed the Japanese government in the position of moral isolation in the eyes of the world.

Strong doubt was expressed that Japan would have her troops back in the railway zone by the stipulated date, and it was realized that if such doubt turns out to be justified the council must invoke Article XV and perhaps Article XVI if it is to enforce its will. These articles give the council the right of action without regard to the parties to the dispute.

While the attitude of the Chinese delegation is officially "hopeful," it is known to be actually on the contrary. Dr. Alfred Sze and his colleagues are said to hold the view that the Japanese have no intention of withdrawing.

mentals. His oversight of the opportunity to explain the five points which Japan desires China to recognize gave the council the impression, government circles believe, that Japan had something up her sleeve which is causing a false impression to the reading world.

It was explained here that Yoshizawa had disregarded Tokyo's instructions when he refused to answer the fundamental principles query.

Official circles characterized Yoshizawa's failure as "unfortunate, indeed," and were at a loss to understand why he failed to have Japan's stand read into the minutes of the meeting, there being no secret about them, as they had been published in American and British papers as well as at Geneva.

E. C. MEREDITH SERVICES.

Rites to Be Held This Morning; Interment in Manassas.

Funeral services for Edward Contee Meredith, Washington real estate man who ended his life Friday, will be held at 11:30 o'clock this morning from Joseph Gawler's Sons chapel, 1754 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Interment will be at Manassas, Va.

Mr. Meredith was the son of the late Elisha E. Meredith, of Virginia. He was found dead from a bullet wound in his temple in the bathroom of his home. Mr. Meredith was said to have been despondent over the death of his friend, Harrison Nesbit, Pittsburgh banker, who was killed in an automobile accident near this city last Wednesday.

Funeral services for Mrs. Alice Estelle Thomasson, 57 years old, of Virginia Highlands, Va., who died Saturday at Washington Sanitarium, in Takoma Park, after an illness of two years, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the W. W. Chambers Funeral Home, 1400 Chapin street northwest. Interment will be in Congressional Cemetery.

Mrs. Thomasson came to this country from England when a young girl. She is survived by her husband, Raymond A. Thomasson, a storekeeper in Virginia Highlands, and two children, Raymond A. Thomasson and Mrs. Viola E. Jenkins.

Army Air Corps Sets Safety Record

Only One Fatality Every 1,691,000 Miles Flown Is Reported.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Oct. 25.—With only one fatality for every 1,691,000 miles flown, the Army Air Corps established a new low accident ratio during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931, according to statistics just released by the War Department.

The Army pilots flew a total of 43,984,000 miles during the year, meeting with accidents involving 23 planes and costing 26 lives, a reduction of 50 per cent in the accident ratio from the preceding fiscal year.

A step-up in average speed from 108 to 111 miles an hour is also noted in the comparative data. Due chiefly to the wide scope of the 1931 Air Corps field exercises, 670 planes flew many million miles without a single accident over all sorts of country and in all kinds of weather.

RECASTING PLANNED BY ZIONIST REGION

Efforts Mapped at Midyear Joint Conference in Community Center.

Plans for reorganization of the Seaboard Zionists Region were discussed yesterday at the midyear joint conference at the Jewish Community Center, Sixteenth and Q streets. Harry T. Kellman, Baltimore, Md., honorary president of the region, presided.

Mr. Kellman, chairman of the committee on the reorganization plans, said that if these plans materialize, a series of activities will be inaugurated which will reach out to every community and will instill greater interest in all Palestinian endeavors throughout the region. These endeavors will culminate with the annual regional conference in February.

The Seaboard Zionist Region held the conference yesterday jointly with the Hadassah Seaboard Regional Unit, headed by Mrs. Israel Shapiro, of Baltimore, Md.; Junior Hadassah, headed by Miss Sylvia Coplan, of Norfolk, Va.; American Palestine campaign committee, headed by H. L. Caplan, Baltimore, Md., and the Jewish National Fund regional committee, headed by Israel Silberstein, of Baltimore, Md.

The Junior Hadassah held a separate meeting in the Washington Loan & Trust Building yesterday morning before joining the general session in the afternoon. Miss Sylvia Coplan presided.

Representatives from more than 26 cities in Maryland, Virginia, District of Columbia, North and South Carolina, comprising the region, attended. The administrative committee is composed of officers and members from many cities. Those from the District are Isidore Hershfield, vice president, and Paul Himmelfarb, John M. Safer and Mrs. John M. Safer. The Capital is represented on the American Palestine campaign administrative committee by Isidore Hershfield, vice chairman; Paul Himmelfarb, vice chairman, and John M. Safer.

T. J. CARRUTHERS DIES.

Retired Messenger Had Been in Poor Health.

Thomas J. Carruthers, 75 years old, a retired messenger of the American Railway & Express Co., died yesterday at the residence, 1107 Seventh street northeast. He had been in poor health for three years.

Mr. Carruthers was retired from the express company five years ago after 45 years service between this city and New York. He was a native of Virginia. He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Ida May Carruthers, three daughters, Mrs. George E. Clarke, Mrs. Harry A. Strong and Mrs. Bert Ray Stough; also by a stepson, Clarence W. Mitchell.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the residence. Interment will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

Admiral Philip's Widow Is Dead

Wife of Santiago Hero Expires in Washington Sanitarium.

Mrs. Safa T. Philip, widow of Rear Admiral John W. Philip, U. S. N., prominent figure under Admiral Sampson in the battle of Santiago, died yesterday at Washington Sanitarium after an illness of several months. Mrs. Philip was 76 years old.

Funeral services for Mrs. Philip will be held at the Naval Academy chapel, Annapolis, at 11 o'clock Wednesday, and interment will take place in the Naval Academy Cemetery beside the grave of the late Admiral Philip. Two sons survive Mrs. Philip, Barret Philip, of New York, and Ward Philip, of Baltimore.

Admiral Philip was particularly famed for a remark he made during a victorious moment for the American forces in the battle of Santiago. His words, "Don't cheer, boys; the poor devils are dying," are familiar to every school child.

Marshal Petain Sees West Point

Pershing Points Out Room He Occupied at Academy 50 Years Ago.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Marshal Petain of France visited the United States Military Academy today with Gen. John J. Pershing, who pointed out the room he occupied 50 years ago. A review of the cadet corps, an organ recital and a nineteen-gun artillery salute were included in the reception.

The marshal and Gen. Pershing motored to the academy from New York with a party of French military and naval officers. They returned on George F. Baker's yacht.

Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely, commanding the Second Corps Area, represented Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, who is in Texas attending a reunion of the division he commanded in the World War.

Mr. Huntington died on Saturday at his home at Springfield, Va. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elinor Huntington.

New Clashes Mark Iowa Cattle Test

Soldiers Are Heckled and Attacked; Churchmen Halt Sunday Labor.

Burlington, Iowa, Oct. 25 (U.P.).—"Gov. Turner's milk maids" attempted no cattle testing today, not because of a near riot by incensed farmers, but because religious leaders objected to labor on Sunday.

Clashes between the farmers and some of the 1,700 national guardsmen sent here to enforce Iowa's compulsory tuberculosis testing law, came late last night.

Soldiers who strolled into town were heckled, then attacked. Citizens called them "Gov. Turner's milk maids." The troopers, country youths for the most part, retaliated with their fists.

Victoria Tytus Engagement Is Announced

Lawrence Coolidge, of Boston, Will Marry Capital Girl.

Following closely on rumors of an engagement comes the confirmation of that of Miss Victoria Stewart Tytus, of Washington and Ashintully, Tyringham, Mass., to Mr. Lawrence Coolidge, of Boston.

The engagement is announced by Mrs. Edward Jefferson Tytus, of Lenox, Mass., grandmother of Miss Tytus. Miss Tytus is the younger daughter of the late Mrs. Tytus McLennan and the late Mr. Robb de Peyster Tytus, and made her debut here in 1927 following her presentation at the Court of St. James the previous spring.

Mr. Coolidge is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jefferson Coolidge, of 303 Berkeley street, Boston. He was graduated from Harvard in 1927 and from Harvard Law School. He is now associated with Loring Coolidge, Noble & Boyd, in Boston. He is a member of the Somerset, Harvard, Tennis and Racquet and Delphic Clubs.

Miss Tytus and her elder sister, Miss Mildred Tytus, have passed the latter part of the summer at their home in Tyringham, following a trip to Europe. Since the death of their mother two years ago, they have passed only a short time each winter in Washington, when they renewed their many acquaintances here. They devote much time to travel and last year were the guests of the British Ambassador to Chile and Lady Chilton at the embassy at Santiago.

No date has been set for the wedding, which will probably take place at Ashintully.

Mr. and Mrs. Hannis J. Taylor will be at home after November 1 at the Northumberland Apartments. Mr. Taylor is a son of the late Hannis J. Taylor, former Ambassador to Spain.

HOW TO PLANT AND CARE FOR TREES.

THIS fall so many readers of this column will be planting trees that I think an article on this subject will be useful to those who may be setting out their first trees.

After you have planted a few trees, you will understand the right way to plant and the after care which must be given each specimen if it is to become established to such an extent that it will live through its first winter.

On arrival the trees must be unpacked, and if the material can not be immediately planted, it must be "heeled in." The first step in actual planting is to dig a hole one foot wider all around than the spread of the roots so that the tree can be placed in an upright position without bending even one rootlet.

The soil where you are planting any tree should be at least 24 inches deep. In case you are uncertain about the quality of the soil excavate a much larger hole and fill the entire cavity with rich loam. Should your soil be largely of clay, the bottom of the hole must be loosened; if possible, better dig through the clay. If your soil is good, dig deep enough to fill in a portion of the hole with stone or other material to perfect or improve the drainage.

Regarding the kind of soil in which a tree is most likely to take hold, let me state that you can not exercise too much care in the manner in which you dig the hole:

It must be large and the soil must be rich if you are to attain satisfactory results. The very best soil is that from a meadow where the top soil and sod can be mixed together. If you are planning to plant a number of trees, you really should begin a year before and make a compost pile, with a layer of good loam and a layer of well-rotted manure. This must be turned over several times. If you live in some city where neither soil I have suggested is obtainable, you can use plenty of well-rotted manure.

When setting your trees, see that all bottom roots are cut off in a clean, careful manner. Set the trees so that their roots take a natural position and are not cramped. Fill in with good soil leaving no open spaces, especially under the roots. Be careful not to plant too deep. You can usually see by the soil mark on the trunk just how deep the tree stood in the nursery row.

As soon as the trees are planted, spread over the surface a layer of manure. This layer should extend a foot beyond the line of the newly made holes. This will help in conserving the moisture which is so necessary if the trees are to live.

(Copyright, 1931.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied.

Wake Up Rested!

Of all things, nothing is more important than a resilient mattress . . . It takes us to its bosom when muscles ache and nerves are taut . . . It croons us softly to sleep.

But mattresses that have lost their resiliency are "sleep robbers"! They cause us to wake up weary and worn instead of avid for adventure—keen for work.

Examine your mattress. Does it sink in the middle? Has it packed? Then let us make a new mattress of your old one. The cost is only $4 to $9. The work is done in one day.

THE opening session of the ninth annual convention of the National Association of Broadcasters in Detroit, including an address by President Hoover, will be heard over WRC and WMAL at noon today. The organization is composed of representatives of the important broadcasting stations.

President Hoover is to speak in Washington, and he will be heard through a public address system by the assembled broadcasters.

Other addresses will be broadcast direct from the convention hall. Speakers will be Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit, William S. Hedges, of Chicago, former association president; Maj. Gen. Charles McK. Saltzman, chairman of the Federal Radio Commission, and Walter J. Damm, of Milwaukee, president of the association.

Among the representatives of local radio stations present in Detroit will be M. A. Leese, of WMAL; Kenneth Berkeley, of WRC, and Frank M. Russell, vice president of the NBC.

FORMAL commissioning by the Navy of the U. S. S. Akron, world's largest dirigible, will be heard over WRC as part of the Navy Day program tomorrow. The ceremonies will be broadcast from the Lakehurst Naval Airport at 8:30 o'clock.

Speakers will include Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, Lieut. Comdr. Charles E. Rosendahl, commanding the Zeppelin; Rear Admiral William A. Moffatt and Davis S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Two broadcasts from the decks of the Constitution, now at Baltimore, will be presented tomorrow afternoon as part of the Navy Day observance. One program, over WMAL at 1 o'clock, will include music by the Naval Academy Band and addresses by Mayor Howard W. Jackson of Baltimore and Walter Bruce Howe, of Washington.

THE following has been received bearing the initials L. H. M.:

"Why does WRC insist upon presenting an alleged entertainer whose performance forces many a radio fan to turn off from 7:30 to 7:45 p. m.?

"Not only do I find this Lee Morse program unbearable, but it is doubly vexatious because it displaces Phil Cook, a universal favorite, and one of the most versatile and satisfying entertainers now on the air."

THE theme songs, "Carolina's Calling," sung by Alice Joy, will introduce a new quarter-hour of entertainment over WRC tonight. In addition to Miss Joy, Paul Van Loan and his orchestra and Old Hunch, a character taken from the legends of the South, will be heard in the premiere of the Prince Albert period.

THE Mills Brothers will offer another of their orchestra-less programs of syncopation tonight (WMAL, 91:15 o'clock). When a special events broadcast took the place of scheduled programs the other night, the WABC telephone switchboard was tied up for an hour by calls from listeners. For half an hour two hostesses were busy explaining that the Mills Brothers, the quartet that has become a topnotch feature in about ten days, would resume its schedule as usual.

During the next half hour as many calls regarding the Street Singer were answered.

New York State will pay tribute to the memory of the late Theodore Roosevelt at the dedication and cornerstone laying of the Theodore Roosevelt Memorial at Central Park West and Seventy-ninth street in ceremonies to be broadcast by WRC and WMAL tomorrow afternoon.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mayor Walker, Alfred E. Smith, Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn and others will participate. The New York City Police Band will furnish the musical background.

PREMIER OF FRANCE, Pierre Laval, will speak over WMAL at 10:30 o'clock tonight, just before sailing for home. Arrangements have been concluded to pick up the speech from a banquet being tendered him by the French Chamber of Commerce in the United States.

Mrs. Otto H. Kahn will inaugurate a series of studio concerts by vocal and instrumental groups of the National Music League over WRC at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

As president of the league, an endowed organization for the advancement of classical music in America, Mrs. Kahn will outline the program for successive weeks and explain the purpose of the series. She will then introduce the Roxy Male Quartet, first group to appear in the series.

Nevada Van der Neer, contralto who has sung with many symphony orchestras in America, and Dino Borgioli, Italian tenor, will be heard with the orchestra under the baton of Eugene Ormandy on Wednesday night (WMAL, 10:15 to 11 p. m.).

"BLOOD OF THE SCANDEROON," a drama of the China Seas, will be enacted over WMAL tomorrow during the "Romances of the Sea" * * * Arizona will be honored in the "Parade of the States" tonight * * * "The Buckeye Battle Cry," now the gridiron song of Ohio State University, was written more than a decade ago by Frank Crummit * * * Less than a week after the National Advisory Council on Radio in Education began its series of lectures on economics and psychology, more than 10,000 requests were received for the "Listener's Notebook," a guide to the series * * * Tito Guizar had graduated from college in Mexico and was well on the way to be a successful civil engineer before he discovered that there was gold in that thar voice.

HIS Eminence Cardinal Hayes will speak briefly over the WJZ network tonight in behalf of the Emergency Unemployment Relief Committee of New York.

Sir Willmott Lewis Will Address Club

Sir Wilmott Lewis will address the Inquirendo Wednesday evening on the subject of "The Coalition Government of Great Britain." Sir Wilmott is also expected to comment on the election which take place on Tuesday.

Jane Eads INTERPRETS the MODE

A warm kasha two-piece frock of brown and chartreuse, to be worn alone on warm days, and under a coat when it's chilly. (Sketched in a New York shop.)

New York, Oct. 26.

WELL, there you are! If, when you were a child you could not, for the life of you, decide whether you preferred Rose Red or Snow White in the old fairy tale, you'll be pleased to know that the modern princess of fashion can't decide which she'd rather be herself!

No foolin', now. This business of "shall I tan or shan't I?" has perplexed lovely ladies for a long, long time, and only now has one of the leading lights of the Parisian world of fashion done anything in the way of offering a practical solution. The leading light, my deahs, is the famous Jean Patou, and his solution is the offering of two skin oils, the one to brown miladi to a golden tan and the other to keep her white as the driven snow!

You see, it's this way—If you apply the special oil that Patou makes for this purpose, you're going to give to your skin, in a pleasantly perfumed way, that sun tan which whispers of long, idle summer hours with nothing to do but bask! And, if you're blonde and love the new aquamarine blue for your clothes, you just know that this sun tan accents and gives a touch of the bizarre, the unusual, to your charms. On the other hand, if the new frock you have bought is a love and a dream, but would look like a nightmare with tanned skin, Patou has the other preparation, which keeps your skin an alabaster loveliness of color and texture.

So there you are—Suit your fashions with your complexions! Be white one summer and brown the next. And, above all, thank Jean Patou for making this dual complexion available in answer to our hesitating indecision!

* * * *

The one thing you just can't tell about these days is the weather, n'estce pas? What with one day warm as spring and the next freezing cold, it's not too easy to know how to dress. But just the other day I found a kasha frock that solved the problem nicely, so nicely that I felt I must illustrate it for you today. It's a two-piece affair, the jacket of chartreuse kasha with brown galalith buttons, and the skirt with flaring dogets, of dark brown kasha. This kasha, of a particularly close, heavy weave, is heavy enough to wear right outdoors when it's mild, accompanied by your favorite fur scarf, of course, and yet the frock fits snugly enough to be worn inconspicuously under your coat.

* * * *

There's no reason, is there, why you, too, shouldn't fool the weather man just as smartly and cleverly as this?

* * * *

And, of course, with such a suit, a change of blouse is highly desirable—especially if the blouse changed to is as jaunty as the hand-knitted Spanish tile one I have sketched today!

* * * *

Every hour of the modern woman's day has to have its very own costume, which sounds like kind of an expensive proposition, now, doesn't it? But it isn't so bad when you can build all the necessary costumes from one foundation, and when you find out how very simple it is to do! For all you have to do to get this information is to send your stamped, self-addressed envelope off to the Dare department of The Washington Post, and the sooner the better! For every costume variation in this week's leaflet is the last word in Parisian chic, and you only have to turn the designs over to your dressmaker if you don't wish to make them up yourself, you know.

Au revoir!

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF October 26 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1:30 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 8:45 p. m. to 10::50 p. m. The danger hours are from 8 a. m. to 10:15 a. m., from 2:45 p. m. to 3:50 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m.

October 26 is, according to the astrological influences, favorable for public work and for creative effort. Travel abroad is indicated, or some action by those going, or returning from, abroad, which will materially affect your interests. A tendency is also shown to become entangled in doubtful financial schemes. Those in Government or civic employ will be benefited.

Children born on this October 26 will have forceful characters, be venturesome to the verge of recklessness, and, above all, sure of themselves. They will possess a strong sense of justice, be honest, but, at the same time, exacting. Their love will be rugged and vigorous.

You, if born on October 26, hold extreme views and convictions, and in trying to force these on others who disagree with you, lose both your temper and potential friends. You rather like to think of yourself in these encounters as a lion, but observers merely consider you a grizzly bear. Your stubbornness is colossal. Being pig-headed, however, is no guarantee that you will "bring home the bacon." It must be admitted that, if a man, you are an excellent conversationalist, and if you were not so dogmatic, you could attract where now you annoy. If you are a woman, you simply insist upon your opinions, just "because."

Cleverness, allied with perseverance, will insure you a fair degree of success, in spite of all your handicaps. Responsibility will have no terror for you and work will never scare you. Notwithstanding a combative exterior, your heart is kind and your disposition toward those whom you admit to the "sanctum sanctorum" of your individualism is considerate and unselfish. You are self-analytical, but it does not seem to help you to correct defects which are patent to one and all. Possibly your outlook would be brighter if your inlook did not occupy so much of your attention. You are sincere—quixotically so—and loyal to those who have your confidence.

Successful people born October 26:
Jackie Coogan, film actor.
E. M. Statler, hotel owner.
George G. Battle, lawyer.
Daniel C. Heath, publisher.
George D. Burton, inventor.
Charles Sprague, poet.

Helping the Homemaker

A Halloween Luncheon.

Little Orange Appetizers
Crab Croquettes with Buttered Peas
Egg Rolls Apricot Conserve
Halloween Salad
Individual Pumpkin Pies
Whipped Cream
Coffee

Little Orange Appetizers

8 large oranges
1 cup diced pineapple
1 cup seeded white cherries

Make holes in tops of oranges and with fingers and spoon remove and save all pulp. Notch tops of orange cases. Mix and chill orange pulp and rest of fruits. Fill cases. Stick little paper pumpkins in tops.

Crab Croquettes

4 tablespoons butter
6 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika.
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped pimentos.
1½ cups crab meat
1 egg yolk

Melt butter and add flour. Blend and add the milk and cook until very thick sauce forms. Stir constantly. Add rest of ingredients and mix well. Cool. Take tablespoonsful of mixture and roll in crumbs, then in egg and again into crumbs. Shape into balls 1½ inches in diameter. Fatten each end to resemble shape of small pumpkin. Fry in deep hot fat until well browned. Insert tiny stems of parsley.

Halloween Salad.

1 package lemon flavored gelatin mixture
1 cup boiling water
1 cup tomato juice
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons sugar
1 cup chopped celery
1-3 cup chopped green peppers
2 tablespoons finely chopped onions
2 tablespoons chopped nuts (almonds)

Pour the water over gelatin mixture and stir until dissolved. Add tomato juice and mix well. Add rest of ingredients and pour into round individual molds. Set in cold place to stiffen. Unmold on lettuce, surround with mayonnaise.

Church Opens School For Sunday Teachers

Training school for Sunday school teachers of the Central Presbyterian Church was opened yesterday afternoon at the church, and will continue through the week.

The Rev. T. K. Currie, of Richmond, director of religious education for the synod of Virginia, is giving a course on principles of teaching, while the Rev. J. C. Faw, of Richmond, and Mrs. W. G. Anderson, of Atlanta, will conduct classes for workers among the young people and children, respectively.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

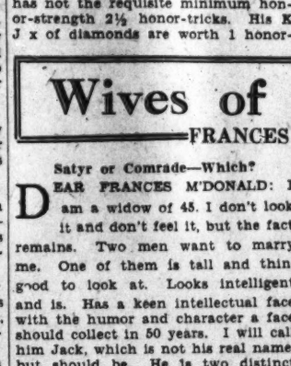
132.

THE VIRTUE OF RESTRAINT.

THE first thing to learn at Contract is when not to bid.

Here is a hand—the very last hand dealt—from the Anglo-American test match. At both tables the hand was passed by all four players. This was very fine bidding; beginners can seldom show as much forbearance. Let us analyze the situation and discover why it is that the correct thing to do was—nothing.

East—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The Bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

Look at each hand in turn. Consider, first, what it is worth in honor-tricks; second, what is the playing value of its most promising suit. The value of the hand from a bidding point of view will depend upon these two factors.

East is the Dealer. His hand is worth 2½ honor-tricks—a sufficient minimum for an Opening bid. The A Q x of diamonds are worth 1½ honor-tricks; the K x of clubs and Q x of hearts are together worth 1 honor-trick more. But East has no biddable suit. He can not bid diamonds with A Q x only, nor spades without an honor in the suit. Nor is East's hand worth a bid of one no-trump, vulnerable. He has an unpromising distribution and no established suit. East, therefore, passes.

Look next at South's hand. Many beginners would here embark on a diamond bid. There is a nice-looking suit (headed, it is true, by a minor tenace) and a formidable array of honors. But such a bid would be fatal; it would not be sound even if South were not vulnerable, for South has not the requisite minimum honor-strength 2½ honor-tricks. His K J x of diamonds are worth 1 honor-trick; his K x of spades are worth ½ trick more, but his K J of hearts, without a third card, are only worth another ½ trick. Under no circumstances, therefore, should South open the bidding.

Now for West, who holds the best hand of the four. Here, as with East, there is the requisite minimum honor strength. The A Q of spades are worth 1½ honor-tricks; the Ace of hearts is worth another trick, and there remains the Queen of clubs as a plus value. Why, then, should West not make a bid? Because, like East, he has no biddable suit. He can not open the bidding on four hearts to the A 10; nor yet, with only two suits guarded, can he properly bid one no-trump. In any case he would hesitate to open on so weak a hand when his partner has already passed. West, therefore, throws his hand in also.

There remains North. We can dismiss his hand more briefly since it is clearly deficient in honor strength. There would be some support for South if the latter could make a suit bid; and that is all we can say. As things stand, North is only too glad to be given the chance of throwing in.

The correctness of the bidding can be checked by a post mortem. Suppose East had bid one notrump. West would have raised him to two notrump, or, conceivably, to three. Even with the adverse cards as favorably distributed as they are, East's contract can not be made.

Suppose that South had bid one diamond. Here again he can not make his contract, nor can North, with his singleton diamond, effectively rescue him.

Suppose finally, that West bids one heart. (This would, as I have said, be indefensible, as A 10 9 x is not a biddable suit.) His partner will raise him to two hearts and once again the contract is likely to fail. West can make two hearts at Double Dummy, but in actual play he is very likely to blunder.

No! The hand is one which exemplifies—from whatever point of view we regard it—the paramount virtue of restraint.

TODAY'S POINTER.

What does a minimum Raise mean?

Suppose I have bid one of a suit and my partner raises me to two.

What does this mean?

It means, first, that my partner has from 3½ to 4 (more rarely 3 only) supporting tricks. Second, that he has either four trumps or Q x x at least. Without this minimum trump support he should give me notrump or another suit.

EXAMPLE.

(A minimum Raise)

Opening bid: one spade

Honor-tricks		Playing-tricks
1-½	♠ A Q 10 2	2-½
—	♡ 9 8	—
1	◇ A 5 4 3	1-½
—	♣ 10 8 7	—
2-½		4

Response: two spades

Honor-tricks		Supporting-tricks
—	♠ 9 8 4 3	½
1	♡ A 7 4 3	1-½
—	◇ 7 6	1
½	♣ Q J 6	½
1-½		3-½

FRANCES M'DONALD

Satyr or Comrade—Which?

DEAR FRANCES M'DONALD: I am a widow of 45. I don't look it and don't feel it, but the fact remains. Two men want to marry me. One of them is tall and thin, good to look at. Looks intelligent and is. Has a keen intellectual face with the humor and character a face should collect in 50 years. I will call him Jack, which is not his real name, but should be. He is two distinct men, however, an admirable, understanding friend with delicacy and depth of feeling, and a bitter sarcastic satyr. I love one side and loathe the other. He has no physical appeal at all.

The other man is eight years younger than I but looks and seems older. I will call him John, which is not his name, but should be. He is awkward, heavy, ungraceful and coarse in appearance, but he is fine and true with a delicious sense of humor which the average acquaintance would never suspect. He has the strongest physical appeal, though I can not explain this even to myself and would never be able to make my friends understand.

Jack has been married and divorced (he would). The other has never married and has managed to hang on to his ideals in a way that is positively amazing in this day and age. I don't believe I would destroy those ideals. I admire them and him so.

I could never feel proud of him in public, but I would adore him and be adored by him in my own home. He has no idea he is younger than I, and strange to say for a man of his intelligence, he has a horror of marrying an older woman. I would not deceive him about this and am wondering what his reaction would be.

Jack would always be my lover. He is popular and I would be inordinately proud of him, but I would like him in public better than at home.

Which road shall I take? I'm traveling one of them. EUGENIA.

A satyr of all things! Well, it would take a great many compensating virtues to cry that down. No, Eugenia, somehow we just can not give our blessing to that union! Would your pride in public be sufficient recompense for the hours of loathing and misery in private when the satyr was holding forth? We believe not. We have had considerable experience with the brilliant sarcasms of genius, and we will tell the world that any woman is misguided indeed who places herself at the mercy of such barbs. Woman was meant for tenderness and to be cherished—not outraged. And the union that brings happiness is the one that meets woman's needs.

John may be bulky and ugly and far from the answer to a maiden's prayer but if he is the sort who makes a woman feel surrounded by love and security and deep protection, he is the man. For we live our lives more in private than in public, suffer our deepest hurts beyond the sight of the world. And as the years roll on, we do less and less strutting in the public gaze and more and more living with our own souls. In such a program, how does a satyr fit? And how a kindly pal with a sense of humor and a wide and wholesome smile?

Eugenia, the later years of life are gracious and enveloping, or terrible and menacing for woman, depending upon the judgment she has used in selecting her mate. If she has chosen with the sole idea of impressing the world at the price of peace of mind, she faces the end of day with quaking heart. If she has chosen a comforting companion with warm and understanding heart, she looks bravely into the sunset with eyes that are softened by myriad memories.

Let the world be dazzled or indifferent, Eugenia. But choose the man who will be a comfort rather than a curse. And that lets the satyr out!

Mary Garden Hits Chicago With New Bob; Plans Book

Chicago, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Mary Garden dropped in on the town that has been her operatic home for many years and introduced a new bob—the Garden Corsica bob—that is as vivid in color as the platinum shade is ethereal.

And with a Garden dramatic gesture of hands, the singer made two confidences—

She is going to retreat to the Island of Corsica and write a book, already solicited by publishers, about famous people who have "met me"—and "it is going to reveal much," she said. But about herself, she said it will tell only as much as she "wants told."

The second confidence is that she has concluded that she would rather have been a man.

"Being a woman," said the star who has been toasted in many lands, "is fascinating, but men have the better time.

"Men do as they please. Women are hesitant. They stop and wonder—and while they are wondering they miss a lot of fun."

But to get back to Mary's new bob—

The erstwhile redhead doffed her new tiny-brimmed, shallow crown sailor and tossed her head, setting in motion tawny gold curls of a hue that spoke of yellow lions' manes, ripe red persimmons and tropical sunshine.

The formula—

As Mary gave it: Months bareheaded under a Corsica sun; hours of lying on the sand and swimming in the surf a la nature.

The glinting sheen of her hair bespoke a hearty revival of the hair-brushing exercise. She wore the hair unparted and straight back from her face. It was unwaved, but the ends were curled in ringlets. The bob was moderately long and thinned out at the sides so as to show the tips of her ears.

At the conclusion of her concert tour, the former luminary of the Chicago Civic Opera Company will go to France in January to sing in the Opera Comique in Paris.

MYSTERIOUS SNIPER RETURNS TO HAUNTS

Dunn Loring Is Again Upset as Window Peeper Fires at Man.

The mysterious "sniper," whose firing upon people near Dunn Loring, Va., has already resulted in one death, returned to his haunts Saturday night and fired at L. M. Kidwell, 45 years old, who lives a quarter of a mile from the home of Melvin Stevens, who was mysteriously killed while searching for the sniper.

Kidwell reported to Sheriff E. P. Kirby that he had tethered his cow for the night and was returning to his home, when he observed a man of medium build peering in his window. He approached the intruder from the rear and he fled. Kidwell gave chase and the man fired at him with a revolver.

Footprints of the man were traced from the Kidwell home to a nearby road, where they were lost.

For more than six weeks frequent complaints have been received from residents of the vicinity that they had been fired at. Stevens, a 28-year-old well digger, whose home had been fired upon several times, was fatally wounded on October 5, when a group of neighbors and he went searching for the sniper. It has never been established whether he was killed by the sniper or members of his own party, although a verdict of accidental death was returned by the coroner's jury.

Since the death of Stevens, several families have moved away from the cluster of homes in the neighborhood of Tysons Crossroads.

Arthur Shugars, whose home was near that of Stevens, placed a dummy near a lighted window a few weeks ago, and in the morning he found a bullet hole drilled in the window near the head of the dummy.

A search has been carried on for the sniper without any success in isolating him or a motive for his attacks.

Man Disappears In Chesapeake Bay

Boat Within Sight of Land When Squall Arises; Search Is Futile.

An intensive search was being made last night in Chesapeake Bay for William Maher, 50, of the 700 block of Crittenden street northwest, who has been missing since early yesterday in this 32-foot cabin cruiser.

Maher, a Government Printing Office employe, was within sight of land when a squall blew up and the boat disappeared before members of his family who were watching from the shore could go to his rescue.

Searchers, including a Navy submarine chaser and a tug sent out from Annapolis, are concentrating upon the waters between Bay Ridge and Kent Island. It is believed that possibly Maher's boat was driven onto some part of Kent Island.

Prince Georges Police Take Men and Cars in Rum Trap

Setting a trap for liquor runners who have been eluding police through use of a smokescreen, Prince Georges County police last night captured two men and two loads of alleged whisky.

Those arrested in the first car gave their names as Ernest Diggs and Albert B. King, both of Washington. Two others riding in a companion car, escaped in the woods. In one of the machines police found seventeen cases, and in another sixteen cases. Each of the men arrested is charged with transportation, possession, use of a smoke screen, and reckless driving.

For several nights liquor runners who use the Baltimore boulevard have turned off on Bowie road and come into Washington by back roads. Police have not been able to overtake them, because a smoke screen would render the narrow roads impassable.

Last night Sergt. A. W. Hepburn and Officer Oscar A. Beall separated, parking at different spots along the road. When the cars passed Sergt. Hepburn he blew his siren to warn Beall, who blocked the road with his machine. Finding their escape cut off, the four occupants of the cars fled into the woods, where two were captured.

GARAGE MAN HELD IN MARINE'S DEATH

Frank Trochanzka, 40, Is Arrested on Suspicion After Long Probe.

Frank Trochanzka, 40-year-old garage owner, of Capitol Heights, Md., was held for investigation in the Marlboro jail last night for questioning in connection with the murder of Emmanuel Thorne, U. S. Marine private.

Information secured by Constable Earl Blackwell in a seven months' investigation led to the garage man's arrest by Deputy Thomas Garrison.

Thorne's body, riddled with bullet wounds, was found in a shallow grave by Blackwell on April 3.

According to Blackwell, Thorne was killed in a drunken fight on January 16. The shooting occurred in a garage, the constable said, and there were three men present in addition to the victim. Their names are known, but police lack tangible evidence to link them with the killing.

The killing had no connection with bootleg or gambling racketeers, the constable said, but was the outcome of a fight.

Infantile Paralysis Is 50 Centuries Old

Dr. Leake, of U. S. Public Health Service, Advises Parents on Care.

The history of infantile paralysis is traceable as far back as the year 3000 B. C., Dr. J. P. Leake, of the United States Public Health Service, told an audience at the first of a series of lectures yesterday at the District Medical Society.

Dr. Leake emphasized the need for extreme care in assuring absolute rest and quiet for children found to be suffering from the disease, the first epidemic of which was reported in the United States in 1841. He also spoke of the great difficulty in recognizing many cases of the disease in which there is no evidence of paralysis.

While the medical profession has not yet learned the secret of preventing the disease, Dr. Leake declared that much progress has been made in checking its spread after cases have been discovered. He urged parents to use the utmost care in protecting their children whenever an outbreak of infantile paralysis is reported, as the disease is highly contagious, the germs being taken into the body through the nose and mouth.

Father Considine Is Radio Speaker

Nation Believing in Christ Will Endure, Theme of Sermon.

"A Christian nation will endure as long as Christ is acknowledged as king," declared the Rev. Joseph S. Considine, O. P., of the Dominican Fathers, in his broadcast sermon from the Church of the Immaculate Conception yesterday under the auspices of the Washington Catholic Radio Hour.

The Rev. Francis J. Hurney presided at this service, which had Fredrick Nolan and Florence Yocum as vocal soloists, and Miss Ann Arlen, violin soloist. Prof. Harry Wheaton Howard was in charge of the music.

The service included solemn procession of the blessing of the sick at the Grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes in the church. There will be a high mass at 12:15 noon on both today and tomorrow in connection with the 40 hours' devotion now going on in the church.

Missing Boys Ask Aid; Fare Sent to Come Back

William Crosson, 14 years old, son of Capt. and Mrs. W. H. Crosson, of Fort Myer, Va., and Reginald Bustin, son of Mrs. Amy A. Bustin, of 541 West avenue, Clarendon, Va., who left their homes last Thursday, reported to the Travelers Aid Society in Greenville, S. C., yesterday afternoon "because they were hungry."

Upon receiving word that the boys were found, the parents sent them funds to return home. The parents described the trip of their sons as an "escapade," and attributed it to reading of adventure books and movies. Both boys attend the Washington-Lee High School.

PHILIPPINE REPORT READY FOR HOOVER

Secretary Hurley Arrives Home, but Remains Silent.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover's special emissary to the Philippines—Secretary Hurley, of the War Department—brought back to his chief last night his confidential report on whether the people of the islands are ready for independence.

He arrived in a big three-motored Army plane from Dayton, Ohio, on the last leg of a three weeks' journey from Manila.

His recommendation is for the ears of the President alone, and until it is delivered the Secretary said he could give no indication of whether the answer is yes or no.

The conclusions reached by the tall, broad-shouldered chief of the War Department likely will form the basis for the administration's position on Philippine independence in the coming session of Congress.

For more than 2½ months Secretary Hurley has been away from Washington on his mission. For nearly a month he traveled the Philippines from one end to the other, by boat, automobile and plane.

To the airplane he gives credit for the thoroughness of his survey in the time at his disposal. Army planes were used at every opportunity, often making precarious landings on small and bumpy fields in the rough country of the interior.

The big Oklahoman had no comment on his trip except to say it was a pleasant one. He only smiled when told of press dispatches which had indicated some of the strong advocates of independence in the islands were dissatisfied with his inspection and believed an adverse report had been decided upon in advance.

Richardson Heads Parent-Teachers.

E. A. Richardson has been elected president of the Nellie Curtis Parent-Teacher Association of the Nellie Custis school at Aurora Hills, Arlington County. Other officers are Miss Meta Glasscock, first vice president; Owen Williams, second vice president; Mrs. O. L. Mohundro, treasurer; and Miss Gertrude Kidwell, secretary.

WEEK SET TO HONOR ALEXANDRIA GROUP

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Frank W. Noxon, president of the Chamber of Commerce, has announced that "Chamber of Commerce Week," will be observed in Alexandria from November 2 to 7, and on Monday, November 2, a proclamation will be issued by Mayor Edmund F. Ticer inaugurating the observance.

The purpose of the observance is to acquaint citizens with the history and achievements of the local body. The Rotary and Kiwanis clubs and American Legion are cooperating with the committee, and talks will be made in the various schools in the city, stressing contributions of the chamber to the welfare of the city.

President Noxon has appointed a committee, in cooperation with the board of directors, to arrange plans. It includes Francis H. Fannon, chairman; John W. Tulloch, Michael T. Dwyer, Edward Quinn, William May, William Topping, Harry Hammond, Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson and Dan S. Hollenga.

In addition to this committee President Noxon has appointed as an advisory committee C. Page Waller, George F. Downham, Gardner L. Boothe, William E. McGroarty, Fred C. Goodnow, F. Clinton Knight, John Barton Phillips, Benedict Weil, A. M. Remschel, D. C. Book and L. H. Dudley.

Julian Keith Brown, 46, died yesterday morning at the home of his sister, Mrs. J. Owen Lynch, 911 King street, Alexandria. He was born in Warrenton, Va., the son of the late James William and Sarah Martyn Brown.

Mr. Brown is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Lynch and Mrs. Harry F. Kemper, of Alexandria, and two brothers, Robert L. Brown, of Richmond, Va., and J. Brooke Brown, of Washington, D. C. The funeral will be held at the residence of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Lynch, 911 King street, Wednesday morning at 10:30 a. m., conducted by the Rev. H. W. Couenhoven, of Grace Episcopal Church. Burial will be in Ivy Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Mary W. Troth, public relations chairman of the Alexandria Business and Professional Women's Club, has called a meeting of her committee for Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the chamber of commerce to distribute literature and make plans for the coming Red Cross roll call. Her committee includes Miss Catherine Johnson, Mrs. Helen V. Reed, Miss Bertha K. Allison, Mrs. Winifred Thurlow, Miss Fanny Carter, Mrs. Charles A. Power and Miss Irma Wolf. The roll call will start November 11.

Navy Day will be observed at the Alexandria Naval Torpedo Station tomorrow, with many special features arranged by Lieut. J. N. Opie, who is in charge, particularly for the benefit of the school children. The plant will be open to the public from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m., and the mine sweeper Cormorant will be moored at the dock.

The Drum and Bugle Gorps of the American Legion Post will stage a parade in King street at 8 o'clock tonight.

ARLINGTON BATTLE DRAWS NEAR END

Ballot 30 Inches Long Will Confront Voters on Election Day.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

With the race to win one of the political offices in Arlington County now entering the last week, every candidate appears to be claiming the election. Never before in the history of Arlington County have the voters been confronted with such a ballot. It will measure more than 30 inches in length and contain the names of 78 candidates.

While the candidates for all eight offices, which includes two State offices, that of State senator and representative in the House of Delegates, are confident that they are going to win, the most bitter fight is being waged for the offices of sheriff and Commonwealth's attorney. The fight, as the campaign draws to a close, appears to be around the office of Commonwealth's attorney.

With the Republican party having named five candidates and the Arlington County Better Government League having named five, there does not appear to be any one or ary group willing to predict the five winners for the county board. After a study of the list of 51 candidates the nearest prediction is that there are fifteen candidates in the running. Fred Goshell, Robert H. Forman and E. C. Turnburke appear to be the leaders

The Clarendon Chapter Women's Christian Temperance Union will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. F. Manny, 116 North Maple street, Clarendon.

THE THEATER LAST NIGHT

"THREE'S A CROWD"—Max Gordon presents a revue in two acts and 25 scenes, conceived and compiled by Howard Dietz, with music by Arthur Schwartz, and additional skits by Groucho Marx, Arthur Sheekman, William Miles and others, starring Clifton Webb, Libby Holman and Fred Allen, supported by Joan Clement, Fred McMurray, Lou Wood, Helen Ault, Wally Coyle, Harriett Hamill, Percy Launders, the California Collegians, Tamara Geva and Albertina Rasch dancers. Settings by Albert R. Johnson; costumes by Kiviette; staged and lighted by Hassard Short. At the National Theater.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Demonstrating the supremacy of personality and ideas over the barren sterility of mere pulchritude and insipidity, this smartly contrived succession of deftly staged intervals of modernistic comedy, song and satire last evening was accorded a reception that the new season has not matched in enthusiasm.

The show was stopped now and again by skits and songs that appealed particularly to the tastes of a comparatively meager but conspicuously mercurial audience. Those present were at high tension and high temperature for the greater part of the two acts.

It is something of an oddity in productions of this character that the three stars, until the last scene of the last act, never have any joint undertakings to essay. Each contributes his or her bit individually, leaving until the virtual finale of the piece the concerted moment that gives the spectators their sole opportunity to express something of what they think of such an extraordinary trio of principals.

Clifton Webb, Libby Holman and Fred Allen are a full and sufficient raison d'etre for any three musical entertainments. Each is wholly competent to sustain interest in any two acts of musical foi-de-rol. With their forces mobilized, as they are here, they are completely devastating—the first as a dancer, singer and skillful actor; the second as an incomparable singer of what an expressive vernacular denominates "torch" songs; the third is a comedian and juggler no less adroit than William C. Fields, Ching Lung Foo and Joe Cook himself in the breadth and perfection of his versatile endeavors.

This, then, is the basis of the revue that eschews mass effects for singularized superiorities and sacrifices nakedness and suggestion to naivete and sagacity. As has already been said, the piece is smart—smart in its caricatures, smart in its lines and smart in its simple yet effective decor.

It is an impossible task to detail the various virtues of a fast-moving and sapient revue, such as this. It clicks with only a modicum of extravagant investiture and sparkles with a minimum of voltage. There are, to be sure, risque blackouts, sensuous dances and musical interludes planned for other than altruistic purposes, but, for discerning playgoers, this, or so it seems to me, is the most intriguing of the revues disclosed to date.

Miss Holman's songs are, of course, a large part of the evening's enjoyment—"Something to Remember You By," "Body and Soul," "Yaller" and "Moanin' Low," employed as an encore to permit the pastiming to go on, are her major contributions to a seductive evening in the theater.

Fred Allen chatters away in a plurality of scenes that are made extremely ludicrous by his nimble wit and digital dexterity. His fun is as infectious as it is seemingly unstudied.

Clifton Webb, as a solo dancer and as partner of Tamara Geva, as personable a devotee of Terpsichore as has come along these many moons, is superlatively graceful and interesting—as is Miss Geva, unless she should be Senorita, Signorina or something equally as thrilling.

The supporting players and ensemble—whose identities may be learned from the small-type paragraph preceding this inadequate summary—are quite in consonance with the excellence of an artful and an artistic diversion.

It would be dilatory not to advise you to see and enjoy this clever bit of latter-day sophistication—with music.

David I. Walsh Urges All to Drop Bigotry

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts today exhorted Christians of all communions to exterminate bigotry and present a united front to combat encroachment of atheistic materialism.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THROUGHOUT her stage career, Julia Marlowe availed herself of the services of an inimitable Irish maid and companion, Mamie Daly by name. She was, and still is, an unusual person. Wit is not the least of her natural endowments, as might be suspected from her nationality. Taxed one day concerning her somewhat bizarre method of spelling, she dismissed the subject with the simple statement, "I'm broad-minded about it."

I am reminded by Mr. Ray Henderson, among the most astute of the drama's peregrinating publicists, that Mamie is not alone in this attitude.

Guthrie McClintic's new production, "Brief Moment," starring Francine Larrimore, announced for the Belasco next week—the open season for cancellations on this one will not set in before tomorrow or next day—in behalf of which Mr. Henderson is a current visitor in the Capital, offers such persons quite unprecedented opportunities.

McClintic is not McClintick, nor yet McClintock, as so many people insist. The star's first name is not Frances and her last asks for three "r's" and an "i," not a "y." Alexander Woollcott, the writer and lecturer who has made his stage debut in this new comedy, is suffering perhaps the most from compositors, for he demands three "o's," two "l's" and two "t's" in his name—and is seldom allowed them!

S. N. Behrman, the author, admits he long ago accepted the fact that most people prefer his name with two "n's" at the end, and often transpose the "h" and the "r"—as this department recently did.

Jo Mielziner, the scene designer, says his first name has no "e," never had one, but generally gets one!

And last, but not least, the title is "Brief Moment," not "Brief Moments," but the man who can persuade sign painters of this will have to be endowed with the patience of a Job, says Mr. Henderson.

Well, Mr. Henderson ought to know—and having been a press agent myself once upon several times, I have some faint idea of what he is up against. I shall henceforth make an earnest effort to get my spelling correct at least half of the time.

That will be something, won't it, Mr. Henderson?

It seems that the personal appearance mania that has taken possession of the local entrepreneurs is about to even it up, more or less, among the sexes. Since Joe E. Brown, most of the screen luminaries—all of them, in fact—making themselves visible in the flesh on local stages have been from the distaff side of the industry—Fifi D'Orsay, Raquel Torres, Estelle Taylor—you know the list as well as I do.

The Earle purposes putting a stop to this lop-sided record. Beginning Friday, James Hall will run up the pulse and the blood pressure of susceptible femininity at the corner of Thirteenth and E streets, and hot on his heels will come James Cagney, in person, the tough egg of "The Public Enemy" and "Smart Money." Then there will be "Bill" Haines at the Palace!

It is a conviction forced upon this column by recent contacts and events that Sister Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton's four-square religion can not, after all, be more than two or three-square. The good Sister Hutton seems not to be taken too seriously by those who have observed her on the West Coast.

I shall not divulge confidences, but you can get a good rough idea from some of Oklahoma Bob Albright's cracks on the bill at the Earle this week!

And speaking of Bob Albright, if his act were as full of zip in its first half as it is in its last, it would be the greatest turn on tour. The panic, however, does not really start until that apprehensive and diminutive sepia hoofer comes out and executes a tap dance what is a tap dance with a triple-time efficiency and rhythm that are just about top hole for the current season.

And up on Fifteenth street Hardie Meakin and his associates are cudgeling their brains for some means of increasing the capacity of the RKO-Keith Theater for the week of November 6.

Beginning on that date, the attraction will be "Way Back Home," the first feature starring Phillips Lord, better known to millions of radio enthusiasts as Seth Parker.

It will be recalled that upon the occasion of Mr. Lord's first personal appearance in Washington, under the auspices, as I recall it, of the Central Union Mission, the largest auditorium in the Capital was completely sold out, and within a few days a return visit was also sold out almost overnight.

As an added attraction the same week, RKO-Keith's will present the second of Floyd Gibbons' "Supreme Thrills," having to do with the critical period of the Great War and bearing the title of "The Turn of the Tide." The first of the "Supreme Thrills," it will be remembered, was shown on the occasion of the dedication of the memorial plaque to former President Woodrow Wilson and was called "Woodrow Wilson's Great Decision."

You might care to know, too, for Junior's sake, if not your own, that preparations are under way in several of the Warner Bros. neighborhood theaters for a Children's Halloween Costume Party, on Saturday, October 31, at the matinee performances.

The theaters will be appropriately decorated for the occasion, the programs have been assembled with a particular view to the requirements of the festival and altogether the Halloween spirit will be rampant.

Prizes will be given for the prettiest as well as the funniest costume worn by the children and awards will be made on a basis of audience applause.

The theaters holding the costume parties will be the Ambassador, Apollo, Avalon, Avenue Grand, Home, Colony, Tivoli and York. Matinees will start at 2 p. m., and judging of costumes and prize awards will be at approximately 3:45 p. m.

It comes to my knowledge that in many of their conversations concerning the respective policies of France and the United States, Premier Laval responded to Senator Borah's views only with one of his most inscrutable smiles.

Sort of a Laval leer, as you might say!

with Balanced HEAT

Every man who tends his own furnace, works a whole month every year without pay. An hour a day for the 240 heating days in each year means that you—or your wife—waste the equivalent of at least 30 eight-hour working days every year doing a lot of needless hard work, and wasting fuel, time and money.

When you install a McIlvaine Oil Burner you start your burner but once a year. You free yourself from worry, discomfort, waste of time and money, and dirty, disagreeable work which must be done every day if you burn coal.

The McIlvaine Oil Burner is quiet, clean, dependable and economical. It is automatically governed and maintains an even heat in every room all winter long with a remarkably low oil consumption.

Ask About Our Budget Plan which makes it easy for anyone to enjoy the comfort, cleanliness, convenience and economy of the McIlvaine Oil Burner. Ask for Free Book "Balanced Heat", which tells why the McIlvaine saves work, time, health and money.

The Lee House Spokesman Says—

THE king is dead; long live the king.

YESTERDAY'S guest has gone; today's guest is the one we serve.

WE did the best we could for yesterday's guest, and today's guest expects as much. That we did well yesterday is no reason to give for not doing as well today. And we conduct the hotel so that each day's guest will know that the service of the house is all for him.

THIS procedure keeps us as a waiting and serving host, concerned for the guests who have come to visit him that day.

THIS will be the attitude of the Lee House to you EVERY DAY.

Hawks Rally To Win Over Celtics, 8-6

Drive to Touchdown Late in Game After Scoring Safety.

Penalty on Pass in First Period Aids Celts to Score.

Mohawks	1	0	1	Irvington	0	0	2
Celtics	1	1	0	Apaches	0	1	1

By WALTER HAIGHT.

THE Celtic reinforcements that routed the Apaches a week ago were not present at Griffith Stadium yesterday afternoon, but the mere fact that they might be lurking under the stands almost cost the Mohawks, who were making their Capital debut, a football game. As matters turned out, the Indians were able to rally in the closing minutes to grab a red-hot coal out of the furnace instead of a clinker. By virtue of their 8-to-6 victory, the Hawks gained the lead in the South Atlantic League.

In an effort to have fresh regulars available in the event that the Celtics ran out a "Red" team later in the half, Coaches Snyder and Wondrack started a combination composed in the majority of substitute players. And while the co-coaches waited patiently, the Celtics, led by Joe Sweeney, pushed over a touchdown that loomed larger and largen as the game progressed, with the Alexandrians playing a dogged and alert defensive battle.

Celtics Hold Hawks.

Despite the fact that the Mohawks marshaled their full strength when it appeared certain that the Celtics were already exhibiting their best front, the Virginians, one way and another, managed to repulse threat after threat by the Indians.

The fourth period was ebbing away when a brilliant kick by Fee Colliere led to a safety. Standing well beyond the 50-yard line, Colliere got off a spiral which virtually cut the corner of the gridiron, going outside a foot from the Celtic goal line.

It was a tough spot for the Alexandrians who had been having trouble all afternoon getting kicks away, mainly due to the ability of O'Brien to slip himself through the defense and jump high in front of the punter. O'Brien made good again, this time swinging his back into the ball as Coblentz attempted to punt, the ball bounced about the legs of the surprised players with Padgett, of the Celtics, finally recovering behind the goal line for a safety, giving the Hawks 2 points to 6 for the Celtics.

Snyder Batters Goalward.

With the ball kicked off from the 20-yard line, O'Brien grabbed the ball and ran it back to the Celtic 30-yard line. At this point, Snyder, the former Maryland U. star, brought his power into play. He ripped the center of the Celtic line for gains of 3 to 8 yards with Dick Allen, an Alexandria boy who is making good with a vengance with the Hawks, coming through with several gains.

With a first down to go for a touchdown, Snyder battered and twisted three times to within 4 yards and, on the fourth play when it appeared that the former Marylander would again carry the ball, he handed it to Allen on a reverse play and the Virginia boy crashed his way off tackle to the touchdown and the victory.

The Celtics opened the game with a rush, Dewey ripped off a couple of good runs and the Hawks found themselves pushed back to the 10-yard line. A pass over the goal line ended this march, however. The Celtics were soon headed goalward again and were within scoring distance when Snyder interfered with the receiver of a pass on the 20-yard line, but they couldn't put it across.

12 UNBEATEN GRID TEAMS IN EAST

Davis and Elkins, in Lead, Has Uncrossed Goal Line.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Davis and Elkins College of Elkins, W. Va., tops all other Eastern college football teams in the latest scoring records, both offensively and defensively. Not only has the West Virginia outfit run up 253 points in six games but it is the only Eastern school that has not been scored on.

New York University holds second place in scoring with 193 points; Columbia is third with 187 and Syracuse fourth with 183.

The section boasts twelve teams neither beaten nor tied while five other schools have not been beaten but have suffered ties. Records of leading teams:

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE sports pacifists have not yet been heard from in connection with the broken neck suffered by Sheridan, Army end, in the Yale game at New Haven Saturday. But football can present a winning defense against the attack of the reactionaries on the grounds that the game is too rough.

Approximately 300 college football games were played last Saturday without a fatality and with only two instances of serious injury reported. Life insurance statistics have branded baseball a more dangerous game than football and the accidents suffered on slippery bathroom floors outnumber the serious football injuries by thousands every year, according to the same statistics.

Football's majority of injuries are directly attributable to the improper equipment and lack of training among high school and sandlot teams. The colleges, with long training session, adequate protective equipment and highly specialized trainers, reduce the possibility of injury to a minimum.

The circumstances of Sheridan's injury excuses the Yale team of blame due to vicious or over-zealous play. In Sheridan's case, the Army end who made the tackle was at the bottom of a heap of his own teammates, not Yale players.

Sheridan's injury is an object lesson for football officials who have it within their power to check the custom of "piling on" a ball carrier. The rules book carries stiff penalties for this sort of rule infraction and the enforcement of their authority by the officials at the outset of the game will go far toward curbing the zealousness of the tackling team and reducing the possibility of injury.

Certain fans were unkind enough to recall the injury to Albie Booth in the Army-Yale game last year. Booth, it was remembered, was carried off the field after his first ball-carrying attempt, when he was badly hurt under a deluge of Army tacklers. Suggestions that the injury to Sheridan might have been in retaliation are obviously far-fetched, inas much as the Army end was buried beneath a heap of his own teammates.

Catholic University set some kind of a record for attempted first-down yardage the other night at Raleigh, N. C., in the game against North Carolina State.

The Cardinals were in possession of the ball on first down on the State 45-yard line in the second quarter with 10 yards to go. Within a minute, Catholic, without losing possession of the ball, was lining up with 65 yards to go for the first down instead of 10.

The Cardinals, on three successive plays, had been penalized 15 yards for back field in motion, 5 yards for offside, and 25 yards for clipping, thus setting them back to their own goal line with the first down marker 65 yards away. The penalties paved the way for State's only touchdown of the game, for a Catholic punt was blocked on the next play and recovered by a Carolina lineman behind the goal line.

Lou Little firmly entrenched himself among the front rank of football coaches in the metropolitan section when his Columbia University team walloped Dartmouth 19 to 6 nine days ago.

The New York press and public was ready to capitulate to the first man who could lift the Lions out of the football ruck that has housed them for two decades. Percy Haughton tried and failed, as did Crowley. Columbia had not won a major game until Lou Little left Georgetown to assume the reins last season.

Little's team which beat Dartmouth was composed of nine of the same players who absorbed a 52-0 beating at the hands of the Hanover Indians in 1930. Thus his feat in molding a winning eleven for Morningside Heights stands out in

THREE BIG STAKES WILL BE RUN AT LAUREL THIS WEEK

Meet, Closing Saturday, Success

Ogle Steeplechase, Jenkins and Washington Carded.

Curate Is Selected in Glenwood, Feature of Today.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 25.—This is the final week of the successful Laurel racing season, exceeding previous attendance records, and bearing the earmarks of financial success.

The largest crowd in the history of the track attended the running of the Selima and the Maryland Handicap Saturday, won by W. R. Coe's Laughing Queen and Morton Schwartz's Clock Tower, respectively. The finishes in each were sensationally close. The only disappointment of a great day of racing was the failure of Top Flight to start in the Selima. Her last engagement of the year will be in the Futurity at Pimlico, during the meeting which follows immediately the end of the Laurel session Saturday.

The three largest stakes are to be decided during the week at Laurel, beginning on Wednesday with the famed Gov. Ogle Steeplechase Handicap of $10,000 added value at 2½ miles, and on Saturday the $10,000 Spalding Lowe Jenkins Handicap for 2-year-olds at a mile, and the Washington Handicap of $25,000 added, the richest stake of the meeting, at a mile and a quarter. The leading steeplechase horses of the country are here for the Gov. Ogle renewal.

The Glenwood features the card tomorrow, it being for older horses, at a mile and one-sixteenth, in which J. E. Widener's CURATE stands out. This son of Fair Play did not show to best advantage in his last race, the Laurel Stakes, running sixth to Flagstone, but he meets opposition far less formidable in this race. Previously he had won four of five starts, and beaten a head in the other. If HILLSBORO runs back to his New York form he will be the contender. Third money is between BLIND LANE and MARINE. BLIND LANE has been submerged by class in her Laurel starts, but she won two races at Havre de Grace. MARINE was beaten three times in Canada by Khorasan.

FIRST RACE—Maiden 2-year-olds foaled in Maryland start in the first race. S. W. Labrot seems to be taking the lead among Maryland breeders, and his entry of TINGE and OPEN HEART is selected to win this dash. TINGE has started twice, and was second once. OPEN HEARTH has worked fast. A. G. Weston's JAFFA should be dangerous on her second to Zosara. LILLYBET has a chance and may be favorite for she was second to Daisburo at Havre de Grace, beaten by a nose.

SECOND RACE — NAT CLYMAN looks much the best in the steeplechase purse, second race, for he won his last start, last week, easily over the same class of horses. COQ GRIS takes off weight and probably will be the contender, but MOONSTRUCK, second to CLYMAN last out, may again come close. Several starting in the race have had little steeplechase experience. BANNER DAY may show an improved race if he can stand up. He has had mishaps in his last three races.

THIRD RACE—FORTUNATE YOUTH, winner of his last two races, seems destined to make it three in the third race. KAI FENG, impressive winner last out, may need a longer route, but appears the contender, with SEA FOX third. For an outsider, SUN MEMORY will have a following.

FOURTH RACE—The Faulkner Purse, for 2-year-olds, brings out a good field. BETTY FARRELL seems to have found the spot where she can prance to victory. Throw out her last race or so. The Greentree entry of SEMAPHORE and BYANTINE also has a chance, and may be second. SENADO belongs among the contenders, and has a chance to win on his second to OVER TIME.

SIXTH RACE—REPLEVIN looks best in the sixth, throwing out his last two races. The Lowenstein gelding won on the opening day here. SPANISH beat Fervid easily last out and should be the contender. NEGOPOLI has more than an even chance to be in the money.

SEVENTH RACE—BORIS has not run at this track at this session, but won at the Jamaica meeting, in his last start. He has a good chance to beat the consistent mare, PUTTER.

POTOMACS WIN.

The Potomac A. C. ran roughshod over the Virginia Preps yesterday, to win by a score of 26-0. The winners piled up two touchdowns in the opening quarter and another in the second to stow away the decision. Dyer was the outstanding performer for the Potomacs, carrying the ball across for two touchdowns.

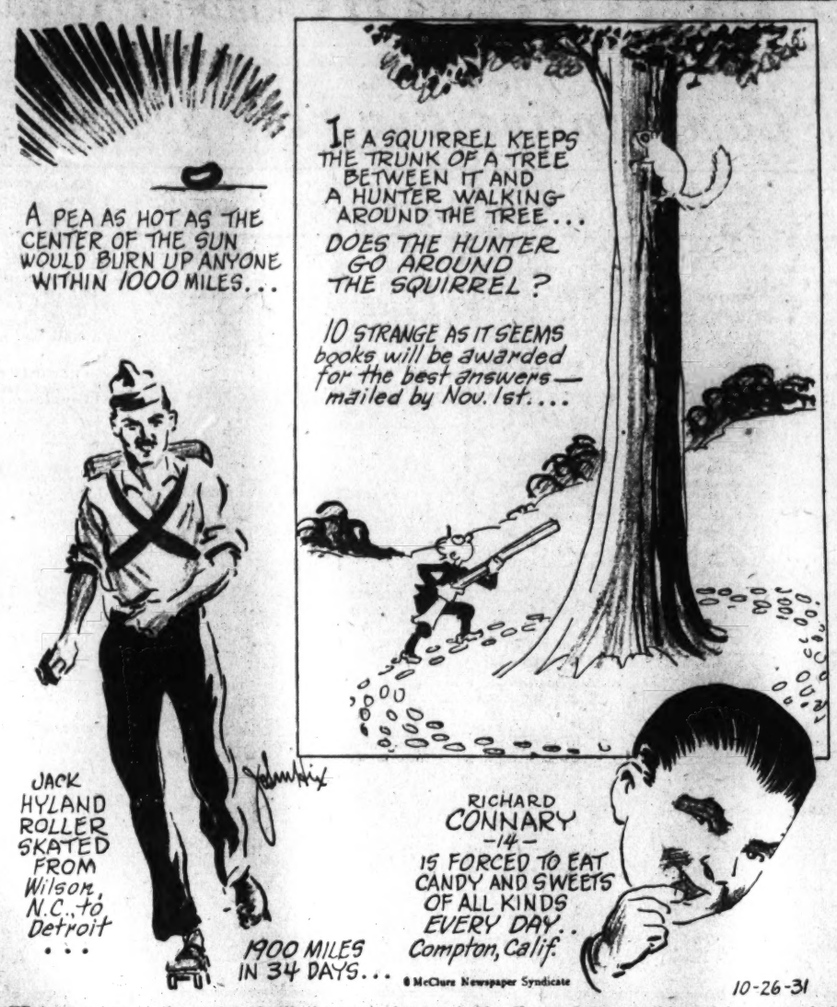
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix



THE temperature at the center of the sun is about 50,000,000 degrees, centigrade, and the heat of other stars is about the same. Sir James H. Jeans says, "if it were possible to maintain a piece of matter the size of a pea at such a temperature, it would scorch and shrivel up anyone who ventured within 1,000 miles of it. Its directed beam would destroy an army in an instant.

The ambition of every kid at some time or other, is to be president of a candy factory with full liberty to eat all the candy he can hold. Young 14-year-old Richard Connary, of Campton, Calif., has a disease that enables him to enjoy all the pleasures of a candy factory without working in one. In the eyes of his young friends, Richard is the luckiest boy alive. Because of the rare ailment, he has, by doctor's order, been sentenced to a diet of all the candy, pies, ice cream, cake, &c., that he can eat.

It seems that Richard's chief trouble is lack of sugar. Unless he follows the doctor's orders, he is subject to violent spasms. Since he has been partaking of his unusual diet, the spasms have been conspicuous by their absence, and Richard has improved considerably in his studies.

HAWKS BEAT CELTICS BY RALLY

Allen Scores Touchdown for 8-to-6 Triumph.

It was a similar occurrence, interference with the receiver, this time with Allman the offender, that put the Celtics on the 1-yard line a moment later. Joe Sweeney ducked through the line to the touchdown. Coblentz, on a placement try for the added point, missed.

With the Hawk regulars intact in the second period, they drove to within spitting distance of the goal with a pass from Snyder to Allen playing a prominent part. However, the Celtics' defense, with Weinstock in the hero role, held for downs. The Hawks were not up the field long, however. This time they worked the ball to the 10-yard line, where a pass over the goal ended their effort. Again the Celtics kicked and Dick Allen grabbed the ball on the 40-yard line to make one of the most thrilling runs seen at the park this year.

Allen Cuts For Sideline.

Snyder took out an end just as Allen grabbed the ball. The Alexandria boy cut over to the right with two tacklers apparently in his path. Colliers threw his body into this pair and Allen was soon twisting his way down the sideline, squirming away from this tackler and that, finally being knocked outside on the 9-yard line. With only a few seconds left to play to the half, the Hawks tried a pass that was grounded over the line.

As the result of a recovered fumble, the Celtics had a scoring opportunity in the third period, gaining the ball on the Hawks' 20-yard line. A series of passes failed, however. The story of the fourth period has already been told.

The game was a credit to the league and brought out some brilliant defensive work, particularly by Weinstock, former Western Maryland star in the Celtic line. Price put up a good game at end while Zulick and Moore gave the Celtics a lot of heavy work all afternoon. Colisano, Babock and DeRoo were prominent in the Mohawk line.

Next Sunday, the Mohawks and the Apaches will clash in the first of two games between the rivals this season.

CENTRAL AND TECH BATTLE ON FRIDAY

stop the seemingly unstoppable Tech. The stadium promises to be packed far past its capacity.

Tomorrow is a big day in scholastic football, Eastern playing Business in what should be an interesting series game, and Gonzaga meeting Georgetown Prep in Gonzaga's first appearance since it startled followers of high school ball with a brilliant 32-0 victory over Eastern.

Eastern is a badly crippled team and there seems to be a sporting chance that Business, after two years of victoryless football, may see the light of conquest. The Stenogs have a good big bunch this year; a good passer in Cavanaugh and a great natural back in Flynn. Eastern has a sprinkling of good players, including Charlie Mades, one of the best high school linemen, but has not shown much to date.

Gonzaga should find Georgetown Prep easy pickings.

Laurel Notes

SUN BEAU, leading money winning horse of the world, is still training at Laurel, in spite of his reported withdrawal. It may be the foxy four-footed Croesus has in mind the rich Washington Handicap after all. It is at his mercy if he only dons the colors and goes to bat. Mate's repeated failures almost puts the Bostwick colt among the second raters.

Willie Nertney, Sagamore Stable jockey, is the riding sensation in Maryland. He won nine races last week, making a total of nineteen for the meeting, and is far in front of Mack Garner, with thirteen. Bejshak and Steffen are tied for third, with seven each. Nertney is a Baltimore boy, developed in riding by Bud Stotler, trainer for the Sagamore Stable of Mrs. Charles Amory. Bejshak is another Stotler jockey. Of the nine steeplechases run here, no jockey has ridden more than one winner.

Twenty-one favorites won in the 42 races run last week at Laurel, the best average of any track in years.

Arc Light has top weight in the Gov. Ogle Steeplechase Wednesday, 166 pounds; Beacon Hill, 162; Beelzebub and Chenango, 156; Green Cheese, winner of the Grand National at Belmont Park, has up 148. There will be a large field in the Ogle.

Hygro and Kakapo are two Western invaders proving sadly disappointing in Maryland. Kakapo's failure in the Selima was complete, even with Top Flight out. Both Kakapo and Hygro came East heralded as capable of taking Top Flight's scalp, and lost their own.

Belshe Wins Over Sasscer, Gains Indian Spring Title

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THOMAS M. BELSHE, playing in his home club championship tournament for the first time yesterday won the golf championship of the Indian Spring Club, defeating Leroy D. Sasscer, the defending champion, on the thirty-fifth hole of a 36-hole final match-play round, 2 and 1. There were so many conceded putts and so many pick-ups that neither contestant kept a medal score.

At the end of the first eighteen holes, the match was all square. At the beginning of the second round, Belshe won the first three out of the first four holes and at the twenty-seventh hole was 2 up. He became 3 up when he won the twenty-eighth, the tenth on the card, but Sasscer threatened his supremacy by winning the next three holes, making the match again all square. With the thirty-second hole halved, Belshe, on the thirty-third green in two shots, and holing out in two putts for a birdie 4, became 1 up, and was 2 up after scoring a par 5 on the thirty-fourth hole. On the thirty-fifth both players were in a trap after their drives, but Belshe was able to secure a half in 5, winning the match.

The final round in the fifth sixteen was won by J. W. Reese, his opponent, W. W. Deal, being unable to play on account of illness. At the dinner in the clubhouse last night, at the conclusion of the club tournament, all the prizes were awarded, the presentation speech being made by Herbert A. Mihills, the president of the club.

Woodmont Play Delayed.

The semifinal rounds in the club championship at the Woodmont Club were not played yesterday, as several of the contestants went with their fellow-members on a trip to the Woodholme Club in Baltimore. In the party were Howard Nordlinger, Max Weyl, Melvin Kraft, William G. Illich, Dr. S. B. Gottlieb, Fulton Brylawski, Milton Harris, Leopold V. Freudberg, Louis Harris, Morris Goldstein and Samuel Kaufman. The semifinal and final rounds will be played next Sunday.

Byrn Curtiss, one of the junior members of the Indian Spring Club, and winner of the club's junior championship in 1928 and 1929, yesterday won the left-handers' golf championship of the District in a 36-hole medal play competition on the course of the Indian Spring Club. Sixteen contestants, all southpaws, were entered in the tournament.

Curtiss had two rounds of 80 and 88 for a total of 168, two strokes better than Thomas P. Bones, jr., Columbia, whose card was 81-84—165. Sam Rice, of the Indian Spring Club and also the well known right fielder of the Washington baseball club, who was the defending champion, was third with 85-82—166. Curtiss had only one bad hole in his round, the thirteenth of the forenoon play, when, after three vain attempts to extricate his ball from a trap, he finally holed out in 7. On the second round he had three 3-putt greens and also encountered two traps, which added strokes to his score, but at the same time Bones was also losing strokes. The cards:

Scores—Byrn Curtiss, Indian Spring, 80—83—163; Thomas P. Bones, jr., Columbia, 81—84—165; Sam Rice, Indian Spring, 84—82—166; Luther Florine, Kenwood, 88—84—186; William Ortman, unattached, 95—93—188; W. Ray Garrett, Columbia, 94—95—189; J. S. Abbott, jr., Beaver Dam, 94—95—189; A. L. Duncan, Indian Spring, 92—98—190; Dr. J. T. McClenahan, Washington, 99—92—191; Dr. H. G. Smathers, Indian Spring, 101—98—199; R. W. Pearson, Indian Spring, 100—100—200; L. A. Reeves, Congressional, 102—99—201; Nathan R. Williams, Washington, 101—107—208; Floyd Baker, Kenwood, 112—112—224.

No card—H. W. Bearce, Kenwood.

Charest, One-Armed Star, Wins.

C. M. Charest, the moted one-armed left-handed tennis player, yesterday demonstrated his skill as a golfer, despite his handicap, by winning the Tatum cup competition at the Congressional Country Club. Competition was eighteen holes, medal play, handicap allowance, and 119 members of the club competed in the event.

Charest had a card of 46—42—88, and his 17 handicap gave him the winning score of 71. His 42 on the inward nine was all the more remarkable because he had a 7 on his card from the fifteenth hole, when his third shot was chipped into a trap. The runner-up prize was won by L. C. Rudino, with a card of 81—9—72, while for third prize there was a tie between A. H. Plant, 84—11—73, and J. L. Barnhart, 88—15—73.

One of the regular tournaments of the Middle Atlantic Professional Golfers Association will be staged this afternoon on the course of the Congressional Country Club.

The exhibition golf match on the opening day of the National Women's Club next Thursday will be played between Mrs. Betty P. Meckley, District amateur champion, and Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, Middle Atlantic champion, against Mrs. M. Louise Bell, Elkridge, and Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow, Rodgers Forge, winner and runner-up in the Middle Atlantic championship last year. In the morning there will be an eighteen-hole medal play competition open to District women golfers

THREE UPSETS IN CAPITAL CITY LEAGUE UNLIMITED GAMES

Gunners and Dixies Win Contests

TEAM STANDINGS.

	W.	L.	T.		W.	L.	T.
Dixie Pigs	2	0	1	Brookland	0	1	1
Sea. Gunners	2	1	0	St. Stephen's	1	2	0
Marions	1	0	2	Blue Coals	0	2	1
Mercury	1	0	1	Del Ray	0	2	0

THREE upsets were recorded in the unlimited division of The Post's Capital City League yesterday, as the favorites fell before the onslaught of underdogs, who took full advantage of the opportunity to bask in the spotlight. The Griffith-Blue Coals registered the biggest surprise when they held the highly-touted Marions to a 6-6 deadlock. The Dixie Pigs swamped St. Stephen's 21-0, Seaman Gunners downed Brookland, 19-6, and the champion Mercury eleven stopped Del Ray by a 15-0 count.

Approximately 1,000 fans trekked out to Gonzaga field to witness the widely-heralded game between the Marions and Griffith-Blue Coals, ancient Southeast rivals. They were rewarded with one of the best games played in the league this season. Both teams fought like wildcats to put over a win, but it was not in the books, and perhaps all Southeast fans are just as well satisfied. Clean, clever football was the order of the day.

Gerdom Catches Pass.

The Griffs scored first when Gerdom clutched a pass from Raum and jogged 20 yards to the score. The advantage was short lived, however. Southwarth counting after a 20-yard gallop on a triple reverse play for the Marions. From this point on play was about even with both clubs playing hard, clean football. The final score somewhat shocked the Marions, as they had entered the fray confident of drubbing their Southeast rivals.

"Huck" Stahl's dash of 75 yards to a touchdown after intercepting a forward pass, featured the Dixies' victory over St. Stephen's. The West Enders found the going too tough for them, with Eddie Colliflower and "Ten Yard" Cady taking turns in smashing the line for long gains. Both players scored touchdowns to aid in the victory. Eddie Radtke's good kicking again featured the play of the suburbanites. Radtke averaged 45 yards on his punts, and kicked all three points after touchdown. Johnny Miles at tackle was constantly breaking through to pull down St. Stephen's ball carriers.

The work of Jake Lewis and Kolley, a substitute half back, was chiefly responsible for the Mercury victory over Del Ray. Lewis raced 40 yards for a score in the opening period and Kolley travelled 35 in the last few minutes of the game to put the game on ice for the champs. "Josh" Licarione covered himself with glory when he broke through the line and blocked a kick, the play resulting in a safety for his team.

The Seaman Gunners presented a greatly improved team yesterday over the one that performed in its previous league contests. The Sailors were hitting on all cylinders and earned the decision.

The Gunners scored in the opening period when Angell plunged through to a touchdown, culminating a drive inaugurated about midfield. Again in the third period Pierce carried the oval across after a series of off-tackle smashes. Young added the extra point. Brookland tallied its only score of the game in the final period, Lary crossing the final chalkmark, but the Sailors matched this when Marsh skirted left end for a 30-yard run behind perfect interference.

Barron Name Stirs Ga. Tech Grid Fans

Atlanta, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—When "Pat" Barron goes around end for a long run Georgians raise the rebel yell.

For the "last of the Barrons" is a native son and is carrying on football tradition his brothers started at Georgia Tech.

Barron had been synonymous with good football playing at the "flats" for several years, and those who knew his famous brothers are looking to young Pat to carry on.

Pat spent last summer as a "bouncer" in a dance hall at Mountain City, Ga. He did not have any trouble with the toughs who are supposed to be bounced.

His brothers were the original "Red" Barron and Carter Barron.

U. S. G. A. Asks Clubs To Aid Local Charities

New York, Oct. 25 (U.P.).—Recommendation that golf clubs in all parts of the country conduct one-day competitions with nominal entry fees for the benefit of the unemployed was made to member clubs of the United States Golf Association by Herbert H. Ramsay, president, tonight.

Ramsay pointed out that in war time, golb clubs "through competitions of this kind gave substantial amounts to various relief agencies." He said that "the emergency is even greater at the present time, and we believe that the golfers of the country are willing to help now as they have in the past."

It was pointed out that the U. S. G. A. was making no attempt to raise a national fund, and it was requested that each club should forward the amounts received to "some local relief agency."

Nine Bucknell Seniors Unbeaten by Villanova

Lewisburg, Pa., Oct. 25.—Nine members of the varsity football squad at Bucknell University will be fighting for a perfect record of victories over Villanova when the teams clash at Scranton Saturday.

The nine seniors who were left when Snavely reduced his squad a few weeks ago, won as sophomores 9 to 0, and last season, when they were juniors, Bucknell took the game 20 to 14.

The list includes only two backs, Clark Hinkle and Anthony Mezza. Hinkle scored winning touchdowns in the two Villanova games in which he has played.

It is on the line that Villanova will see familiar faces, with seven men there who have been in former battles with the Wildcats.

Heading the list is Capt. Cy Marter at right tackle. The others are Stonebraker and Fry at the ends, Crowe and Hoak at guards, Goodwin at center, and possibly Trudnak at left tackle. There is only a slight chance that Trudnak will be able to play, and Crowe likely will give way to Owen James, a Scranton boy. Fry played in the back field in the other Villanova games.

CENTENNIAL ELEVEN IN FRONT

Lead 150 Pounders by Beating Northern Preps.

TEAM STANDINGS.

Meridians	1	0	1

THE Centennials, 1930 champions of the 150-pound division of The Post's Capital City League, assumed their rightful position at the head of the league by defeating the Northern Preps, 6-0, in a bitterly fought game played at Silver Spring yesterday. The game was the feature of a program in which only one upset was recorded.

The Meridians turned the trick with a 12-6 decision over the Stantons. In the other games played, Brookland stopped the Columbia eleven, 7-0, and the Brentwood Hawks ran wild against the Petworth Pennants to win by a 19-0 count.

"Senator" Reed, diminutive Centennial half back, turned the tide of battle in the champions' favor when he gathered in a Northern pass and trooped 80 yards to the goal unmolested. In addition to scoring the lone touchdown of the gray, Reed played a bang-up game defensively. He was aided in this respect by Marshall.

The Northerns put up a stiff argument and undoubtedly would have held their opponents to a scoreless tie, had not the "Senator" executed his little act. Ted Otte's charges advanced to the Centennials' 20-yard line in the third period only to be held for downs. Again in the fourth quarter they inaugurated a drive that netted three successive first downs, only to have their march terminated by the timekeeper's final whistle.

The plucky Meridian team finally made good its threat made in its first league game and socked the Stantons for a 12-to-6 win. Dick Brownlee went over for the eventual winners' first score in the initial quarter after an exchange of kicks. The Meridians' second marker was the result of a Stanton fumble. The Northeast gridders were backed up on their goal line, preparatory to kicking out. A bad pass from center was recovered by Kemper behind the goal line.

The Stantons' only score resulted from a 30-yard pass, Laverine to Lassise. The latter was the big gun in the green clad warriors' play. He and Shackelford combined to thwart many thrusts of their opponents.

Brookland scored through a series of line bucks to gain the only tally in their game with the Columbias. Al Miller carried the oval over. Cassidy, a substitute half back, got off a kick that, aided by the wind, came to rest 80 yards away. The winners played with the precision of a machine, and managed to hold the Columbias on the 1-foot line when they threatened in the first part of the game.

The Brentwood Hawks had easy sailing with Petworth. The latter went hurling to the bottom of the league by its defeat. Walker, Sorrell, and Fellner were best for the Hawks.

Berkeley Springs Bows To Martinsburg, 37-6

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Oct. 25.—Martinsburg High encountered little difficulty Saturday in defeating Bath District High, of Berkeley Springs, on the local athletic field, 37 to 6. The Martinsburg second eleven was supplanted late in the second quarter by the regulars and again the varsity in the third quarter.

Shockey was Martinsburg's principal scorer, accounting for three touchdowns. Berkeley Springs' lone score came in the third quarter, when a Martinsburg back fumbled a lateral and D. Forney fell on the ball behind the Martinsburg goal.

Chicago Bears Upset By Yellowjackets, 13-12

Chicago, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Yellowjackets scored a mild upset today by defeating the Chicago Bears, 13 to 12, in a National Professional League football game at Wrigley Field.

After Herb Joesting had scored in the second period, only to have the Bears tie the count at 6-all. Mort Kaer raced 85 yards from scrimmage to score in the third session. Tackwell place-kicked for the winning point. The Bears scored in the second period when Nagurski plunged 4 yards over the goal line. He fumbled, but Lyman, Bear lineman, recovered for a touchdown.

The Bears, aided by Red Grange's 43-yard run, took the ball to Philadelphia's 1-yard line, only to be held. Nagurski scored the other Bear touchdown early in the period, plunging over after passes had put the ball in scoring position.

Giants' Eleven Wins, 27-0, as Cagle Stars

New York, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—Led by Chris Cagle, former Army all-American back, the New York football Giants defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers 27-0 at the Polo Grounds here today.

The Giants scored two touchdowns almost before the 22,000 fans on hand had been seated. A pass, Smith to Burnett, brought the first, and a few moments later Cagel slipped around end from the 25-yard line for the second.

In the third period, Wycoff, Giant full back, intercepted a pass and ran 72 yards to a touchdown. The final Giant scoring came in the last period when Burnett lugged the ball over following a sustained drive down the field.

PERKINS BREAKS PAR.

Pinehurst, N. C., Oct. 25 (A.P.).—T. Phillip Perkins, of New York, former British amateur champion, served notice today that he is right for the winter golfing wars.

In a practice round over the number two championship course here he had a 68, three under par.

ST. STEPHEN'S PREPS moved into first place in the 135-pound division of The Post's Capital City League by virtue of their 20-0 victory over the Northeast Motors, yesterday. In the other games played in this division, the Trojans emerged victorious in a bruising battle with the Apache Preps, 6-2, and the Federals scored over the Notre Dame Preps by a 7-0 count.

Bobby Lucas, former Business High basket ball star, was the best performer in the Saints' line-up yesterday. In the first period he dashed around end on a 25-yard run to touchdown, and repeated in the last quarter, running 35 yards to score. George Joray tallied the other marker when he dusted 20 yards through a broken field.

Trojan-Apache Game Thriller.

The Trojan-Apache game was by far the best of the day. It was a bitterly contested affair, with the two teams evenly matched. The Apaches tossed away a chance to score in the first quarter when they attempted a forward pass on the first of four downs, with only 10 yards remaining between them and the goal. Whiteley's kicking and Mayhew's plunging had the Trojans continually in hot water.

All of the scoring was done in the second quarter, when King carried the ball over for the Trojans after a series of line plunges. The Apaches' points were scored on a kick by Whiteley, which Dorr touched, and then bounded outside in the flat zone. Cornell, King and Jenkins played best for the winners.

The best part of the Federal-Notre Dame game was played in midfield, with neither team having much advantage. The Federals, led by Charley Turner, substitute half back, counted after a 90-yard march down the field, Munroe scoring. Tolliver and Carlson starred for the winners.

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

A STUBBORN defense on the part of the Columbia Heights soccer squad caused a sensational upset in the Capital City League yesterday when British United was tied by the uptown kickers, 2 to 2. Pregame statistics showed the English kickers about three goals better than the Heights squad.

As was expected, Concord had no difficulty in downing the young Brandywine team, 10 to 0. This match was a walkaway for the Germans, but Manager Early's squad gained valuable experience from the tilt that will bolster the youngster's confidence in future matches. Rosedale met unexpected opposition in Gaithersburg, which bowed, 2 to 0, but held the Northeast kickers scoreless in the second half.

Seldom has a young American goalie been "on the spot" as was Watson, of the Columbia Heights eleven yesterday. With old timers such as Turner, Bryden, McBain and Smith crashing shots at the Columbia Heights, uprights with their peculiar old country skill it would be expected that the Britishers would have walked away with the contest, but the agile Watson was at his best when the attempts were from the most difficult angles.

Early in the game Tom Clark dribbled through the British defense and slammed a shot at the uprights. Jess Burton blocked, but Tom headed the leather in from the recoil. Toward the end of the first period Jack Turner equalized with a neat boot in the corner of the goal.

Starting the second half with the score tied, 1 to 1, the clubs fought viciously. Jess Burton formed a one-man defense on the early Columbia thrusts and in a short time had the sphere well in the enemy's territory. For practically the last 30 minutes of play the United squad was attacking the Columbia Heights goal mercilessly and at this stage of the game Louie and Emil Koennell were Watson's main aids in defense of their goal.

The Heights gang went to the front about midway of the half when Emil Koennell converted a corner kick taken by Louie into a goal, but the lead was short lived, as McBain crashed through the youngster's defense for the equalizing goal a few moments later.

Rosedale owes its victory over Gaithersburg to a determined attack by Henry Irving, Harding and E. Burdette. This trio peppered the Marylanders' goal from every angle and succeeded in scoring twice in the first half hour of play, but after the second marker the visitors rallied, and but for poor markmanship would have scored several times. Frequent attempts at the Rosedale goal were missed by inches only.

Concord scored at will against the young and inexperienced Brandywine eleven, but the latter gave the spectators a treat in displaying a fine competitive spirit down to the final minute of play. Endress scored the unusual high total of five goals.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

KEEP A BABY DIARY.

THE young mother is likely to keep a diary of her baby's acts in the first weeks of his life. As he grows older she forgets to set things down and, finally, the diary is abandoned altogether. When other babies come along they are not likely to have a diary record.

Wise physicians advise that a diary be kept, beginning at birth and continuing until the child reaches the school grade in which he is taught hygiene. At that period the diary is turned over to the child to be kept by him and added to as the experiences of life unfold.

Mothers are advised to devote a few minutes daily at a set hour to making entries in the diary. Some one with experience in child training should tell the mother what items are of importance from the physical, mental and behavior standpoint, and which, therefore, must not be left out of the record. In after years if that child or that person is in need of any guidance because of illness, bad habits, bad disposition, erratic behavior, slow progress in school—the physician who is called in or the consultant in behavior problems or the school teacher is given this record to study as the starting point of his study of the individual.

The record should give the date, hour and place of birth, the first appearance of tears, the first smile, the first notice taken of a bright light and moving objects, the first time anything is grasped or an effort is made to pick up objects, the first vocal laughter; the age at which he sat alone, walked, talked, cut his teeth; all illnesses, especially all infections.

Behavior should be recorded—temper, playfulness, desire to play with children; also the sleeping and eating habits. These are but a few of the many things that should be given place in the record.

In after years the consultant can tell from the record what infections the child has had, and what are still potentially dangerous for him, his susceptibilities to bowel troubles, to coughs and the like. More important still, he can judge of the child's personality, his behavior, and his intellectual type and qualifications. He can tell not only what training can do but what it has done.

Knowing the child's constitution and his personality is even more important than knowing what diseases he has had. As a rule the baby that learns quickly is a superior individual, mentally and physically, and will continue so if he is handled right. Of course a mother devoting much of her time to an average baby may teach him things that make him appear exceptional.

Eventually this method of diary keeping may supply something to take the place of the old family doctor's knowledge of his patient. It may even be better than that if the record be well kept.

SMOKER'S HEART.

C. G. writes: What is smoker's heart? Can it be cured?

REPLY.

Smoker's heart is one form of nervous or irritable heart. The only treatment required is to stop the use of tobacco. If this is done cure follows without treatment. If the excessive use of tobacco is continued treatment is ineffective.

BOILS REPEATING.

M. N. F. writes: Is dietary deficiency a cause of repeated boils? My 14-year-old nephew has had a siege. His doctor said he should not eat fresh fruits, such as strawberries. He likes them and he finds it difficult to choose between strawberries and boils.

REPLY.

I know of no proof that eating strawberries lays a foundation for boils, unless it be because of the large amount of sugar with which the berries are covered. If he will substitute honey for sugar on his berries, he can decrease his sugar intake and improve the flavor of the dish.

Too much starch and sugar in the diet lays the foundation for boils, though recently a physician questioned that. It is thought that deficiency in some vitamins promotes infections. A boil is an infection. The vitamins of which this is said to be true are A, D and possibly C.

Writing About River.

Memphis, Tenn. (U.P.).—When Joe Curtis, veteran Memphis newspaperman and known as an authority on Mississippi River lore, wrote his last piece of copy recently and retired friends thought he would forsake the river, but instead he is writing a book about the river and its history. A packet is named after the elderly newspaperman whose daily river column was widely read by pilots and river folks.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

SMART COAT TYPE.

The little school girl will adore this attractive woolen frock.

It's the jaunty coat-type dress that elder sister is wearing.

It's brick-red woolen with rather large brown bone buttons to match the brown leather belt. The neck and sleeves are finished with scalloped white pique collar and cuffs.

It's a one-piece affair with plaited insets at each side of the skirt.

Style No. 178 is designed for girls of 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 8 requires 2¼ yards of 39-inch material, with ⅜ yard of 35-inch contrasting.

Price of pattern, 15 cents. Address Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-ninth street, New York City.

GRAND JURY TO GET DATA IN SLAYING OF TAXI DRIVER TODAY

Case Against 3 Men Will Be Presented Again; First Finding Invalid.

TRIO, NOW IN CUSTODY, SAID TO ADMIT KILLING

Detective Sergt. Barrett and Lieut. Fowler to Testify in Holdup Death.

The case against the three alleged slayers of Mannie Solomon, 29-year-old taxicab driver, who was killed while resisting a holdup on July 29, is scheduled to be re-presented to the grand jury today. An indictment returned against them on September 5, was invalidated because of the presence on the grand jury of a pensioner.

Most of the testimony against the three alleged slayers will be presented by Detective Sergt. Robert J. Barrett, who is now under suspension from the Police Department as a result of the "third degree" investigation.

Barrett Worked Up Case.

It was Barrett who determined the identity of the alleged slayers and rounded them up. For his work in this case, he was given a commendation by Inspector Frank S. W. Burke, chief of detectives.

The men against whom the evidence will be presented today are: William C. Robinson, Charles E. Washington and Leonard A. Layton, all colored, who are said to have admitted that they fatally wounded Solomon when he resisted a holdup attempt at Union and O streets southwest on the night of July 29.

Expert Will Testify.

Lieut. John H. Fowler, ballistics expert of the Police Department, will testify that the gun used in the killing of Solomon was the same as that used in the attempted holdup of Isadore Koblem in his store at 1356 South Capitol street earlier on the night of the Solomon killing.

The case will be given to the grand jury by Assistant United States District Attorney William H. Collins.

Pastor Describes Efficacy of Grace

Dr. Baetty Says Many Hunger Unconsciously for God.

"I believe men and women everywhere are hungering either consciously or unconsciously for God's grace," declared the Rev. Harold E. Beatty yesterday morning at the Georgetown Lutheran Church while speaking on the topic, "The Sufficiency of Our Saviour's Grace." He said in part:

"In these hectic days the souls of men are withering for the dew of God's grace. And at this point much of our so-called modern psychology breaks down. There are generally two kinds of psychology, the Christian and the non-Christian. The latter is pagan to the very core and enjoins men to go forward and achieve success through human intelligence. But in this modern world men often come to a place where human intelligence and strength will not avail. Then his system of philosophy becomes a tantalization and a cruel mockery."

Dr. Beatty gave instances of trouble dispersed for persons who turned to the word of Good for help. "A blessing comes which is infinitely better than the removal of the thorn; it is Christ's grace," he said. "And no matter what your experience is, you have the same promise from our Saviour, 'My grace is sufficient for thee, for my strength is made perfect in weakness.'"

Player Is Injured In Football Game

James H. Myers, 19, Gets Concussion of Brain From Kick.

James H. Myers, 19 years old, of 1414 Irving street northwest, received concussion of the brain when kicked in the head during a football game in Brookland yesterday.

He was found slumped over the wheel of his automobile at Michigan avenue and First street northwest by Park Policeman C. E. Rabbit. He was treated at Soldiers' Home Hospital and later removed to Gallinger Hospital. His condition is undetermined.

Myers, who works on a Post delivery truck, did not think he was seriously injured when kicked. On his way home he became faint and pulled to the side of the road, where he stopped the motor of the car.

Man Injured Watering His Front Lawn

Dr. William P. Ellenberger, 60 years old, a veterinary in the United States Department of Agriculture, is in a serious condition in Emergency Hospital, suffering from severe head injuries received late yesterday when he fell on a pavement while watering the front lawn of his home at 1359 Parkwood place northwest.

According to neighbors, no one saw Dr. Ellenberger fall. He was found by friends lying unconscious across the walk, his head resting against a concrete abutment. He was taken to the hospital in an ambulance, where physicians prepared immediately for an operation. It was said he received a possible fracture of the skull.

Neighbors declared they had seen Dr. Ellenberger watering the lawn in front of his home shortly before dark. His wife, Mrs. Irene Ellenberger, was unable to explain the accident. It is believed he either tripped over the hose or backed against the edge of the walk in such a manner that he fell.

BOTTLE NOTE BARES TALE OF 'KIDNAPING'

Police Told Writer Is Held Captive and Danger in Potomac Cave.

A note found in a bottle floating in the Potomac near Key Bridge by two boys led police of the Seventh Precinct and Arlington authorities on a search of the territory along the river for the purported cave hideout of a band of kidnapers, where the writer of the message said he had been brought from Newport News, Va. The note urgently besought police to succor him.

The note, found by Irving Hancock, 13, and Austin White, 14, both of 3427 M street northwest, read:

"Am kidnaped. Guarded by gang in secret cave near long iron bridge near Washington on Potomac River (presumably). Get me out of this at once or it will be too late. I know too much! Was brought here from Newport News, Va., several days ago—please rush help—I hear them coming back now.

"JAMES FINDLEY (or Fendley)."

On the reverse side of the piece of white wrapping paper was another message which said:

"Send police for a fight—but go easy. They may jump me off if they get pressed too close—JAMES FINDLEY."

Persons familiar with the territory along the Potomac said they knew of no caves near Washington. A message to Newport News police brought the information that nobody of the name signed to the note or anything similar was known or listed there.

Fellow Lodger Saves Man From Gas Death

William J. McAuliffe, 54 years old, was taken to Emergency Hospital yesterday afternoon suffering from gas poisoning. He was found in the kitchen of a rooming house at 132 C street northeast by Grant Burnside, another lodger.

Four jets on a stove were open, according to police, and all doors and windows were closed. His condition is undetermined.

3 Hurt, 2 Escape As Auto Hits Pole

Injured Are Treated at Hospital After Crash in Anacostia Road.

Three persons were injured last night when an auto in which they were riding crashed into a telephone pole on Anacostia road near F street southeast. Two other occupants of the car escaped unhurt.

Injured were treated at Casualty Hospital. They were Earl C. Tallersen, 27 years old, 529 Tenth street southeast, possible fractured left leg and lacerations on hands and body; Miss Gertrude Kesterson, 17, 1117 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, lacerations and bruises; Lester Simmons, 26, Rosslyn, Va., possible fractured left arm. W. E. Oliver, 28, also of Rosslyn, and Miss Harriet Berry, 15, 623 G street southeast, refused hospital treatment and returned to their homes.

According to Tallersen, who was driving, the steering wheel was suddenly jerked from his hands and the car crashed head-on into a pole in the center of the street. Force of the impact broke the pole, the upper part of which crashed through the top of the machine. Witnesses declared the car was traveling at a high rate of speed.

Child of 6 Is Injured By Policeman's Auto

Melvin Eckloff, 6 years old, 1251 Eighth street northwest, was injured yesterday when struck by an automobile operated by Patrolman Clyde W. Strange, attached to the Second Precinct.

The child ran from between two parked cars on M street near Seventh street northwest into the path of Strange's private automobile, according to police. Strange took the boy to Sibley Hospital, where he is under treatment for a possible fracture of the skull and injuries of the legs.

GANGSTERS' INFLUX BLAMED IN PART ON THIRD DEGREE QUIZ

Fingerprints and Photos of Trio Being Sent to All of Larger Cities.

Belief that thieves and gangsters are flocking to Washington because they think police are afraid to use strong-arm methods because of the third degree probe, was advanced by authorities for the presence of the three men who were arrested Saturday night with an arsenal of guns, ammunition and a kit of burglars' tools.

The men were taken into custody by headquarters detectives after a tip had been received that they were in town. They are held on investigation charges in connection with the robbery of a bank at Hiawatha, Kans., early this month.

Each of the three has a police record and many aliases, according to police. They were booked as William Martin Tierney, 31; Albert Joseph Curley, 34; and Percy Michael Fitzgerald, 38. All are from St. Louis.

Travelers' Check Blanks.

In the loot from the Kansas bank was $4,290 in blank American Express Co. travelers' checks. Tierney was identified as the man who cashed a travelers' check for $50 at a local hotel, Patrick J. Lynch, an express company detective, who is tracing the checks, said.

When questioned last night by Detective Sergts. Joseph Waldron and Thomas Sweeney in an atempt to learn their plans or the connection in which they came to this city, the three revealed no information.

Photograph Mailed Out.

Fingerprints and photographs of the men are being mailed to police of all the larger cities to determine if they are wanted.

A further check of the description of the men wanted for the Hiawatha bank holdup and those of the three suspects revealed many differences, Capt. Edward Kelly said.

Following their arrest the trio led detectives to a hotel room where three revolvers, a gun for firing nitroglycerin cartridges, cartridges and a kit of burglar's tools were found.

Georgetown Head Speaks at Howard

Dr. Nevils Says Ideals Worldly and Christian Both Needed.

Dr. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of Georgetown University, spoke at divine service in Rankin Memorial Chapel of Howard University yesterday morning on the "Great, All-Around Ideal of Life, the Foundation of Which Is Developed, Materially and Spiritually, in Christianity."

"We are reminded that liberty and independence connote increasing responsibilities of individual citizens," he said. "Those who have firmly grasped certain practical ideas and developed them as standards of action are men and women of ideals, as contrasted with those whose actions are controlled by circumstances and chance. It is necessary for us to develop a worldy ideal as well as a Christian ideal. We must comprehend an all-around ideal which will make our words, thoughts and actions not slaves of impulse and circumstance, but slaves of ourselves, and we, the masters, guided by the principles of this ideal which are fundamental, practical and comprehensive."

Dr. Nevils was introduced by Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president of Howard. Musical numbers were furnished by the university choir under direction of Miss L. V. Childers.

Welfare Association Asks More Posts for Colored

Wider participation in administration of postoffices and branches in urban centers by colored men was discussed yesterday at a meeting of the Mutual Welfare Association in the offices of the National Alliance of Postal Employes, with a view to survey of opportunities for service in administrative capacities by colored men throughout the country, and the method of developing men to a point of fitness for such positions.

Among those who addressed the meeting were Capt. W. C. Davis, E. W. Wood and E. H. Lawson. Postmaster Mooney was commended for his fairness.

Death of Wife Causes Man to Ask for Probe

Spurgeon Stephens, of 621 Second street northwest, has asked Coroner Joseph D. Rogers to investigate the death of his wife, Okie, 28 years old, who died in Gallinger Hospital Thursday from uremic poisoning.

After her death, Stephens told the coroner, he noticed a bruise on the body. She did not have such a bruise when she was taken to the hospital, he said.

GIRL RESERVES PLAN FOR GOLDEN JUBILEE

Y. W. C. A. Organization to Aid Celebration of Fiftieth Anniversary.

Washington will be the focal point for the celebration of the golden jubilee of the Girl Reserves of the Young Women's Christian Association during the first week of November when 290,280 Girl Reserves in America will participate in the celebration of their fiftieth anniversary. Girl Reserves in 49 other countries will also recognize the anniversary. The national headquarters of the organization are in this city.

The observance here will begin on Sunday, November 1, when churches will offer special prayers at morning services for girls throughout the world. The formal candle light ceremonial of Girl Reserves will take place in the afternoon in Barker Hall, the Y. W. C. A. auditorium at Seventeenth and K streets northwest. The ceremony will be preceded by a reception to mothers of the 2,700 Girl Reserves in Washington at 4 o'clock.

Features of the jubilee include a musical program by the Girl Reserve Glee Club and a talk by Miss Mabel Cook, the Girl Reserve executive here, on Monday afternoon, November 2; the Girl Reserve birthday party will be held at 4 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. More than 1,000 guests are being invited and Girl Reserve presidents will attend.

From 3 o'clock to 4:30 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, Girl Reserve Clubs in various schools will entertain their faculty members. On Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the Girl Reserve rally will take place in the auditorium of Central High School.

The program, to be featured by the presentation of the Girl Reserve international folk festival, with music by the United States Army Band, will be broadcast by the National Broadcasting Co.

Music Day will be celebrated at 8 o'clock Friday evening at Barker Hall. American folk music will be rendered in festival form, and each club will take a definite part in the program. The Christmas Toy Shop of the Girl Reserves will be officially opened Saturday morning. The closing event will be an international friendship banquet at 7 o'clock Saturday evening in Barker Hall. Similar banquets will be held by Girl Reserves in 49 other countries.

DR. BRASKAMP TALKS ON NEW GENERATION

Pastor Points Out Some People Are Inclined to Question Youth.

Dr. Bernard Braskamp, of the Gunton Temple Memorial Presbyterian Church, spoke yesterday morning on "The New Generation," at a special service in which the officers and teachers of the church Sunday school were installed.

The pastor pointed out that some people are inclined to feel that it is an outrage that the youth of the present day are so different from the youth of their generation. He went on to say that he had absolute faith in the present generation of young people, "who seem ready for the greatest experiments of life."

In the course of his sermon Dr. Braskamp spoke of three of the "Assurances of Childhood and Youth." The first of these he spoke of as, "The one guarantee that the world will not stand still or grow old is the presence of children. "The dark shadows of depression that hang over the world at the present time would be a great deal darker if it were not for the presence of youth with its enthusiasm and hope," he said.

The second assurance of childhood and youth was explained as a development within our souls of some of life's highest virtues brought about by the presence of youth. "They have a distinct part in humanity's evolution toward the ideal human relationship," Dr. Braskamp said. "It was in the care of their helpless and dependent offspring that our primitive ancestors first gained the altruistic spirit, one of unselfish regard for others," he went on.

"Above all," the speaker said, "the rising generation of children gives us the assurance of the survival of the religious sentiment for the child with its purity and innocence of soul. This fells even the worst man with a yearning to respond to the call of a higher allegiance.

"Such a longing, which childhood awakens within the heart of maturity, is an absolute guarantee that humanity was never meant to break faith with the great spiritual realities."

Dr. Braskamp closed his sermon by indicating that the religious instruction that the Sunday school is seeking to give can best fulfill its purpose if mediated through parental cooperation.

THE ONCE OVER

IF THIS "POOLING" IDEA HITS MAIN STREET.

HORSEFLY CENTER—Seth Willoughby, this town's most prosperous butcher, closed his store yesterday so he could get time to attend to the business of lending money to three unsuccessful rivals who are on the verge of bankruptcy.

Luke Bogash, who opened a barber shop here several months ago but went fishing too often to make the business pay, announces that he will be kept going through a pool of other barbers who have devoted more time to business.

The many friends of Caspar Winch, local plumbing contractor, whose business has been close to the rocks on account of his failure to keep abreast of the times, will be glad to hear that he will be kept from further worries by contributions from competitors.

Tony Espolitto, the corner fruit stand proprietor, who has had no bananas for several weeks on account of poor credit, received 50 bunches this morning through the local banana dealers' pool. Now if Tony can get somebody to lend him some oranges and apples he may be able to continue in business.

Abner Hoosenfeldt, who was about to suspend his taxicab and hack business because he had let his equipment go to pieces, is pleased to announce that he will be able to continue operating, thanks to the loan of new cabs by successful competitors.

JIGGSBY CREEK—An appeal was made to Washington today by Harry and Luther Commorheck, proprietors of a local fish market. The appeal contends that inasmuch as they haven't been doing enough business to make both ends meet, it is up to the other two fish markets in this village to contribute so much a week to their support.

Judge Wallace B. Pruxley handed down a novel decision in the local court today in the case of Jeremiah P. Heemsby, sued by his wife for nonsupport He ruled that inasmuch as Mr. Heemsby didn't seem to be able to support his wife, all the more successful husbands in the village should contribute to a pool to make Mrs. Heemsby contented.

Acid Bath by Mistake Ends In Death of Boy at Hospital

A vigorous rub-down in which carbolic acid was substituted for the customary alcohol proved fatal to a 9-year-old patient at Freedmen's Hospital Friday morning, police were informed yesterday.

According to the story told police by hospital officials, the boy, Thomas Jefferson, of 2215 Twelfth street northwest, had been admitted to the institution on October 8 for treatment for a nervous affliction.

Last Friday a nurse was instructed to give the boy an alcohol bath. About ten minutes after giving him the rub-down she discovered that all was not well with her patient, and summoned Dr. Frank Twiggs and Dr. Lawrence Jackson, of the hospital staff.

The boy died within an hour, police were informed, the cause of death being ascribed as "an acid bath given by mistake." An investigation is being made by Coroner Joseph D. Rogers, who has not yet issued a death certificate. An inquest will be held at 11:30 o'clock this morning at the District Morgue.

FILM HOUSES HERE PLAN JOBLESS AID BY SPECIAL SHOWS

All Proceeds From Performances Will Be Used in Washington.

NOVEMBER 18-21 SET FOR CHARITY EXHIBITS

Expenses Entailed by Any Theater Will Be Borne by Management.

Plans for benefit shows to be presented on November 18 by about 40 representative motion picture theaters in Washington for aid of the jobless were announced last night by the Motion Picture Unemployment Relief Benefit Committee of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of the District.

All proceeds from the benefit performances will be turned over to local relief organizations for distribution exclusively in Washington, it was stated.

Special Programs.

Neighborhood picture houses will prepare special programs to be presented at their regular matinee show hours, while the Earle, Fox and Palace theaters downtown are to present a combination policy of screen and stage attractions at a special midnight showing.

John J. Payette, general manager of the Warner Theaters Co., which operates the Earl; Harry Crull, managing director of the Fox, and Colby Harrison, managing director of the Palace, have worked out a plan whereby the various civic organizations of the District will handle the sale of tickets which will be accepted for the midnight show at any of these three theaters. A similar ticket plan is being worked out for the neighborhood houses, it is announced.

Special Benefits.

The Columbia, Metropolitan, Rialto and RKO-Keith's theaters will not participate in the special program on November 18, but will offer midnight benefit shows on November 21 instead, with augmented feature attractions and a similar joint ticket plan, it is stated.

Not only are the theaters to turn over the proceeds of the benefit showings for unemployment relief, but it is stated that all theater owners, through the association, will bear any expenses which may be entailed in presenting the special programs.

Plans also are being worked out for the musicians, operators and stage hands to cooperate through their respective unions, and other members of the personnel in each of the theaters likewise are to donate their services.

John Martin to Lecture On Dance and Drama

John Martin, writer and dance critic of the New York Times, will give a series of lectures on the modern dance and drama, at the Caroline McKinley Studio, 1731 Eye street, this winter, beginning in November. The first two lectures will take up the dance, its changing forms, and a practical guide to modernism; the last two lectures will discuss the fine art of acting, and the contemporary theater.

The lectures will be given on November 12, December 10, January 14 and February 18.

Police Seek Pair Who Shot Cabman

V. A. Renshaw, Wounded by Two Robbers, in Critical Condition.

With Vernon A. Renshaw fighting for his life from a bullet wound in the abdomen, police are seeking to establish the identity of the two colored men who shot him in the back after they had robbed him of $25 in an alley on N street near Tenth street northwest yesterday.

Renshaw, a taxi driver, was shot by the bandits, who hired his car at Fourteenth and L streets northwest and directed him to the alley where they shot him. He was told to "walk down the alley and not to look around," and when he begged for mercy one of the men fired.

Police have only a meager description of the pair, but believe they are the same persons who have been holding up hackers in the last two months. Physicians at Emergency said that Renshaw was in a critical condition.

Government Worker Is Overcome by Gas

Herman Brumett, 54 years old, watchman at the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, was overcome yesterday by gas at his home, 311 Thirteenth street southwest. He is in an undetermined condition at Gallinger Hospital.

Brumett was found by his aunt, Dora Lippincott, who notified police. He was given emergency treatment by the fire rescue squad and Emergency Hospital doctors.

CHURCH DEDICATES MEMORIAL WINDOW

Presentation Is Made by Girls' Friendly Society to St. Paul's.

A memorial window, said to be the only one of its kind in the United States, presented by the Girl's Friendly Society, was dedicated at the morning service yesterday of St. Paul's Church of the Rock Creek Episcopal Parish.

The consecration prayer was offered by Canon Joseph Fletcher, of Washington Cathedral, rector emeritus of Rock Creek Parish. The window was unveiled by Miss Marion Miller, who has a perfect attendance record for the last four years at meetings of the society.

The window, from the studios of Clement Heaton, West Nyack, N. Y., is made of Georgian and Crissaile glass. It bears the facsimile of the Girls Friendly Society emblem, together with the motto of the society, "Bear ye another's burdens." It is the result of four years' work on the part of the society under the leadership of Miss Sadie Carlisle.

Relief Is Planned For Electricians

Guild and Brotherhood to Create Work by Modernizing Residences.

A plan to relieve unemployment in the electrical and construction industry was announced yesterday by the Electrical Guild of North America and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

The two organizations, comprising the contractors and workers, propose to create business and work in the industry by modernizing American homes, stores and buildings equipped before the era of rapid electrical development and known to be inadequately equipped.

If only 3 per cent of the potential market in the United States for repairs, extensions and wiring for new equipment is reached, it is estimated that the expenditure will amount to $126,000,000, divided roughly into $50,000,000 in wages and $76,000,000 for materials which, in turn, gets into wages. Idle electricians will be put into a house-to-house canvass.

Gas Fumes Fatal After Man Falls

William Huff, 22, Dies as Rescue Squad and Blood Transfusion Fail.

William Huff, 22, of 1331 D street northeast, died shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon from effects of gas fumes he inhaled when he stumbled and fell as he prepared to take a bath early yesterday.

Rosetta Brown, 27, a roomer of the same address, was believed to be recovering from effects of the fumes she received when she went to the bathroom upon noticing the odor.

Fire rescue squad members, who took Mr. Huff to Casualty Hospital when they responded to an alarm, worked in relays with the inhalator over the young man until shortly before he died. A blood transfusion also failed.

Pursuing Wrong Children For Own Nets His Arrest

It's a wise father who knows his own child these days, as John Walley, of 3120 Twelfth street northeast, has discovered during a brief dip into the bitter school of experience.

John, for some reason not yet quite clear but which may be revealed in Police Court this morning, has been roughing it out in the wide open spaces of the Washington Tourist Camp for the past few days, together with his two children. Mrs. Walley, meanwhile, appears to have been keeping the home fires burning at the Twelfth street address.

Life in The Great Outdoors, sleeping in a rude bivouack beneath the gleaming stars, was ideal, John found, except for one drawback: Keeping track of his offspring was a tough proposition. It was so tough, in fact, that John got all balled up, and it developed that whereas he thought he was chasing his own youngsters to put them to bed, in reality he was chasing all the rest of the kids in the camp instead.

The children, it appears, couldn't see this thing of being chased all around the place by a strange man, and ran screaming for their parents. When John was rescued from the infuriated mob of parents by United States Park Policeman John Compton and booked at the Fourth Precinct on a charge of intoxication he gave his occupation as "tourist," but indicated that perhaps he might be working at the wrong job.

IMMORTALITY PROOF IS SEEN BY MINISTER IN GENIUS OF EDISON

Inventor's Life Is Declared to Be Another Name for Self-Conquest.

Sermon Based on Spiritual Impression Delivered by Dr. H. S. Smith.

"In the complex of Edison's personality we see an amazing mind so big and baffling as to be beyond our understanding," said Dr. Herbert Scott Smith, of St. Margaret's Church, in a sermon yesterday morning. Dr. Smith spoke on the subject "Thomas A. Edison, a Spiritual Impression."

"Who can fathom genius?" he went on. "It has its own mould, goes its own way, is defiant of analysis and description.

"In his life there is a strikingly arresting quality, an infinite capacity for taking pains, a classic definition of genius, if not its explanation. The thoughts that surged through that mighty brain, the dream that was to became a deed, the vision a fact, were translated into action by hard, tireless, unremitting work, a program of self-expression.

Long Hours Recalled.

"Recall his working week of 112 hours, his long periods of absorbing effort in the laboratory in quest of a new discovery, and then consider his own estimate of his work stated with characteristic modesty: 'It is,' he said, '1 per cent inspiration and 99 per cent perspiration.' Now why did he live? What motivated his life?" Dr. Smith continued.

"We know it was not an urge for material things because he did not shrewdly capitalize his inventions. It was not his yearning for world acclaim as he never calculatingly worked for this."

"Jesus said, "he who would be great among you let him be your minister, and he who would be chief, let him be the servant.' In that spirit Edison lived and labored. Here we find the moving power of his life work. It was creative motive, a longing to lift, a desire to help the other man. With Carlyle he could say in the symbol of a half-burnt candle before him, 'Let me wear away as long as I am of use.'"

Life Was Self-Conquest.

"Ever attended by the vision splendid of a saner, sweeter and so happier common life, his work directed to such an end was lifted to the high plane of service and his life in its entirety was just another name for self-conquest leading to self-dedication.

"In the intimate journal of George Sand she writes: 'I remain a believer that evil will some day be vanquished by science, science illumined by love. On the stately shaft that will tower above his grave, or on the noble sarcophagus, could words be carved more faithfully descriptive of Thomas Edison and his imperishable work than these?" Dr. Smith suggested.

Turning the talk to the religious side of Edison's life, Dr. Smith said: "Some say that he had no religious experience. Can that be true? The demands of his scientifically trained mind for exact proof, clear demonstration, made it hard for him, as for every scientist, to accept the teachings of a dogmatic theology. Yet he firmly believed that in all and through all the natural order there was an informing, benevolent mind, a constructive will making for righteousness. I am sure, this being so, that he always found the universe friendly.

Proof of Immortality.

"Frankly agnostic as to a future life, it is said that during his last illness as he sat on the veranda at Menlo Park, his home, he fell asleep. In a little while he awoke with a smile glorifying his finely thoughtful face. Pointing beyond him, he said, 'It is very beautiful over there.' The best wine was kept for the last. The greatest discovery of his life was made when his sun was sinking behind the western hills.

"The light-bringer himself was now glimpsing the Christ who brought life and immortality to light. Such a life with its superb powers, with its high sense of stewardship expressed in the whole-hearted dedication of those powers to the common good, is the strongest argument, the clearest proof, that if a man die he will live again.

"There is only one stronger and that is found in Him who was once the Resurrection and the Life.

"Was not Maeterlinck right when he said, 'There are no dead.' And this soul tempered with fire, faithful servant of his country, benefactor of mankind, must find in what we call Paradise life's larger room," Dr. Smith concluded.

Christmas Seal Directors to Meet

Plans for 1931 Campaign to Be Discussed at Parley Today.

Plans for the 1931 Christmas Seal sale campaign will be formulated today by the directors of the Washington Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis at a meeting to be held in the Equitable Building.

The association's 1932 program also will come in for detailed discussion at the meeting, particularly with regard to enlargement of the children's health camp, now hopelessly overcrowded, and the possibility that the new camp at the site of the Children's Sanitarium may be ready for use next spring.

It is pointed out that latest records of the District Health Department show that there were 245 pulmonary cases and 425 juvenile pulmonary cases reported in the District as of October 8. To take care of these, the present health camp is barely able to accommodate 50 cases.

Bed Catches Fire, Woman Burned.

Lillie Ballard, 32 years old, of 1015 Eighth street northwest, was burned on the right side yesterday when the bed in which she was sleeping caught fire. She was treated for slight burns at Emergency Hospital.
